

S'ide All Set To Observe Hallowe'en Monday Night

Hallowe'en in Summerside will be observed on Monday evening, and the Kinsmen Club will again entertain the children who will participate in a big street parade and party at the Curling Rink.

In the early evening the party will belong to the children up to nine years of age, and at 8:30 o'clock the older children will have their party.

The children up to nine years of age will attend the first party which starts at seven o'clock and they will enter and leave the rink by the south door on Court Street. The party for the children over nine years of age will start at 8:30 and they are asked to gather at the north door on Notre Dame Street and they will be admitted after the younger children leave.

The parade, which will be headed by the beautiful show-horse Johnny Doughboy ridden by Mrs. Alan Wedlock, will start off from the C. N. R. Station at 6:15. All the children in their costumes are asked to be at the station by six o'clock. The band of the Sea Cadet Corps will lead the parade. The band will march through the courtesy of the commanding officer of the Sea Cadet Corps, Lt. D. L. Miller, and will be under the command of Lt. Gabriel Chlason.

As the parade passes the Federal Building on Central Street, fireworks that have been purchased for this event will be set off by Mayor Wedge.

The program at the rink will consist of band selections, entertainment by Dick Turpin from Charlottetown, costume judging and presentation of prizes. As each child leaves, a bag of treats will be given him.

Chairman of the committee in charge of Kinsmen Club party is Cliff Ramsay and Maurice Mill will be master-of-ceremonies.

Visiting At The Alberton Rectory

Captain Cleveland, who has been a master of deep sea schooners in the salt fishing trade for many years, was interested in the plants at Souris which he visited Wednesday as well as the chip factory and also in the Island cheese factories. While here he said he was having his fill of good Malpeque oysters "a treat for any man."

ALBERTON W. I.

The October meeting of Alberton W. I. was held at the home of the secretary, Mrs. Arthur Wilkie with Mrs. Joseph Callaghan presiding.

Following opening of the meeting with the singing of "O Canada" and repeating the Creed, minutes were read and a questionnaire which had been left over from last meeting was discussed and filled out to be returned to the head office. Some members had completed a knitted square for blankets for Greek earthquake victims. Institute News was distributed. Correspondence included a letter from Mr. V. Hodson of the T. B. League annual meeting and one from the advertising manager of Quaker Oats Co. whereby coupons and box tops of his company's products could be redeemed through the W. I. and it was decided to accept the offer.

Mrs. C. H. Weeks reported that the interior of the hall had been painted. She also reported that fuel for the hall would soon be needed. The school committee, Mrs. Thomas Phillips and Mrs. Albert Noonan, reported that the teachers had need of several articles of equipment including maps, seat work material and equipment for experiments in their science studies. The visiting committee reported thirteen home and thirteen hospital calls.

Plans were made to hold a dance and the following committee was named to make necessary arrangements: Mrs. J. A. Noonan, Mrs. O. H. Phillips, Mrs. Thomas Phillips and Mrs. Joseph Callaghan.

It was decided to have a turkey dinner in connection with the annual meeting when members will answer the roll call with membership fees.

When the meeting had adjourned a social hour was enjoyed. Refreshments were served by the hostesses assisted by Mrs. Gerald Rooney and Mrs. Clayton Travers.

By-election Called In Third Prince

Writs have been issued for a Provincial by-election in the Third District of Prince to fill the vacancy of Assemblyman caused by the recent resignation of Mr. J. Wilfrid Arsenault, formerly Minister without Portfolio in the Liberal Government.

Nomination Day will be Nov. 15. Should the Liberal candidate, J. A. Gallant, Summerside, be opposed, the election will be held on Nov. 29. Mr. Gallant was nominated as Liberal candidate for Assemblyman at Summerside at a Liberal convention on Wednesday which also nominated Frank MacNutt, Malpeque, as councillor.

Mr. J. Wilfrid Arsenault was first elected to the Provincial Legislature at a general election in 1947. He was re-elected on April 26, 1951, and was appointed minister without portfolio in the Jones Cabinet in 1948. On Feb. 12, 1948, he was appointed Provincial Secretary. On May 25, 1953, when the Hon. A. W. Matheson became Premier owing to the elevation of Premier Jones to the Senate, Mr. Arsenault once more became Minister without Portfolio, a position from which he resigned a few months ago.

S'ide High Notes

By Betty Enman

At last Summerside High School is to have (as we write it) a school dance (as you read it) a school dance. A masquerade dance at St. Mary's Hall whose authorities kindly gave the school council the hall for that purpose. We hope all the pupils had an enjoyable time.

Elizabeth Bowness, last year's "Queen of Summerside Academy" travels to Amherst this morning to compete with other High School Queens in the Maritimes. We wish her the best of luck. Do your darndest to bring home the title, Liz.

Bowling was held as usual on Wednesday with June Wood having high single and high three for the girls. Her scores were 200 and 507. For the boys, Don Gay took high single with 307, and Stan Gay topped high three with 732. A brother act, congratulations.

Team scores were as follows: Summerside Co-op, 2770, Edwin Heckbert Studios, 2665, Jenkins Groceries 2720, Amalgamated Dairies 2574, C. J. R. W. 2417, Mutt's Guys and Gals 2394, Imperial Esso (Read's Corner) 2371, Vic's Fish and Chips 2197.

We have been writing our first exams of the year this past week. Results will soon be coming in to determine how we are getting along this year.

Lions Club Organized At O'Leary; Officers Elected

At this meeting the following partial slate of officers was elected and the balance of the slate will be elected at a meeting of the newly organized club on Tuesday night: President, Ralph K. Adams; First Vice-President, R. Kenneth Matheson; Secretary-Treasurer, Dr. William A. MacMurdo; Tail Twister, Lloyd G. Matthews; Directors, Wendell B. Turner, R. Bruce MacNaught.

The charter night chairman will be Gerald Matthews and the date when the charter meeting will be held will be decided on later. Both

Sport Echoes From Prince County

Capitol Alleys, All-Stars and Clippers remain at the top of the heap (and believe me, twenty-six teams is some heap) after two weeks of play in the Summerside commercial (mixed) Bowling League. These three teams have eight points, picking up all the marbles in both their nights of play. MacQuarries are breathing down their necks with seven points, and Meteor Taxi, the Red Coats and Andy's are next in line with six points apiece. There never has been more enthusiasm in Summerside about bowling than is in evidence this fall. There are comparatively few weak teams in contention, and the league should be a dog fight, tag fashion, all through the winter.

We had a letter from Dr. King Grady of Vancouver recently telling us the main features of the sports picture on the Canadian Pacific Coast. King was one of Summerside's most talented baseball players way back when D. O. Stewart, Frank Lytle, Mr. Harry Horton, Robert (D.A.) Morrison, Wilf Kelly and other old-timers were by-words among the sporting fraternity of the town. Joe McCullough and Archie MacMurdo were the boys with the breast protectors and masks who stood behind the catcher, and while the catchers caught the balls, caught all the uncomplimentary remarks from the grandstand, which the protector and pro were no protection against. McCullough has long since departed. But Morrison is still one of the popular Dentists of our town.

Grady played shortstop and, according to reports from fans of those days, none of our present players, including "Mr. Shortstop" Landry himself, had anything on him. For brilliant play, Don Noonan was just breaking into the game in those early days, and he became one of Summerside's best mound artists. The old-timers in these parts refuse to admit that Willie Mays' catch in the last World Series was and any more spectacular than the day that Don Stewart climbed the centrefield fence and caught a fly hit by a visiting player on a team coming from the States.

King Grady came back to Summerside last summer and renewed old acquaintances, besides making some new ones. He talked over C. J. R. W. and we think could have been a real success as a sports commentator. The general doctor says he may visit us again in the not too distant future, and the next time, instead of taking his car, he proposes to fly down. He will certainly be welcome by all sports fans anytime he chooses to make the long hop.

Vance Harris is still with the Islanders, and although we saw him only the first evening, reports have it that he is improving steadily under the coaching he receives in the Capital City. The Islanders are at the foot of the ladder, but we think they will be clawing their way to higher perch before very long.

Hunters' Corner

day only flush 8 or 10 birds they are inclined to jump to the conclusion that the hunters shot 15 the day before. More likely it was only 4 or 5.

It is the consensus of opinion that 50 per cent of the U. S. hunters who come to this province to hunt Huns are poor shots, particularly on the covey rise. 25 per cent are rated fair while the remaining 25 per cent are able to take their place beside the best of upland game bird hunters. To my knowledge only a select few took out of the province the quota of 40 birds allowed. In checking over 30 Game Census returns I find they didn't average 3 birds per day per hunter. Many of those who come here from the States are pretty sharp shots on woodcock and Ruffed grouse but the sudden flurry and commotion of a covey rise has them baffled. There are days with all the experience I have, had with Huns when I am slightly bewildered myself. I have walked in front of the Pointers in bare, weather beaten stubble, zig zagged back and forth and have figured that the "point" was false, meaning that the abandoned farm in a mixture of tall grass, spruce and alders. The dogs found them three times and their guns volleyed and thundered (I wasn't carrying one) on each occasion but when the smoke of battle blew away the covey was still at full strength as it zoomed over a high spruce wood and left the hunter. All I can say is not to let them sleep over all our Huns being shot... when that happens there'll be nothing much left to shoot. The brown thunderbolts can take it almost as good as the cagey pheasant.

I don't think for a moment there is any danger of our Hun population being whittled down to the

Church Leadership Training School At Summerside

—Rev. Robert P. Carter, B.A., B.D., assistant secretary of the Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church in Canada assisted by Miss Margaret MacDougall, regional secretary for Christian education in the Maritime Synod, on Thursday and Friday evenings conducted a church leadership training school in the Summerside Presbyterian hall. Representatives from Malpeque, Kensington, North Tryon, Tyne Valley, and Summerside attended.

An instructive discussion "A three-fold program for teenagers" was shared by Rev. Carl Currie, convener of Christian education for Prince Edward Island Presbytery, Rev. Robert Carter, Miss Margaret MacDougall and Mrs. W. E. Forbes. Slides on Sigma-C and C.G.T. were shown.

Last evening special emphasis was placed on training for prospective leaders. Mrs. D. Mawhinney was pianist during the worship services.

Richard-Gaudet Wedding

—St. Paul's Church, Summerside, was the scene of a wedding on Monday, October 18, at 8 o'clock a. m. when Dorothy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Gaudet, and Joseph Peter Richard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dolor Richard, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. Msgr. G. L. MacLellan performed the ceremony and celebrated the nuptial mass. Mrs. C. Roy Ahern was in charge of the wedding. Mrs. Charles Cahill, who sang appropriate hymns.

The bride was given in marriage by her father and was lovely in her wedding gown of white nylon net over satin. The strapless bodice was topped with a bolero of Chantilly lace with long sleeves tapering to points over the hands and Peter Pan collar. The bouffant skirt was white tulle. The shoulder-length veil was held in place with a tiara trimmed with bead pearls. She carried a shower bouquet of red carnations with maiden hair fern and baby's breath.

Miss Joyce Gaudet was her sister's bridesmaid and was given in nile nylon net over taffeta with matching headpiece and she carried a nosegay of yellow mums. Mr. Eugene Richard was his brother's groomsmen.

Following the ceremony a reception for 45 guests was held at Birch Hill Lodge where the bride's table with its artistic arrangement of Autumn flowers and lighted tap-danger point by hunting. Any species of game bird that has to depend upon the generosity and forbearance of hunters for survival might as well fold up and quit at the start. The Huns are learning new tricks with each succeeding season. They'll keep moving in front of the dogs almost as fast as a hunter can walk. When I see Timmy or Sambo inching ahead as I walk up for the shot I keep moving fast. I have crossed 10 acre uncultivated hayfield, and not in a straight course either, before the covey took to the air. I keep glancing back at the dogs trailing close behind and if I note they are headed right or left as the case may be I also change direction fast.

Experienced Hun hunters are inclined to blame the harassing tactics of foxes for the changed behavior of the covey's. That could be but I have a hunch the cagey Hun is doing some deep thinking on how to hold their fire as the Horsemen of the stubble, so named on account of the black horse shoe on the breast of the male bird, are nobody's fools. This season I was requested to take out two game men from New Hampshire for a day with the Huns. I was told that a covey hung out in a large stubble field immediately behind a farmer's barn.

I sent the two brown pointers into the field and they had covered the back half when I observed a group of potato pickers working in an adjoining field; I told my companions I didn't like working the dogs too close to a crowd like that and called them in. We were walking out to the highway and were passing within 30 yards of the barn when both dogs went on staunch point with their noses aimed fair at the barnyard.

One of the men remarked: "There must be pigeons or hens in the yard." "Not with those dogs telling me they are Huns" was my reply. I told them to hold their fire as I was too close to the buildings to shoot and then walked in and flushed a covey of 16 or 17 Huns from within 20 feet of the barn. They had been bedded down in the bottom of an old straw stack. They skimmed around the eve of the barn, crossed the highway and came to rest at the rear of an abandoned farm in a mixture of tall grass, spruce and alders. The dogs found them three times and their guns volleyed and thundered (I wasn't carrying one) on each occasion but when the smoke of battle blew away the covey was still at full strength as it zoomed over a high spruce wood and left the hunter. All I can say is not to let them sleep over all our Huns being shot... when that happens there'll be nothing much left to shoot. The brown thunderbolts can take it almost as good as the cagey pheasant.

Let's Talk It Over

—We feel surer than ever now that Dale Carnegie was right when he said that nobody ever wins an argument. The more convincing you think your arguments are, the more certain is your opponent that he has a corner on the World's store of wisdom. If you pursue that argument with too much vigor, instead of winning an argument, you are in danger of losing a friend. We were reminded quite recently of one of the strange things about public debate, i.e. that all too often reasoned arguments skillfully presented will make little or no visible impression on the listener, while a "smart" remark, quite irrelevant, absolutely off the target, will "bring down the house." Perhaps this is because those who really appreciate logical argument are not, as a rule, given to noisy demonstrations of approval. It might be that not only the loud laugh, but also the more violent forms of applause, speaks, if not the vacant mind, at least, a mind furnished only for light housekeeping.

Hallowe'en is peering behind an assortment of evil-looking masks just around the corner. The pranksters will be out in force on Monday evening. Let's hope we can hold them to a one-night stand. "Trick or Treat" will be the slogan of the eerie characters who summon you to your doors that eve, and no matter how generous the treats, there is bound to be some trick performed anyway. Most of the tricks are conventional, and have been performed ever since dad himself was a mischief-making little tike. But occasionally originality creeps into the mischief. Most people will accept the ordinary, harmless type of Hallowe'en prank with good grace. But they draw the line against willful destruction of property, and who can blame them? There is nothing clever or original or amusing about destroying things. Vicious is the only fitting adjective to apply to it. Parents should do their best to make their children see this.

Opens Season On Beaver In N. B.

FREDRICKTON, (CP)—An open season for trapping beaver by New Brunswick residents, under permits from Nov. 1 to Dec. 31 was announced Friday.

Lands Minister Buchanan said the open season, the sixth since 1944, has been declared in an effort to reduce the beaver population in localities where they are causing, or likely to cause, flood damage.

Nearly 12,000 beaver were trapped in this province last year. Good skins sold for about $17 each. No trapping will be allowed in game refuges Fundy National Park.
