teaching skills, he/she is granted tenure, " Bradley noted, If this is the case, and I have no reason to doubt Cecil Bradley's opinion, then the tenure system protects mediocrity. Within four or five years, economics will force the stoppage of hiring new professors; only the ones that are now here and have tenure will be on faculty. Thus the absurdity of tenure.

Can a university remain dynamic, youthful and challenging if the faculty is "hung up" on security such as is given in tenure? I think not! The professor, if he/she is to remain relevant to the movement of society must constantly be reshaping their viewpoints, curriculum, etc. And if the professor is not dynamic then there must be machinery for removing that professor. At present, more emphasis is placed on tenure and security than on relevancy and dynamism.

It's very sad! U.P.E.I. just awhile ago had a chance to break through the conservative "hang-ups" of other universities and become truly a place of higher learning, the first in the Maritimes perchance! The tenure system puts short work to that chance.

past year, I have seen at least ten articles on this subject, and all of them say the same thing only expressed in a different

Do something interesting while drying your hair.

With the new Lady Braun Astronette you don't have to sit still while using it. There's no hose or stand to confine you; yet you get powerful drying results for any type of hairdo. The only connection is a 15' cord, which gives you freedom to move around to pursue a hobby, finish dressing, even answer the phone or the door. The Lady Braun Astronette has two heat settings and comes with a purse-size orange tote for convenient storage or travel.

manner.

This week the Cadre has donated a full page of humorous advertising for FREE!! These articles are read down the hill with a great interest, then they are cut out and pasted in a scrap book with all the rest of advertising.

At this point, one might think I am backing the King's Rip Off, but quite on the contrary, I would like to see that establishment go broke. Last year there was a student boycott which lasted ten or fifteen minutes! In my opinion, the student body lacks the backbone to say to hell with it, let's have a party or just stay home. The Backside coffee house offers more than the establishment on Monday, Tuesday, & Wednesday nites, but how many people go to it?

Let's show a comparison.

THE ESTABLISHMENT

- Music - Yes
- Soft Light - Not really
- Dancing - Yes (on a postage stamp)
- Booze - Yes 90¢ a bottle

BACKSIDE COFFEE HOUSE

- Music - Yes, here it is a lot easier on the ears.
- Soft Lights - Candle Light
- Dancing - No but it is possible to hear the person next to you.
- Booze - No Coffee and a roll for 5¢ (save 85¢)

To my way of thinking, the B.C.H. has as much if not more to offer, but how many people use this alternative. (the world revolves around booze).

There is another bone of contention. People have the gall to bitch about the price of booze from the bootleggers. It costs $12.50 from your friendly non-licensed establishment for a case of 24, but they will go to the Broken Wheel and spend $24.00 for the same 24. (Cost includes tip). Slightly ironic!!

In closing, I would like to suggest that if the student body can't get its shit together and avoid the establishment, then why give it all the free advertising in the Cadre. In future if some one wants to write an article such as Gentleman Arthur (which is excellent) should be presented with a bill at advertising rates which they should in turn take to the establishment and redeem for their nightly ration of Beer!!

A Ship in the Ocean Sea

The water is rough, The waves are trembling, Through the ocean sea, The boats are sinking, The sails are falling, Through the ocean sea.

The men are trembling, Some are hiding, Through the ocean sea, The boards are breaking, The deck is falling Through the ocean sea.

The sharks are waiting, For something to eat, Through the ocean sea, The Captain is growling, The mates are obeying, Through the ocean sea.

But wait, I see land, No more sailing, Through the ocean sea, The sharks are crying, No more food, Through the ocean sea.
