

Mr. and Mrs. John Sanderson (center seated) and their attendants

A marriage of much interest to friends both on the Island and afar was solemnized in St. John's Church, Milton, at 4 on Wednesday afternoon, November 2, when Verna Marie, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Craswell, Winsloe, exchanged marriage vows with John Fulton, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. R. Fulton Sanderson, North River.

Perns and flowers decorated the chancel and further enhanced the beautiful setting for the impressive ceremony performed by the Rector, Rev. A. E. Piercy in the presence of the large assemblage of guests and well-wishers, that was country-wide.

Mrs. David MacDonald, Covehead, aunt of the bride, played the wedding music which included the nuptial airs from Lohengrin and Mendelssohn and Mr. James Cudmore, North Winsloe, uncle of the groom sang "O Perfect Love" during the signing of the register.

The bride entered the Church leaning on the arm of her father, by whom she was given in marriage. Her gown, floor-length, was of white, the bouffant skirt of tiered net over satin; the strapless bodice was topped by a bolero of Chantilly lace, featuring sleeves which tapered to points over the hands. Her finger-tip veil was of tulle illusion, caught to the crown by a tiara of satin, trimmed with seed pearls. For jewelry, she wore the bridegroom's gift: chaste earrings of pearl and she carried a cascade of red roses and maiden-hair fern.

Her matron of honor was Miss Phyllis Ford, Charlottetown, who was gowned in a floor-length dress of mauve nylon net over taffeta. A matching bandeau and mitts, and the nosegay of yellow Chrysanthemums she carried completed her attractive ensemble.

Miss Miriam Horne, Cornwall, cousin of the bride, her bridesmaid, wore a floor-length gown of maize nylon over taffeta with matching bandeau and mitts and for flowers she carried a nosegay of mauve Chrysanthemums.

Linda Stewart, Charlottetown made a winsome flower-girl attired in a floor-length gown of mauve nylon over satin. She wore a pretty halo in her hair and her flowers: a nosegay of yellow 'mums.

Robert Sanderson, brother of the groom, was ring-bearer; Mr. Heath Craswell, brother of the bride was groomsmen; her other brother Mr. Robert Craswell, Hampshire, and Mr. Leroy MacKinley, North River, uncle of the groom, ushers.

Mrs. Craswell, chose to wear for her daughters, aiding a gown of crepe and lace in a wine shade with black hat and accessories; her corsage was of yellow roses.

Mrs. Sanderson, the groom's mother was gowned in a dress of winter white orlon flannel with hat and accessories of black and gold and corsage of bronze roses.

The reception, following the ceremony was held at the home of the bride where after felicitations and good wishes had been received by the newly-weds, a delightful buffet supper was served. The table spread of a pretty cloth of damask was centred by the beautifully decorated, three-tiered wedding cakes, flanked by glowing white candles in silver candle-sticks and bouquets of baby 'mums'. Mrs. Lowell Wyand, sister of the bride and Mrs. James Cudmore, aunt of the groom, poured tea. Miss Gertrude and Joan MacDonald, Marion and Lavinia Stewart, Gail Prowse, Reta MacNeill, Mrs. Heath Craswell, Mrs. Holroyd served; Mrs. Ramon Auld, Mrs. Willard Prowse, Mrs. Lemuel Horne, Mrs. Amase Horne, Mrs. Merrill Green, Mrs. Victor Williams, Mrs. Gordon Crockett, replenished the plates; Mrs. Heber Horne cut the tics and after the wedding cakes had been cut in the traditional manner by the bride and groom, the servings were portioned by Mrs. John MacKinley, aunt of the groom.

In the course of the evening a happy band of serenaders from near and far appeared, to extend their good wishes also to this popular couple.

The bride's gifts to her attendants were: To her matron of honor and bridesmaid, earrings; to the flower-girl a charm bracelet; to the organist, a rhinestone brooch. The groom's gifts to the groomsmen, soloist and ushers were: gold tie clips; to the ring bearer, gold cuff links and tie clip.

Amid showers of confetti the couple left for their honeymoon trip which included Niagara Falls, Toronto, Boston and New York, the bride wearing a dress of gray orlon jersey topped by a coat of dusty rose wool, with accessories in navy.

Prior to her marriage, the bride-to-be was tendered a miscellaneous shower at her home in Winsloe. She was escorted to a prettily decorated seat by Mr. Grant Leard. A daintily trimmed basket was carried in by Misses Doris Younker and Dixie Cudmore. The gifts were opened by Miss Phyllis Ford and the accompanying verses read by Miss Reta MacDonald and then in a lovely assortment arranged on tables by Mrs. James Cudmore. Marie expressed her sincere thanks to the donors for their kindness after which a social evening was enjoyed.

The couple have taken up residence at the Sanderson Farm, North River, where with his father, the groom farms extensively, specializing with much success in raising registered cattle of the Hereford lines.

That Body Of Yours

By James W. Barton, M.D.

THE GREAT VALUE OF THE CHIROPODIST

I write often about the feet and their care because so much of general health, happiness and business life depends on the daily use of the feet. It can be truly said that we can go only as far in life's pursuits as our feet will take us.

I often speak of the work of the graduate chiropodist who is equipped to treat the ailments of the feet with the knowledge and care the feet need and deserve. It is encouraging to see the recognition of the usefulness in medicine of the trained chiropodist. A recent editorial in the Canadian Medical Association Journal states, in part, "The foot is the only part of the body for which prevailing ideas of care and treatment have remained practically the same for 40 years. A gangrenous toe will be thoroughly investigated by skilled internists but a sore foot or a corn, while admittedly less serious, can still be a crippling condition for large numbers of people and yet will not receive anything like the proportionate degree of skilled attention by the same highly trained men."

However, there are signs that times are changing and not only are there more textbooks dealing with the foot but chiropody is slowly but surely establishing itself. "The chiropodist is no longer someone who extracts corns. He is now a trained professional man, with professional and ethical standards as a physician and based on rigid training. He undergoes four years of training with high pre-academic requirements and is trained in the basic sciences of anatomy, physiology, pathology, etc. He specializes, as does the dentist, in a limited field of the body outside of which he does not venture."

Many of the largest and best-known hospitals in the United States have chiropody clinics and could not do without them, outstanding examples being the Mayo Clinic, the Massachusetts General, Boston, and the Philadelphia General. Harvard University has a four-year course in podiatry (chiropody).

Canada, usually so well advanced in all branches of medicine and surgery, is at present behind in chiropody. In Canada only a beginning has been made toward their official attachment to hospitals and clinics. Some three years ago a Chiropody Clinic was established in Vancouver General Hospital and since then the clinic has become indispensable. St. Paul's Hospital, also in Vancouver, has more recently established a chiropody clinic with similar gratifying results.

The editorial points out that the number of patients in the older age brackets will inevitably add to the work in care of the feet. This should be an additional stimulus toward developing an acceptance of the value of the trained chiropodist.

With the entry into the medical profession of the trained chiropodist, the patient with painful feet has now a real opportunity to have his feet carefully and scientifically treated by an expert.

How Can I!!!

By Anne Ashley

Q. How can I keep the window boxes looking attractive during the winter months?

A. Instead of allowing the window boxes to remain empty all winter, they can be made to look attractive with cedar or pine branches, adding a few sprigs of bitter-sweet to brighten them.

Q. How can I keep window sills in good condition?

A. Refinished window sills will keep in perfect condition if a fine floor wax is rubbed on them periodically.

Q. How can I make a palatable drink for the children?

A. An excellent drink for the child is a teaspoonful of honey in a cup of hot milk.

A Country Garden

HAPPY NEW YEAR!

A MORNING WISH

The sun is just rising on the morning of another day, the first day of the new year. What can I wish that this day, this year may bring to me? Nothing that shall make the world or others poorer, nothing at the expense of other men, but just those few things which in their coming do not stop with me, but touch me rather, as they pass and gather strength.

A few friends who understand me, and yet remain my friends. A work to do which has real value without which the world would feel poorer. A return for such work small enough not to tax unduly anyone who pays. A mind unafraid to travel, even though the trail be not blazed.

An understanding heart. A sight of the eternal hills and unresting sea, and of something beautiful the hand of man has made.

A sense of humour and the power to laugh. A little leisure with nothing to do.

A few moments of quiet, silent meditation. The sense of the presence of God.

And the patience to wait for the coming of these things, with the wisdom to know when they come.

These things I wish you in the coming year, and many happy days in the garden.

Hyacinths have been brought to the garden room and will be fragrant and lovely for weeks. They are easy bulbs to grow indoors or outdoors and can be planted in the garden after forcing and will continue coming for several years in early spring.

In the fall, some sweet peas were planted in a large tub and brought indoors to the garden room and are now in fragrant bloom. They had been planted very late in the summer and were only about three feet high when potted up.

Geraniums that were placed in a sheltered corner of the veranda on April the first were taken in on December 16 and that is some record for this province or for this garden anyway.

Roses were hurriedly covered with soil this past week when the cold set in and a nice red rose bud was taken in the warmth of the house but failed to burst open as we wished.

In thinking back over the year's garden there were many lovely weeks of colour and fragrance and the abundant moisture was what the dahlias and phlox seemed to like but as the roses were planted under the trees and lacked the spraying they were not as good late in the season as some years have been. Glads, and zinnias were wonderful, also the hollyhocks and I have never had finer flowering shrubs... lilacs and philadelphus so fragrant and beautiful.

Beds of solid colours in crimson were effective and single dahlias were used and garden visitors seemed to like them very much.

Sweet William was colourful for weeks. It is a long-lasting biennial and blooms in the season when the annuals have not come into their beauty so it is needed at that time to help in keeping up the garden as it should be.

The most difficult part of gardening is to keep it colourful and fragrant for all of the six months of gardening in this Province. Garden visitors were interesting and appreciative of our efforts in this respect and the friends made in this year is something to remember with gratitude.

Flower Shows were happy events in the past year and the fine talks with other gardeners made some very pleasant days in the garden. In looking back we remember the lovely pansy geranium that was so lovely for weeks and delighted

S'ide Girl Weds In Toronto

Mr. and Mrs. Paul DeGiovanni

Queen Chats With Nova Scotia Settler

AUCKLAND, N. Z. (Reuters)—A relaxed Queen Elizabeth drove back to Auckland today with the Duke of Edinburgh as cheering groups of farmers lined the 100-mile route from Whangarei.

Before leaving Whangarei, the couple chatted with 100-year-old Mrs. Jessie McKenzie, one of the few surviving original settlers who migrated from Nova Scotia to New Zealand. Mrs. McKenzie, who was born aboard a ship bound from Nova Scotia, has spent all her life here.

The Queen wore a short-sleeved dress of pale green, with a design of dark green and white dots, and a close-fitting yellow hat. The duke was in a blue suit.

Their first stop was at Warkworth, where a public welcome awaited them. The Queen was presented with a basket of fruit.

Have Picnic Lunch

From Warkworth the Queen and duke drove to the private Puhoi beach, 30 miles north of Auckland. They spent three hours at the beach in perfect, sunny weather and enjoyed a picnic lunch at a cottage on the shore.

The Queen rested under the shade of red-blossomed pohutukawa trees while her husband went for a swim and a canoe ride on the blue waters of the bay.

The route to Government House here, where they will stay the night, lay alongside the north shore of the bay and some 50,000 sunbanned holiday-makers in beach clothes cheered the couple as they drove by.

Marking Handkerchiefs

Try starching and ironing the new linen handkerchiefs before marking them. The name can then be written very small and will be very distinct.

Bolling Milk

If milk should happen to boil over on the stove or in the oven sprinkle a layer of salt on the burning milk. Allow it to remain for a few minutes, then brush off.

Chopped Lips

The use of cold cream, glycerine or lettuce cream are all good for lips that are roughened and cracked.

Modern Etiquette

By Roberta Lee

Q. Is it really considered correct to accept a second helping of food when your hostess offers it to you, or is this a sign of greediness?

A. One may certainly take a second helping if one wishes. It is a compliment to the hostess' cookery to do so. However, if you don't care for a second helping, you may say, "No, thank you."

Q. Is a godmother or godfather supposed to remember the child's birthday with a present each year?

A. You are expected to give the child a christening present. Any other gifts beyond this depends upon how much you think of the child.

Q. Is it proper to use a rubber-stamp return address on one's envelopes?

A. In business correspondence, this is all right.

The Stars Say - -

For Tomorrow

AN inclination to splurge socially may cost you more than it is worth this day. In fact, it would be extremely wise to watch finances in general now and to take no risks that might reap future hardship. If faced with any problem involving monetary matters, seek constructive criticism and make use of valid suggestions from others. The evening hours are splendid for recreational activities—whether held in your own home or outside your usual surroundings. Show hospitality to those whom you love and respect and to those who have proven their friendship in the past. Be careful, however, to avoid association with those who depress you or whose motives are open to question.

For the Birthday

If tomorrow is your birthday, the months ahead should provide many stimulating challenges and opportunities. In meeting them you may have to modify many of the ideas and opinions you have held in the past, but try to remember that adjustment to changing social conditions will be a necessary adjunct to the success which can be yours.

You are now entering an excellent cycle from both a professional and financial point of view and, since your horoscope assures the cooperation of those in a position to aid you, the only stumbling block to progress would be you, yourself. Try then to live up to the best of your innate fine qualities—your ambition, your willingness to work hard, your good judgment and, above all, your fine ability to get along with others. Everything is in your favor now. Do make the most of it.

A child born born on this day will be intelligent, vivacious and extremely personable.

KEEP PERFUME COOL

Heat and light tend to evaporate the alcohol base in perfumes and toilet water.

BACKACHE May be Warning
