OTTAWA, June 9.

An immense crowd assembled yesterday afternoon at the Parliament building. The galleries were filled to overflowing. The chamber was wreathed in black, and Sir John's chair was heavily draped with black cloth. On his desk lay a magnificent pillow of white roses, lilies and carnations, bearing the inscription "Our Chief." Hon. Alexander McKenzie was present, quivering with emotion and shedding tears.
In the Senate, Hon. Mr. Abbott made the announcement, and was followed by Mr. Scott and Mr. Tasse, speaking in French.
In the House Sir Hector Langevin announced Sir John's death, and paid an elegant tribute to his memory. Sir Hector was greatly affected, and although he had committed his remarks to paper, he broke down several times. He moved, seconded by Mr Laurier, that the funeral should be a public one, and that the House concur in giving to the ceremony a fitting degree of solemnity and importance.
Laurier made a splendid speech of considerable length, which is everywhere highly commended, and Nicholas Flood Davin also spoke eloquently.
The House then adjourned till the sixteenth inst.
The remains of Sir John were removed from Earncliffe last night to the Senate chamber, where they now lie in state, guarded by the members of the Conservative party, who will relieve each other at intervals until to-morrow, when the funeral takes place.
The vast state cortege will start from the main tower of the Parliament building's entrance at one o'clock to-morrow for St. Alban's Church, where the office for the dead will be said, thence by C. P. R. to Kingston.
All the railway stations along the line to Kingston will be draped in mourning.
The Supreme Court adjourned yesterday for one week on account of the sad event.
From all parts of Canada, from the United States and Great Britain messages of condolence have been received.
All the principal hotels, stores and banks have been draped.
The Ontario hierarchy of the Catholic Church sent a joint letter of sympathy to Lady Madonald.
Laurier's speech closed with the following noble words: "Before the grave of him who above all was the father of Confederation let not grief be barren grief, but let grief be coupled with the work in which Liberals and Conservatives, let us hope that the work in which Brown and Macdonald united, shall not perish, but that though united Canada may be deprived of the services of her greatest son, yet still Canada shall and will live."
The Senate Chamber in which the body will lie in State presents a magnificence of mourning emblems such as is seldom seen. All the seats have been removed, and over the scarlet carpet a white linen covering has been laid, against which the sombre draperies of the wall and railings seem doubly dark by contrast.
Simplicity is the chief characteristic of the emblems, as if the well known wishes of the departed statesman had been studied to the letter. The brass rods trailing at either end of the Chamber are wrapped in crape right up to the white shaded gas burners which surmount them. The red and gold curtains about the throne and the throne itself are mantled over with mourning ensigns.
The pedestal upon which the casket will be placed is a simple elevated stand, wreathed in deep black cloth, with black silk fringe and silken cords. At the eastern side and facing the catafalque stands a solemn shield bearing a portrait of the sovereign, whose faithful and devoted adviser he was for many years in the state. A barrier is erected around this shield which is also an ensign entwined.

Weather Bulletin.

TORONTO, June 9.—10 a. m.
Moderate westerly winds, fine and warm.

The Georgetown Driving Park.

For some time Mr. John Kenney has been superintending the fitting up of the track at Georgetown so as to have it in first-class order for the races on Dominion Day. This track stood wonderfully well during the winter, and with the improvements lately placed upon it, will be second to no race-course in the Maritime Provinces. Already a number of horsemen have intimated their intention of taking part in the races; and the free-for-all promises to be the most keenly contested race ever trotted in this Island. Horses from Charlottetown, Summerside, Pictou and St. John are expected, and, in all probability, some of them will go into the 2.30 list on the 1st July.
Mr. Lester Hayden was in Georgetown last week with two fast horses, and gave them some preparatory work on the track. He will probably enter both of them for the races. Mr. Hibbett's Honest John is looking fine this spring, and will make it hot for his opponents in the 2.45 class.
There is all chance of good racing on the Georgetown track on Dominion Day, and the energetic committee in charge of the arrangements are bound to leave nothing undone to secure honest, square work.
