

Cases Heard In Police Court

A former Montague resident now living in Charlottetown will appear in City Police Court for trial on Friday, July 18. The accused is charged with indecent assault.

The accused had been remanded from July 9 in order that he might undergo an examination through the Department of Health. The results of the examination were negative.

Crown Prosecutor J.P. Nicholson submitted the report to the court for evidence. Defence counsel R.R. Bell, Q.C., did not appear in court.

The remainder of the nine case docket appearing before Magistrate K.M. Martin included several charges of being drunk and incapable and one traffic violation.

South Queens W.I. Held Convention in Uigg Hall

The Women's Institute of South Queens held an enjoyable and stimulating convention in Uigg School Hall, Thursday, June 19th. Decorated with bouquets of flowers in the Institute colours of blue and gold, the newly renovated hall presented a pleasing appearance.

"Health" was the theme of the convention and the prepared programme under the leadership of the District President, Mrs. Hugh Robbins, progressed smoothly and on schedule.

Nine institutes answered roll call and gave interesting reports of their year's work. Greetings from the Provincial Board were brought to the convention by a very popular and much beloved past president, Mrs. M. J. Doyle, North Rustico. Mrs. Doyle described the duties and responsibilities that were hers as F.W.I.C. representative. She also touched on the highlights of the First National F.W.I.C. convention, held in Ottawa, October, 1957. Mrs. Doyle stressed the importance of the role of the individual member in her organization, without whom nothing could be accomplished either at provincial, national or international levels.
