moving & STORAGE

Premier Walter Shaw said in a humorous vein "I think this has been a rather opening day as far as I am concerned", in addressing the large crowd at the official opening of the Wellington Co-op. This was the third official opening he had attended during the day.

"I've watched the development of Cooperatives on P.E.I. over the years and they've had their ups and downs", Premier Shaw said.

In commenting on the new store the premier said "I sometimes wonder whether the people of this province realize the potential force they have to help themselves".

Choosing the poverty in the world today as his theme guest speaker, Msgr. W. Simpson of St. Dunstan's Basilica, said "it's difficult for us to understand the plight of the people in underdeveloped countries". He added that research had shown that one-half of the world's population is underfed.

He also commented on the rapid growth of the world's population and used a quote by a Professor Young of the University of California "either we will lift theirs to ours or they will take ours down to theirs".

Father Simpson pointed out that many of the young people in attendance will live to see the day when the world's population will be doubled. This is expected to occur within the next 35 years.

"This means we have to double food production within the next decade and treble it by the end of the century", he commented. "This is the greatest problem in the world today — to provide food and deliver it to the people".

Other speakers at the opening were: Mr. Doucette, Moncton, public relations officer for Maritime Cooperative Services; Hon. Henry Wedge; Kenneth MacLean, president of the P.E.I. Co-Operative Union and J.G. Dennis, inspector of Co-Operatives. Msgr J.N. Poirier of Egmont Bay blessed the new store.
