20th Century Repair Job On Arch Of Constantine

ROME (AP) — The Eternal City's ancient Arch of Constantine is considered good for another 1,000 years now, thanks to a 20th-century repair job.

The 1,876-year-old Colosseum, grandest of all Rome's monuments, is being braced piece by piece for a rebuilding operation that may go on for years.

Workmen soon will begin bracing the massive, 145-foot column of Antoninus, erected by the Emperor Marcus Aurelius in the second century, to commemorate his victories in battle.

Modern times, which brought the vibrations of heavy traffic, have sped the wear and tear on on the antiquities of Rome. The pounding of traffic is worse than the ravages of weather, wars and years.

That's why the fourth-century Arch of Constantine, one of the best preserved triumphal arches in the world, was put in splints. Holes were bored through loosened blocks of granite in a year-long operation and metal braces bolted in.

To preserve appearances, the holes were plugged with bits of granite. The arch commemorates Emperor Constantine's victory over Maxentius in 312 A.D., when Constantine declared for Christianity. An official said:

"The arch should be good for another 1,000 years now."

N. Y. STOCKS

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market snapped out of its August doldrums Friday with its biggest rally in 2½ months.

Aircrafts and steels were favorites as the market interrupted a string of four consecutive declines.

Gains of between two and three points a share were numerous, and some stocks rose well beyond that range.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose $2.20 to $183.30. The market recouped almost half the loss it had absorbed in the first four days of the week.

In the background were a number of encouraging reports on auto inventories and some soft words on the Suez dispute by President Eisenhower.

Among Canadian issues on the New York stock exchange International Nickel gained 1⅝ followed by Aluminium Ltd., up three. Other gainers included Hudson Bay Mining, up ¾, and Canadian Pacific and Dome Mines, both up ¼.

Loblaw was ahead three to lead Canadian issues on the American exchange. Shawinigan was up ¾ and Preston East Dome 3-16. Brazilian Traction was up ⅛.

TIMELY NOTES ON FUR TOPICS

One of the largest fur robberies in years occurred at Joliet, Ill., last week when an estimated $100,000 worth of mink coats were stolen from the storage vault of E.F. Meyer Furs, 62 East Clinton. Mr. Meyer, the owner, said most of the 40 or 50 coats stolen were customers' goods protected by insurance. Burglars entered the back of the building, cleared the alarm system and got away without anyone except a baker across the street noticing there was anything wrong. Mr. Meyer was convinced that the burglars were experts on furs as he found that the raccoons, beavers and other less precious furs were untouched, although they were hanging on adjacent racks.

Ed. Gold writing in Women's Wear Daily, takes a long view on the fur market following roughly ten weeks of selling activity since fall lines were introduced. He states that it is on the favorable side since the first time last fall. The preceding depressing conditions were due to a series of major bankruptcies beginning last November that had shaken business confidence and weakened the unstable financial structure. These bankruptcies had made retailers wary about early season commitments. However, in June the market opened as usual but the stores remained more cautious than had been a year earlier. Since then there has been a more favorable outlook, particularly now which is better than during any other part of 1956.

A despatch from Cleveland, Ohio, states that mink is still the most in demand in furs there and will occupy the major part of promotions scheduled for fashion fairs this fall. Norwegian blue and white fox will be promoted as evening wraps by Apple Stores. Other stores such as Citras will be fashioning capelets and pocket stoles. Only a few stores will carry chinchilla and then not to any depth. Several stores' spokesmen said they are using chinchilla as trimming on other furs. "It is just too much like rabbit," one furrier said.

At the Vancouver Fur Auction last week an offering of 50,000 muskrat skins was 75 per cent sold. Extra large and large northern British Columbia and Yukons brought $1.30 to $1.40 Mediums and smalls went from 70 cents to 80 cents. An offering of 4,000 mink skins was 98 per cent sold. Better types pastels went for $28 to $32 with females $14 to $16. Standard ranch mink, large ordinary quality pelts brought from $16 to $23, with females from $9 to $11.

At Soudack Auction Sales, Winnipeg, last week a fair percentage of the muskrat offering was sold at slightly higher levels than the previous auction. The best and poorest types sold to good advantage. Small skins were firm to 5 per cent higher.

Littman Fur Factories, Inc. of Milwaukee, Wis., held a continuous daily style show at the Wisconsin State Fair last week. The style show played to almost 100,000 customers. Three models showed continuously from one to seven p.m. during the fair. Mink was shown exclusively in small pieces including stoles, jackets and long coats. Merchandise was priced at from $500 to $800. No selling was done at the fair but literature was passed out.

Recent happenings in mink ranches in the United States point to the necessity of great precaution in the storage and handling of meats and fish. Quite a number of cases of poisoning due to spoiled fish and meat have been reported and it would be wise for our local mink ranchers to take their supplies are of good quality and well cared for. As a matter of fact in our own experience through the years we had very little trouble from fish or meat spoilage, probably because we did take precautions.

An international mink conference will be held at Milwaukee, Sept. 26 to 28. The primary purpose is to control world production of mink. Matter such as closer cooperation on research programs and experimental data will also be discussed, but the main purpose is to endeavor to find a solution to the problem of too many mink—that is to find some method of checking the tremendous increase in mink production while there is still time to save the market. The United States ranchers may come to the conclusion that it is necessary to petition the Government to place a duty on mink brought in from other countries. Such a step would affect our ranchers unfavorably but no doubt the rancher will fight with everything he's got to save his home market. It was Russia's dumping of fox pelts that helped break the fox market and with Russia and Japan now growing mink in quantities there is a possibility they may undermine it. The advice of experts is for every rancher to cull severly and produce a better article rather than a larger number of average or mediocre skins.

In the July Black Fox Magazine and Modern Mink Breeder there is a column, Twenty Five Years Henry Vaght and Lorenz Hobsch, Ago. This is one of the notes: both young men from Germany, have been awarded diplomas in fur farming by the McLure and MacKinnon School of Silver Fox Farming on Prince Edward Island. With reference to the above, this school was the result of a suggestion by the Governor of the Hudson's Bay Company, which at that time held 51 per cent interest in the farms. Quite a number of lectures were given and the students were employed on the ranch. Quite a number of young men were sent out by the H.B.C. from England to take the course and they were afterwards sent to northern posts in Canada.

In an article on the mink market which appears in the Black Fox Magazine and Modern Mink Breeder, is the following:—A conservative estimate of world mink production in the year 1960 would be at least 9,750,000. Assuming on the present basis that about 78 percent are sold in United States markets then in 1960 United States sales would reach 7,500,000 pelts. If by intelligent and far-sighted cooperation between world mink breeders that only 6,000,000 were allowed to be sold in the United States, or 1, 00,000 less, it is believed this would raise the average price of those sold by $2 to $3 per pelt. This increased price would be reflected in Oslo, Stockholm, Copenhagen, Paris, London and other pelt markets.

Don't dare laugh at Mrs. Muggeridge!

You may not lose money like this unfortunate lady but you probably lose small sums just as quickly. Why not set aside these small sums—they can so easily grow into a substantial cash reserve for your future. An Investors Syndicate plan will help you. Call or write:

Dependable Married Man

I want to talk to a responsible married man about the possibility of joining me in my business, which is growing quite rapidly. A man with good character references who will jump into the work with both feet, can, with a reasonable amount of experience, expect to earn from $4500 to $6000 a year. This knowledge and experience I have gained in the past few years in my business will be of great help to the man who fills this position. I will teach him how to be successful if he will work eight hours a day. The man who applies need not have selling experience, and no investment of money is required. A good income is insured right from the start.
