

PAINTINGS GO ON EXHIBITION

Mrs. P. A. Creelman and another lady with back to camera, are hanging one of the paintings which are on exhibition at the Civic Centre here. Mrs. Phil Barlow is shown to the left of Mrs. Creelman.

The paintings are all by artists from the "Group of Seven" and they will be on exhibit here until the end of the month. The members of the Prince Edward Island Art Society hope that as many as possible will take advantage of the opportunity to view the exhibit while it is here.

The paintings include some interesting scenes and portraits. One which took the eye is "John" by F. H. Varley. In it the artist has captured and placed on canvas the wistful look of a normal boy. The eyes seem peculiarly alive in this portrait by the member of the Group of Seven who is known especially for his portraits.

The "Group of Seven" is made up of Lawren Harris, A. Y. Jackson, J. E. H. MacDonald, Arthur Lismer, Frank Johnston, Frank Carmichael and Varley.

One biographer describes the Group of Seven as a "Canadian painters who have attracted attention because of the strong character of their work. They have drawn inspiration from Canada's great open spaces and have declined to follow old world models and methods.

Another biographer is not so kind and describes them as a group who banded themselves together for commercial reasons so they would attract more attention than they could hope to do individually.

One of the smaller paintings on exhibit "The Tangled Garden", was a controversial piece for a time after it was viewed by the public.

Dr. Arthur Lismer, is head of the Fine Arts department, McGill University. He was a pioneer in child art and he was official war artist for the Canadian Government in the First Great War.

Lismer was made the first national member of the Canadian Society for Education through Art.

France Warns She Will Seize Arms For Algeria

By GODFREY ANDERSON
PARIS (AP) — France served notice on the world's maritime nations Tuesday that she will seize any arms cargoes in Algerian waters that appear headed for rebels fighting the French army.

A spokesman for the foreign ministry made the statement at a press conference in a defence of the seizure Saturday of 150 tons of arms and munitions from the Yugoslav ship Slovenija.

In Belgrade, the semi-official news agency Yugopress said the French government "permitted itself to make a precedent in international relations which could have far-reaching consequences."

DEMANDS INDEMNITY

Yugopress did not say what the consequences might be but declared the Yugoslav government "is firm in its demand for damage and satisfaction." It called the seizure "pirate action" by a friendly country.

The French said the arms had been purchased in Czechoslovakia and were destined for the Algerian rebels via a well-known agent operating in Casablanca.

The Yugoslavs said the arms were consigned to Morocco for later shipment to the Yemen. Moroccan official sources said they knew nothing of the consignment.

The Slovenija was seized in the Mediterranean en route to Casablanca. She was taken to the Algerian port of Oran and her arms cargo unloaded. Later the vessel was allowed to resume its voyage.

LIMITS EXTENDED

The French met official Yugoslav protests that the seizure was made on the high seas by saying they intercepted the ship within the 50-kilometre (31-mile) limit they patrol as protection against gun-running. They denied they had violated international law when they announced this extension of Algeria's coastal waters more than a year ago.

"It was a special situation," the foreign ministry spokesman said. "We received no protests when we published the decree."

He hinted that the French government might consider some form of indemnity to the owners of the Slovenija for time lost during the stop in Oran but would pay nothing for the cargo.

In Casablanca, the man to whom the arms shipment was consigned, Mohamed Laraki, told French reporters the arms were for Yemen. However, he would not say how he planned to transport them.

Injured City Boy Is Flown To Halifax For Treatment

Jack Kennedy, 16-year old city youth injured Friday night at the Sports Arena, is under specialist care at the Royal Victoria Hospital, Halifax, where he arrived yesterday afternoon via MCA's regular flight.

Caught by a flying skate during a minor melee that broke out during a game between the Provincial Vocational School and Queen Charlotte High, the speedy forward suffered a cut to his right leg deep enough to sever the large artery. He had been hospitalized here ever since.

The youth was accompanied to Halifax by his special nurse, Mrs. Isaac Tuplin, R.N.

A son of Mr. and Mrs. Forbes Kennedy Sr., the injured youth is a brother to Forbes Jr., of the Detroit Red Wings, P. E. I.'s sole representative in the NHL.

Mr. Kennedy stated last night that he was leaving for the N. S. capital today.

Move To Spur Business In The United States

WASHINGTON (AP)—The federal reserve board Tuesday approved a cut in the discount rate by the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia to 3 1/2 per cent from three per cent effective today.

The action was another in the series of moves in recent months to spur business activity.

The discount rate is the interest that federal reserve banks charge their member banks for loans. Lowering the rate makes it easier for the banks to borrow and this in turn makes it easier for them to lend money.

Although the Philadelphia bank was the only one of the 12 reserve institutions involved in Tuesday's action, the other reserve banks were expected to follow suit in a few days.

Until mid-November the discount rate, buoyed by a two-year-long business boom, had stood at 1/2 per cent, highest since the Korean War.

Starting Nov. 15, when the signs of business recession became unmistakable and the demand for credit slackened appreciably, the 12 banks reduced their rate to three per cent.

Last week, in another recession-countering move, the reserve board slashed stock market margin requirements to 50 per cent from 70.

Consider Seeking Fireproof Building For Gallery, Museum

The possibility of approaching the Canada Council with a view to obtaining a fireproof building to house an Historical Museum, the Camera Club and an Art Gallery was discussed here last night at the annual meeting of the Prince Edward Island Art Society. The society decided to write to the Historical Society and the Camera Club to discuss the possibility of taking such action.

John Taylor, the vice-president, presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. A. E. Davies who is residing in Florida at present owing to health reasons. He also gave the president's report. Mr. Taylor was thanked for the capable job he did in stepping into the presidency and a personal message of thanks and appreciation is being extended to Mrs. Davies.

The report noted that the Maritime Art Association's annual meeting was held here in May and had been reported capably by Miss Hazel Hunter and Mrs. Philip Barlow, the delegates to the meeting from the society.

There was four exhibits of paintings during the year, main activity of the society were painting sessions in the club room and paintings and self-portraits of often meetings.

Mrs. E. B. Ellis was chosen as president for the coming year. Mrs. Philip Barlow is the vice-president, Mrs. D. R. George is secretary and Miss Gladys Taylor is the secretary. The program committee comprises Miss Eleanor Lowe and Miss Hazel Hunter.

The executive consists of Mrs. D. M. Gass, Mrs. P. A. Creelman, Mrs. L. T. Lowther and Miss Margaret Irving.

The nominating committee's report was submitted by the chairman, Miss Margaret Irving.

Trade Minister Denies Backing Private Group

OTTAWA (CP) — Trade Minister Churchill denied Tuesday his department is sponsoring a private organization which, in the words of an opposition questioner, would "divert trade from the United States to the United Kingdom."

Fred S. Zaplitzky (CF—Dauphin) asked in the Commons for a report on progress in setting up such an organization.

Mr. Churchill said a similar question Monday was based on "press speculation."

The minister and Mr. Zaplitzky apparently were referring to a Canadian Press reports that an expanded organization of businessmen will be set up to encourage increased exports from Britain. The report said that initially the federal government may advance funds to finance its administration.

The proposal for such an organization was made by James S. Duncan of Toronto, deputy leader of Canada's trade mission to Britain, at a meeting here of members of the mission who gathered to prepare their final report of their British tour in November and December.

Fighting Erupts In Caracas With Start Of General Strike

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Fighting erupted in Caracas Tuesday with the start of a general strike against the regime of President Marcos Perez Jimenez.

Shooting was heard in several parts of the city. There were reports many persons were injured, but these accounts could not be confirmed immediately.

(Reports reaching Washington said 20 persons were killed and 100 injured in street riots in Caracas, and 1,000 were arrested. They said the fighting occurred in a workers' area in an old section of the capital.)

(Rigid censorship in Venezuela held up direct word of the extent of the strike and accompanying violence.

(A Venezuelan government radio broadcast heard in neighboring Colombia said the Perez Jimenez regime had hit back at its opposition with a 6 p.m. to 5 a.m. curfew and orders to its soldiers to shoot "at any element trying in any way to damage property.")

Troops began patrolling Caracas at 6 p.m.)

The call for a general strike was issued by an underground organization calling itself the Patriotic Military Junta. Its appeal was aimed at forcing out Perez Jimenez or at least gaining a voice in the government for the political opposition.

Complains That Unemployment Is Misrepresented

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Michael Starr complained Tuesday that there is a "great deal of misrepresentation" about unemployment figures in Canada.

He said the only official figure on unemployment is the one prepared by the bureau of statistics.

The bureau reported Monday the number of unemployed at mid-December was 386,000.

At the same time, in the Commons, Mr. Starr reported that the National Employment Service had 796,371 applications for jobs on file at Jan. 9.

OFFICIAL REASON

The official explanation for the difference between the two figures is that many persons looking for new jobs through National Employment Service already have other employment but want to change jobs.

Mr. Starr complained specifically about a Canadian Press story in Tuesday's Toronto Globe and Mail, the headline on which said: "796,371 Canada jobless record for postwar period."

The CP Ottawa dispatch, however, said that this figure does not indicate absolute unemployment, and then gave the figure of 386,000 issued by the bureau of statistics.

Mr. Starr said it was not the policy of the former Liberal government to issue the National Employment Service figure.

New Trade Link With Great Britain Was Born Tuesday

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP) — A new trade link with Britain was born Tuesday. It is to be christened the Canada-United Kingdom Trade Council.

Members of the Canadian trade mission to Britain, in completing their final report, formally proposed organization of the new body to be headed at least for one year by James S. Duncan of Toronto, Ontario Hydro chief and deputy leader of the mission's month-long tour of Britain last November-December.

The new organization, to launch a new drive to increase imports from Britain, is being built out of the long-established Dollar Sterling Trade Council, which Mr. Duncan also headed.

The present council's membership of some 25 business men is to be doubled by the inclusion of part of the 50-man mission team. The new and enlarged organization is to have its main headquarters in Toronto and be bolstered by a deputy chairman, executive committee, regional directors and committees.

PERMANENT OFFICE

A permanent secretary is to be selected and also located in Toronto. The mission announced that the Canadian government has offered to pay the secretary's costs. As yet no final decision has been taken on the offer, though it appears likely it will be accepted. Selection of the secretary is to be made later.

David Woods of Toronto, president of Gordon Mackenzie and Co. Ltd., told a press conference the real problem is not to provide changes in existing duties or tariffs but to encourage the U.K. exporter to sell in Canada on Canadian standards and terms.

Reporters questioned mission members as to when they thought it likely that Canada would achieve the goal set out by Prime Minister Diefenbaker to divert 15 per cent of Canada's imports from the United States to Britain.

Mr. Duncan said the new council is not setting out with any specific goal in mind. The 15 per cent was a "colorful objective."

The new council would attempt to keep "progressing" towards that figure.

HAPPY TO FORGET

Mr. Woods said the mission, made up mostly of prominent Canadian businessmen, "would be just as happy to forget that 15 per cent."

Trevor Moore of Toronto, vice-president of Imperial Oil Limited, and head of the mission's "continuing committee," said encouragement of imports from Britain might cut into Canada's imports from the U.S. but he didn't think it was a good thing to tell one customer away from him and give it to someone else.

Reporters asked Mr. Duncan just how the new council would work to increase exports. Would its members become "salesmen" for Britain? No, replied Mr. Duncan, the council might make suggestions of how British exporters could sell more in Canada but members themselves would not become salesmen. They merely would offer assistance and advice.

Sets Altitude Mark For Women

STEWART AIR FORCE BASE, N.Y. (AP) — Ruth Nichols, a pioneer pilot, flew as a passenger Tuesday at an altitude of 51,000 feet, believed to be the highest ever reached by a woman.

Headquarters of the eastern air defence command said she was on a routine orientation flight in a U.S. air force TF-102 which took off and landed at Suffolk county airport on Long Island.

The headquarters said the highest a woman had flown previously was believed about 48,000 feet.

Miss Nichols, 55, a lieutenant-colonel in the civil air patrol, made the flight in conjunction with her patrol activities.

Miss Nichols began flying in 1919 and in 1931 tried to fly the Atlantic but cracked up at Saint John, N.B.

Adenauer Says More Talks And Fewer Letters

BOONN (Reuters) — Chancellor Konrad Adenauer Tuesday night called for more diplomatic talks and fewer diplomatic letters to bring about East-West agreement.

The chancellor's appeal was made in a letter replying to two letters from Soviet Premier Bulganin in December and January.

Diplomatic talks at a lower level, the West German leader said, could pave the way for an East-West meeting of foreign ministers and eventually of heads of government.

The 82-year-old chancellor said his government fully adopted the proposals made in President Eisenhower's letter to Bulganin earlier this month.

PROPOSALS IN LETTER

These, he said, included an agreement that outer space should be used only for peaceful purposes, an agreement to halt the unlimited production of nuclear weapons and for the final abolition of nuclear weapons tests under effective controls.

Adenauer pledged that his country would never participate in a war of aggression.

Found Russian Life Very Drab

LONDON (CP) — A Canadian newspaperman who travelled in Russia by automobile said Tuesday his predominant impression was of the "tremendous drabness" of life and material conditions generally.

Jack Stepler, London representative of the Southern Newspapers of Canada, told the Maple Leaf luncheon club that his second main impression was that "no body tries to sell you anything."

To a Westerner accustomed to courtesy in stores and restaurants, the effect was a little unfamiliar.

Geoff Ward, secretary of the Canadian chamber of commerce in Great Britain, said in thanking the speaker he would like to know what Stepler "really thinks" about Russia.

In reply Stepler said it might look glamorous, as in the films he had shown to illustrate his talk, but the feeling you had when you were there was of the reverse of glamor.

Stepler, chairman of the luncheon club, visited Russia last year.

Palace Reports Publicity Worry

LONDON (CP) — Buckingham Palace's press spokesman said Tuesday the private lives of the Royal Family are being "increasingly disrupted" by some newspapers.

He asked the Press Council, custodian of journalistic standards, what can be done about it.

The spokesman, Cmdr. Richard Colville, made the comment in the course of talks with the council designed to improve relations between the palace and the press. The discussions will continue.

Ask What About Liquor Question

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Saint John municipal council decided Tuesday to ask the New Brunswick government what it intends to do about the liquor question in the province.

Mayor W. W. MacCauley, who made the motion, said some change was necessary in the interests of New Brunswick's tourist industry. His motion called for a resolution to be forwarded to the government.

He said a previous request by the council for a review of the liquor act had not been acted upon and a new one should be sent. Council approved the motion.
