

Red Stone Becomes Attraction

MONTREAL (CP) — A 600-pound block of red stone is one of the Montreal Museum of Fine Arts' major attractions. Believed to have been quarried near Aswan, the diorite block was carried for a temple dedicated to the goddess Isis 300 years before Christ at Behbeit-el-Higara in Upper Egypt.

Measuring 41 inches high and 34 inches wide, the diorite block contains relief inscriptions and carvings which show the Pharaoh Nektanebos II making an offering to the god Osiris. Above the king are his name and an inscription: "He who is given all stability and happiness, all health like Re the sun god forever." There is an inscription above the god too, but all that now remains are the words "... on your throne before me ... in life and good fortune."

A fragment of second relief of sacrifice of Osiris and a number of hieroglyphs are also shown. David Carter, director of the museum, said the temple from which the stone came was one of the main monuments of the area towards the end of the great Egyptian culture.

He said the relief is a major addition to the museum's collection of ancient art not only because of its size and quality but also because of a scarcity of fine examples of Egyptian art.

The work was believed to have been carved about 332 B.C. and was purchased from a New York dealer.

Joey Slated To Talk Deal On Dec. 14

ST. JOHN'S Nfld. (CP) — Premier Smallwood will meet the directors of the British Newfoundland Corporation in Toronto on Dec. 14 to discuss Brinco's role in the proposed Hamilton Falls power project in Labrador.

Most of the Brinco directors are from Europe. They include the Baron Rothschild of London.

Brinco Chairman Robert H. Winters of Montreal has said the company's action will depend on the assessment of a feasibility report which was issued two weeks ago by the British consulting firm of Preese, Cudde and Rider.

The original plans had called for the 9,000 horsepower from the big project to be carried through Quebec to New York. Newfoundland government for whom Brinco is a consultant has decided the power should go through the Maritimes.

The consulting firm reported that a system of tower and submarine cables through Newfoundland and the Maritimes to New England would be feasible from an economic and engineering standpoint.

Premier Smallwood said earlier, "there is no doubt whatsoever" Brinco will participate in the project.

TITLE FOR WHALE
VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Murray Newman, who brought the famed killer whale Moby Doll to Vancouver, has been named Man-of-the-Year for the exploit by the Vancouver Visitors' Bureau. The whale died in captivity this fall from lack of sufficient salinity in its pen water.

POTTED PEARL
LONDON (CP) — Businessman John Bray bought a Cornish oyster pot in an antique shop, opened it up and found a pearl inside. The pearl was valued at £20 and he's having it set in a ring for his wife.
