THE DAILY EXAMINER.

APRIL 19, 1894.

CITY AMENDMENTS.

Amongst the amendments to the Act amending the Act of Incorporation, which passed a second reading in the Legislative Assembly this forenoon, is one repealing Section 143 of the Act of Incorporation which provides that the Stipendiary Magistrate shall fill no other office. Another amendment provides that the Water Commissioners shall not be entitled to receive the full salary or remuneration during the construction of the extra main pipe, as provided under the Water Works Act of 1887, but they shall be entitled to receive such remuneration as the Mayor and City Council shall, by resolution, fix and determine. It is also provided that, in no case, shall the city be liable for damages sustained in consequence of the unsafe condition of the street, or from a nuisance or encumbrance on the sidewalks, squares or streets of the said city, unless a notice in writing of such claim be given to the City Clerk by the party injured within three months from the time the cause of action arose. Provision is also made for the legalizing of the valuation and assessment on real estate, personal property and polls, as made by the assessors for the years ending 31st December, 1892, and 31st December, 1893, and for the current year, 1894; also, for the collection of outstanding taxes for the years mentioned, the right of appeal within thirty days being allowed. It is also enacted that it shall be lawful for the City Surveyor at any time after the expiration of 36 hours from the cessation of a storm to cause the snow to be removed from any sidewalk within the city, from which the owner or occupier of the adjoining premises has neglected to remove the same, and the cost of so doing shall be returned by the City Surveyor to the City Clerk, who shall keep an account thereof, and shall add it to the first assessment to be thereafter made, as a special charge for removing snow, and which charge shall be recoverable and be enforced in the same manner as the assessment on personal property.

NOTE AND COMMENTS.

—Woman suffrage was, a few days ago, voted down in the New Brunswick Legislature.

—Crop prospects in the States are reported good, but it is, of course, too soon to estimate the result.

—The Legislature has been in session for upwards of three weeks, and the sessional journal made its first appearance yesterday afternoon!

—Additional tariff resolutions were presented to the House of Commons on the 15th inst., and twenty-six additional articles added to the free list.

—Mr. Spence addressed two large meetings of citizens yesterday afternoon and evening and will again speak at the Masonic Opera House this evening.

—Sir William Vernon Harcourt has announced that the Government is now prepared to favor the admission of Canadian cattle, which, as a matter of precaution, had hitherto been so long opposed.

—Mr. Laurier is reported to have admitted in the House of Commons a few days ago, that "the United States never wanted reciprocity." That is true. It is hard to make a "trade" with a "party" that does not want to trade.

—At the end of February, the amount owing by the Provincial Government to the Merchant's Bank of P. E. Island was $83,209.00, and the amount under the same heading opposite the name of the Merchants Bank of Halifax was 66,933.00. What have these amounts swelled to by this time?

—St John Telegraph:—Mr. Dalton McCarthy, the third party leader in the House of Commons, neither voted nor paired on the budget division. He and his lieutenant, Colonel O'Brien, having made their speeches, took to the woods rather than vote either way. Mr. McCarthy talks with Mr. Laurier but appears to be too proud to follow him in a division of the House. Mr McCarthy remembers that he is a leader, and is at present waiting for Mr. Laurier to follow him.

DINNER TO THE LEGISLATURE.

His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Howlan gave a dinner last evening, at the Hotel Davies, to the members of the Legislative Assembly. All the members of the Legislature, with one or two exceptions, together with F. W. Hughes, Esq., Assistant Clerk, Lieut.-Colonel Moore, Aide-de Camp, and the editors of the Herald, Guardian, Watchman, and Examiner, were present. The Leader of the Government sat at the right of His Honor, the Leader of the Opposition at his left, with members of the Government on either hand. Lieut.-Colonel Moore was the efficient croupier, with Hon. Mr. McMillan at his right and Hon. A. J. McDonald at his left. It is needless to say that the menue was varied, the viands rare and in every way excellent, and that the banquet was in the highest degree pleasing. We append a list of the toasts and those who responded to them:

The Queen.

The Governor-General and the Parliament of Canada—Responded toby the Hon. Peter Sinclair.

The Lieutenant-Governor—Hon. J. R. McLean.

The Premier and the Government of P. E. Island—The Hon. Mr. Peters.

Her Majesty's Loyal Opposition—Hon. D. Gordon.

The Speaker of the Legislative Assembly—The Hon. J. H. Cummiskey.

The Legislative Assembly—Mr. Rogers (Alberton) Messrs. Shaw and Hector McDonald.

The Bench and Bar—Messrs. Warburton, A. Peters and Bell.

The Farmers of P. E. Island—Messrs. Laird, Wise and McLaughlin.

The Mercantile and Manufacturing Community—Messrs. Farquharson, A. J. McDonald and Prowse.

The Press—Messrs. Cotton, Macdonald, McCourt, Moran and Brennan.

PERSONAL.

Ex-Speaker McLellan is registered at the Hotel Davies.

Mr. Brennan, of the Summerside Journal, is registered at the Hotel Davies.

It is pleasing to hear that Conductor Ryan was able to walk out yesterday, and expects to resume work in about two weeks.

OTTAWA CORRESPONDENCE.

I really do not know whether it is worth while sending you anything more till we hear definitely whether little P. E. Island has gone to the bottom under the Peters deficit, or been blown sky-high by the oratory of the new Legislative Assembly. It is so long since we received a mail from there that I forget when it was. However, this is Saturday, the 14th, and the last papers received from P. E. Island were dated, Friday, the 6th. Now we can get nothing till Monday. I read just now in a Montreal paper that the Stanley is in the ice, and that a number of commercial men are at Pictou, on their way to the Island. Among the names I observe that of "A. W. Waytoff Chappell," and I wonder can this be brother Theo., late of the Diamond Bookstore. If so, he has got to wait off (Waytoff) the Island a good while before he gets there. Still, it is a good thing to be "on the way, Toff," (Waytoff.)

At last we are having something like spring weather. The past two days have been beautiful. But we want rain badly to clear the snow out of odd corners and to wash the streets, which just now smell to heaven much too loudly.

John L. Sullivan is here playing with some travelling show. He was so drunk on his arrival that he had to be assisted in and out of a cab, and at the Opera House last night he disgusted a slim audience.

One of the events of the week was enacted in the Russel House a few evenings ago, when a stalwart P. E. Islander tweaked Yellow Martin's nose for using offensive language about him in a speech in the House of Commons. The P. E. Islander is Mr. Hugh Sutherland, ex-M. P. for Winnipeg, and for some time past busily engaged in promoting the Hudson Bay Railway scheme. Martin, referring to this enterprise in the House, said it would never amount to anything till some reputable and responsible person took hold of it. Sutherland met him next day in the rotunda of the Russell after dinner, and asked him to repeat there what he had said in the House, and ended up by pulling Martin's nose. Martin is known as "Fighting Joe," but he would not have much show against Hugh Sutherland, who is an able, fine-looking man. He is native of New London, where he was born in 1843, but his father removed to Oxford County, Ontario, in 1849. When he was in Parliament from 1882 to 1886, he was a Liberal, but I understand he severed his connection with that party some years ago.

Senator Ferguson has been distinguishing himself in the senate by his speech on the Manitoba school question, for which he has been warmly complimented.

People have not yet stopped talking of Dr. Montague's great speech of Thursday night. It surely must place him in the front rank in the House. Not only did its eloquence charm the listener, but he must stand amazed at the wonderful research and the great industry which the speech brought to light. Dr. Montague is not stuffed by a speech prepared by some body else, and which he gets off parrot-like, but he knows his subject from top to bottom, and there is nothing superficial in his information. I fancy he is on the highroad to the Cabinet.

Mr. Mc Carthy solved the question of whether he was going to speak on the Budget, by delivering himself on Wednesday night of a long and carefully prepared speech, in which he renounced every article of his political creed as a Protectionest, and out-Heroded Sir Richard Cartwright and Mr. Gilmour in his advocacy of a free trade policy for Canada. He took up all the stock arguments of the Opposition against Protection and endorsed and adopted them. Protection was immoral. He made the consumer pay the full measure on home manufactures for the protection afforded them from foreign competition. The census returns had exaggerated the industrial developement of the country. The national debt had been unduly increased, and the rate of taxation was abnormally high, and he wound up by declaring that Canada could never be anything but an agricultural country, that the attempt to build up manufactures was a mistake, and he regretted the part he had taken in establishing the National Policy. Mr. McCarthy was loudly applauded by the opposition.

Mr. McCarthy is a gentleman who spends very little time in the performance of his parliamentary duties. He is seldom in the House, except when he is going to speak on one of his pet fads, and after he has made his speech he takes himself off, and sometimes, as he did last night, forgets to return to record his vote. He has an extensive legal practice, and when he does not spend a large part of the session in England, is more frequently in Toronto than in Ottawa.

On Thursday, Dr. Montague replied to Mr. McCarthy in a magnificent speech of three hours. It is simply impossible to give your readers any synopsis of his great effort—he tore Mr. McCarthy to shreds and left him absolutely without a leg to stand on. The galleries were crowded during both the afternoon and night sessions, and every word that Dr. Montague spoke was clearly heard by the vast audience. Mr. McCarthy was not in his place during the afternoon session, but he was present in the early part of the evening, and heard the concluding portion of the doctor's speech, which seemed to make him rather uncomfortable.

Dealing first of all with Mr. Laurier, the doctor showed that the Opposition leader had not made one Protection speech only, as he admitted having delivered in 1871, but as late as 1876, according to the Hansard, he was still a Protectionist, after five years spent in mature reflection. The doctor then quoted from the Hansard, wherein Mr. Laurier is reported as having said: "What my hon. friend has said as to my protective proclivities is perfectly true, and I do not deny that I have been a protectionist, which I am still. It is asserted by many and assumed by others that free trade is a Liberal principle and protection a Conservative principle. I beg to dissent from this doctrine. If I were in Great Britain, I would avow free trade, but I am a Canadian born, and resident here, and I think that we require protection. We have within ourselves the ability to create industries. If it be shown that we cannot maintain them except by legislation, either in the way of premium or a prohibitory tariff, then I should be ready to take that into consideration."

Dr. Montague then referred to an insult which Mr. McCarthy had offered him and Mr. Haggart in the course of his speech, wherein he charged that Dr. Montague had coached Mr. Haggart in the preparation of his speech. Having denounced the statement as false, Dr. Montague proceeded to say that men in glass houses should not throw stones, and then he held up before the House the original notes of a speech, prepared by no less a personage than Edward Farrer and which Mr. McCarthy himself had delivered in the county of Haldimand. Apparently the speech Farrer had prepared had not been sufficiently bitter against the French Canadians, as the notes bore Mr. McCarthy's own handwriting where he had changed and strengthened them. As you may imagine, the House was convulsed, and it took some time to restore order.

Dr. Montague then related how, not long ago, a member of the House had chaffed Mr. McCarthy about joining the opposition which Mr. McCarthy disclaimed replying, "Not at all, the Opposition have joined me." When asked what he was going to do with Mr. Laurier, Mr. McCarthy had replied that Laurier had never been anything but a "makeshift." When asked what was proposed to be done with Cartwright, Mr. McCarthy had answered, that Sir Charles Tupper would be dismissed and Cartwright sent to England as High Commissioner. Sir Richard's face was a study just then, his usually passive countenance blossomed as a rose amid the roars of the House.

Continuing, Dr. Montague went on to say that in the whole of a two hours speech, Mr. McCarthy had failed to inform the House as to one single tenet of the policy he would carry out if he were in control of the affairs of Canada. He would sweep away the protective policy, but how was he going to provide a revenue. Nor had he pointed out one single item of expenditure, which he proposed to reduce. The Opposition, which Mr. McCarthy had joined, were committed to the policy of increasing provincial subsidies, which would cost several millions of dollars yearly. Not only so, but Mr. McCarthy had himself, in a speech he made in England, confessed the shame he felt that Canada contributed nothing to the support of the army and navy of Great Britain. Of course, if he were entrusted with the Government, he would take speedy means to remove the cause of his shame, by devoting some more millions annually to support the army and navy of the Empire.

Dr. Montague continued thus to arraign Mr. McCarthy, and to show the ridiculous position in which he had placed himself. As soon as he had concluded, Mr. McCarthy left the chamber.

Mr. Fraser, of Guysborough, N. S., then made a long and tiresome speech, containing nothing new. He was followed by Mr. Kenny, of Halifax, who talked a good deal about the members from Prince Edward's Island.

At 5 minutes past one on Friday morning, the Speaker gave the order to call in the members, and the bells were set ringing for the first division of the session. The interval before the entrance of the whips was as usual devoted to singing, led off by Col. Prior with "McCarthy of Enniscorthy" followed by Mr. Bechard with the Marseillaise. The speaker's gallery was crowded with ladies, and the fair sex was well represented in other parts of the house. The result of the division was that Cartwright's amendment was defeated by 128 to 72, a government majority of 56. Messrs. McCarthy and O'Brien, for reasons best known to themselves, were absent. Eight members were paired. Mr. McKeen was away; so was Mr. Calvin and also Mr. George Macdonnell, who is on his wedding tour. Mr. Burns having been called to the Senate, his seat for Gloucester, N. B., is vacant. The opposition were all accounted for. Give them Messrs. McCarthy and O'Brien and they muster 74. Count McKeen, Calvin and Macdonnell with the Government and there is 131, with Glouceser vacant, and the Speaker in the chair. Count these with the Government, and add in the 8 members paired, and the forces are: Government, 137; Opposition, 78—or a Government majority of 59 in a full House

The female element has been very prominent in Ottawa this week. This is owing to the meeting or formation of the National Council of Women, which met here to organize. Lady Aberdeen presided, assisted by Lord Aberdeen, and there were delegates from everywhere except P. E. Island—probably they are detained on the Stanley. I do hope when the women at last succeed in superseding the men, and evicting them from parliaments and pulpits, they will, first thing, attend to to the improvement of the means of communication with P. E. I. But these women are getting dangerous, and the prospect for us poor bachelors positively alarming. They actually secured Sir John Thompson one evening, and he was wheedled into making a speech at one of their meetings. How bored he must have been. Principal Grant was there also, and, in a moment of weakness, he addressed them. Mr. Laurier was not so easily caught; he was invited, but had a previous engagement. Lady Aberdeen is largely responsible for these female aggressions. Everything is rose-colored just now; but wait awhile. Some of these fine days there will be a tempest among their teapots, which will probably end in a hair-pulling match. I shall have something more to say on this subject later on.

DIED AT BLUEFIELDS.

Captain Brown's Son Buried in the Mosquito Reservation.

Robert J. Brown, son of Captain A. Brown, of the steamship Elliot, was taken sick with typhoid fever on his last trip from Savannah, just after leaving here, and died March 28th, at Bluefields, shortly after the Elliot had reached her destination. Captain Brown has made a large number of friends since he has been coming here, who will regret to learn of this sad misfortune. His son was a young man of only 25 years. He was second mate on the Elliot, and had been with her ever since. She was launched last year. The body was interred at Bluefields.—The Morning News, Savannah, Ga., April 10, 1894.

Cricket.—The annual meeting of the Phœnix Cricket Club was held last night at the Y. M. C. A. The Secretary's report for last year was read and approved. The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:—

Patron—The Hon. the Master of the Rolls.

President—L. H. Davies, Esq.

Captain—Major J. A. Longworth.

Secy-Treasurer—J. S. Raymond.

Executive—R. V. Longworth, F. W. L. Moore, Wm. Murray.

The question of putting the cricket grounds at Victoria Park in order at once was discussed, and the Executive Committee are to act with a Committee of the Cabot Club in order to have the matter attended to in a first-class manner. Some new material will have to be purchased during the season, and the prospects are that the grand old game will be well kept up.

—In the Provincial Legislature, yesterday, the Leader of the Government denied the charge made by Mr. Shaw that last session he (the Leader) stated that the Province did not owe the banks a dollar. This forenoon Mr. Shaw quoted from the Parliamentary Reporter of 1893 (page 29) as follows: "We (the Government) don't owe the banks one five-cent piece; I'll prove it by-and-bye."

Ready April 10th.—"THE STICKIT MINISTER AND SOME COMMON MEN," by S. R. Crockett. Cloth, $1.25. S. R. Crockett is the new literary luminary who is at present possessing the mind of the English public. "The Stickit Minister" has already passed into the fifth edition.

Ready April 14th.—"WANTED," by Mrs. G. R. Alden ("Pansy"). Cloth, 70c. A new "Pansy" book is always sure of a market.

Ready April 19th.—"THE RAIDERS," being some passages in the life of John Faa, Lord and Earl of Little Egypt. Crockett's New Book. Cloth, $1.25. Of the English edition of this book, 3,000 copies were sold previous to publication. In "The Stickit Minister" Crockett appears as a "new Barrie"; in "The Raiders" he is a "second Stevenson"—so say the critics. This latter story reminds the reader strongly of Blackmore's "Lorna Doone." We can pay it no stronger compliment.
