CANADIAN SOLDIERS

Winning the Admiration of Lord Roberts.

Lord Roberts in his reports to the War Office has on more than one occasion alluded to the brilliant dashes of the Canadian troops. "Bobs" evidently thinks the Canadians are the right kind of men, for he keeps them right at the front with him and they are prominent factors in the successful march to Pretoria. The Canadian Boys seem to be in love with their great commander too, for every letter from the boys shows the confidence they have in him and their determination to fight under him. Lord Roberts' tributes to the Canadian soldiers have made him dear to the hearts of all Canadians, for there are few who have not some friend, relative, or acquaintance, fighting with him. Bobs would get a great welcome if he ever should visit Canada.

Our readers will be glad of the opportunity to secure a really handsome portrait of the great general, and we are glad to be able to present such an opportunity. The Family Herald and Weekly Star of Montreal have had painted by one of the World's best artists a truly handsome picture, acknowledged by Military authorities to be the most life-like portrait of Lord Roberts yet produced. It is 17x22 inches, on excellent paper. This picture should be in every Canadian home. In years to come it will be the pride of many a Canadian to say, "My father fought under that man!" Canadian children now growing up will never forget "Bobs," the pride of the nation. This picture is placed within the reach of all. They would sell at one dollar each in any store, but we have made exceptionally favourable terms with the Family Herald by which all our readers can secure it. We offer THE WEEKLY EXAMINER and The Family Herald and Weekly Star for the balance of 1900, including Lord Roberts' picture, for the small sum of eighty cents. To our present subscribers whose subscriptions for the year are paid we offer the Family Herald for the balance of 1900 and Lord Roberts' picture for only 60c. If after receiving the picture subscribers who do not think it worth more than the money paid for paper and picture they have the right to demand a refund of the amount. The offer is open for a limited time only.

"A YOUNG WIFE."

The merit of this play is winning admiration wherever it is staged. The Halifax Daily Echo of the 1st inst., says:

The Frank Tannehill, Jr., Company made a hit last night at the Academy. "A Young Wife," a play entirely new to Halifax, was well staged, well costumed and well played. In this comedy-drama there is fun of a clean, wholesome sort, with very little hint of horse-play, to cause considerable laughter, enough pathos to touch tenderer sentiment, and enough of the tragic, terrible side of life.

The plot is laid in the two extremes of New York life, the opening and closing scenes being in a beautiful suburban residence, and the intermediate in the slums of New York, the den on Baxter Street.

Judson Douglas, the wealthy New Yorker, had one son, a dissolute person, whom it became necessary to disown, and a young daughter. Needing an heir, Mr. Douglass adopts his nephew, Clarence, who naturally becomes an object of dislike to the disinherited son. The son, known as Charles Clemens, became associate and confederate of a gang of desperate thieves and housebreakers and is recognized as the captain of the band in the den.

The adopted son, Clarence, marries a young and pretty girl of whose parentage he knows nothing, but the play developes that she too has been in early infancy an inmate of this infamous Den, but is as unscathed as Oliver Twist was after his sojourn at Fagin's. She runs away and is adopted by well-to-do people and after a lapse of ten years marries Clarence Douglass, little suspecting that this is to bring her again in contact with her old life through Charles Clemens who being at his father's home immediately recognizes in the young bride the child of the den.

Mr. Frank Tannehill, jr., as Horace Greengage Dobbins, made a most decided hit. His experience in the city helped to cut his wisdom teeth, and he it was who finally succeeded in unravelling the tangled thread of circumstances.

But Miss Florence Ashbrooke was not a whit behind Mr. Tannehill in portraying the character of the young wife. The last scene where, by her woman's wit and cunning she secures the murderer, thus clearing herself and her husband of the charge, was a superb bit of acting, true to life.

That the audience was in sympathy with the actors and thoroughly enjoyed the presentation, was evidenced by the rounds of hearty applause, and the five curtain calls at the close of the second act were a safety valve allowing the excess of excitement to escape. The play will probably be greeted with large audiences during its short run here.

His Lordship Bishop Macdonald officiated at High Mass and at Vespers and Benediction, assisted by the Cathedral clergy and the clergy of St. Dunstan's College. FROM MONTREAL.—The steamer Bonavista, Captain Fraser, arrived in Charlottetown yesterday afternoon about three o'clock, bringing a large general cargo and the following passengers: Mr I D Thurston, Mrs I D Thurston, Miss A N Thurston, Miss R C Thurston, Mr Syd Thurston, Mr H L Chaplin, Mr H H Cowperthwaite, Rev Father L Hayden, Sister M Marie, Sister Agatha, Miss Lizzie Hayden, Thomas Kelly, Miss Flannigan, Miss Wilex, Miss Brown and three steerage passengers. The steamer left on return this afternoon, with a cargo which included 94 head cattle, 3 horses, 50 sheep, 300 bags oats, 100 tons hay and a quantity of general merchandize.

OVER THE BANK.—Yesterday nine men from Charlottetown paid a visit to McNally's Island, East River. The sail from the city was greatly enjoyed, and after landing the party set out to inspect the place. They had not proceeded far before a flock of sheep was met. The sheep looked with suspicion upon the intruders and one of the species remarkable for his batting proclivities came out from the flock and showed fight. With head down and fire in his eye he singled out one of the crowd as his special prey and made after him. Deeming discretion the better part of valor the individual referred to made a break for the shore, the pursuing animal accelerating his movements by attacking his rear guard. Finally the bank overlooking the shore was reached and over it went the fleeing visitor while the victor tossed his head and looked down on his victim. The visitors did not remain much longer on the Island, and during the run home the individual who had been so ignominiously ousted was not as communicative as usual. A posse commitatus is spoken of for next Sunday.
