

MISCELLANEOUS.

DAYS WITHOUT NIGHTS.

There is nothing that strikes a stranger more forcibly than he who visits Sweden in the winter, when the days are longest, than the absence of the night. We arrived at Stockholm from Gottenburg, 400 miles distant, in the morning, and in the afternoon we saw our friends, had not taken note of time, and returned about midnight; it was as light as it is here now, even before sundown. You could see distinctly. But all was quiet in the streets. It seemed as if the inhabitants were gone away, or were dead. No signs of life—stores closed. There is a good reason for this. Stockholm is before ten o'clock. There is a great illumination all night, as the sun passes round the earth towards the north pole, the refraction of its rays through the atmosphere of the earth. Dr. Baird read a letter in the far-east near Stockholm at midnight without artificial light—There is a mountain at the Boholm, where on the 21st of June the sun does not go down at all. Travellers go there to see it. A steam-boat goes up from Stockholm for the purpose of carrying those who wish to witness the phenomenon. It occurs only one night. The sun goes down to the horizon, you can see the whole face of it, and in five minutes it begins to rise.

Birds and animals take their accustomed rest at the usual hours. The hens take to the trees about 7 o'clock in the evening, till the sun is up, and in the morning, as the people get up to the habit of rising late too.

Sir David Brewster makes the following remarks relative to the structure of the sun—"So strong has been the belief that the sun cannot be a habitable world, that a scientific gentleman was pronounced by his medical attendants to be insane, because he had sent a paper to the Royal Society, in which he maintained that the light of the sun proceeds from a dense and universal aura, which may afford ample light to the inhabitants of the surface beneath, and yet be such a dense aloft as not to be more than a thin film; that there may be water and dry land there, hills and dales, rain and fair weather, and that as the light and seasons must be eternal, they may easily be conceived to have by far the most blissful situation of any world that exists. More than ten years after this apparently extravagant notion was considered a proof of insanity, it was maintained by Sir William Herschel as a rational and probable opinion, which might be deducible from his own observations on the structure of the sun.

NICHOLAS SOLD.—During an interview which Martineff, the comedian and mimic, had succeeded in obtaining with the Prince [Volhonsky, high-steward], the emperor walked into the room unexpectedly, yet without design, at the moment evident. Telling the actor that he had heard of his talents, and should like to see a specimen of them, he bade him mimic the old minister. This feat was performed with so much gusto, that the emperor laughed himself, and the actor, in the error of the poor actor, desired to have him imitated: "taken off"—"It is physically impossible," pleaded Martineff—"Nonsense," said Nicholas: "I insist on its being done." Finding himself on the horns of a dilemma, the mimic took heart of grace, and with promptitude and presence of mind, that probably saved him, buttoned his coat over his breast, expanded his chest, threw up his head, and assuming the imperial purr to the best of his power, strode across the room to the back; and then, stopping opposite the minister, he cried in an exact tone and manner of the czar: "Volhonsky! pay Monsieur Martineff one thousand silver roubles. The emperor for a moment was disconcerted; but recovering himself with a bound, he ordered the money to be paid.—Harrison's Notes of a Nine Years' Residence in Russia.

The idea that to be great is to be happy, is one of the errors of all ages. But, that to be in it is to be happy, is something common, at least to the virtuous. We read in the Scriptures, that Boaz, in the midst of riches, was laborious, diligent in husbandry, plain without luxury, or pride; affable, kind, and obliging to all, high or low, rich or poor. "The Lord be with you," said he to his servants; and they responded: "The Lord be with you." This was the beautiful language of religious antiquity, but how little known in our days.

To be allowed to add the Colonial duty. This beautiful Musical Instrument, the Melodeon, is now so well known, that we deem it unnecessary to give a lengthy description of it. We only state that it is played upon the same as the Piano Forte, the key-board, being precisely similar. Any person who is desirous of applying this instrument to wind, and the other organs thereto, by means of this latter, a most beautiful and convenient and diminutive method, we have the pleasure to announce. We respectfully invite attention to the newly improved 'MODEL MELODEONS' as we think they will be found to be superior in many respects to any others. These cases are made of brass, and best steel, paying attention, among other things, to the following points, viz:—'Their superior quality of tone.'—'Their great power of tone.'—'Their perfect equality of tone.'—'Their prompt and easy action.'—'Their beautiful style of finish.'—'Their great durability.'—'Their excellent tone.'—'Their cheapness.' Mason & Hamlin have great facilities in the manufacture of these instruments, and they probably had more actual practical experience in the business, than any other man, having been constantly engaged in the manufacture of these instruments for more than six years; he has had the entire superintendence of the tuning and mechanical departments of the business, and has been for many years in the country. Their evening and tuning of the Melodeon is the most difficult part in its manufacture, and they have the greatest care and attention to it, and the durability of the reed. They make it their first great cardinal principle, that every instrument, after their practice, shall be tried, and each one, before leaving the manufactory, undergoes a close examination from both of the partners; and we assure you, to go forth, with the slightest defect, either in the case, or in the interior of the instrument, can be detected. By adhering strictly to this principle, they trust to secure the confidence and patronage of the public.

Every instrument is carefully packed in a box, and sent by express, and fully warranted. The following opinions in regard to the 'Model Melodeons,' from distinguished musicians, we select for publication.

[From Lowell Mason.]
"After having carefully examined the Melodeons of Messrs. Mason & Hamlin, I am enabled to say, that, in my opinion, they are decidedly superior to any others with which I am acquainted."
LOWELL MASON
[From William B. Bradbury.]
Messrs. Mason & Hamlin,
Gentlemen:—In consequence of your commencing the manufacture of Melodeons, feeling assured that you would be able from your practical knowledge and the pleasure of your success, to effect important improvements in the construction of these Instruments. Having now had an opportunity of examining a number of your Melodeons, I am much means disappointed in the result. You are certainly producing Melodeons, which, in all desirable characteristics, are far superior to any others I have seen. An instrument possessing so many advantages, admirably adapted to the parlor and the church, and I am satisfied that such as the public become acquainted with, will soon be able to supply the demand."
WILLIAM B. BRADBURY.

NEW YORK, June 2, 1854.
[Extract from an Editorial Notice in the 'New York Musical Review' of May 11th, 1854.]
"The 'Model Melodeons' of Messrs. Mason & Hamlin, and the earliest and extensive experience of the different partners, as well in the wants of the public as in the construction of the instrument, they are in their practical manufacture, we have every confidence that they will accomplish all they aim at, and we are confident that they will be able to supply some of the instruments now finishing at their factory, and can certainly recommend them to all our friends, who are desirous of purchasing such instruments, as can be seen and examined at our Bookstore."

Pale Ale and Stout Porter.
Sole and Proprietors, Barclay & Co's. Brown Street 6 do. S. do. Pale Ale. W. R. WATSON.

THE HYDROGAMEN, OR WATERPROOF ANTI-CONSUMPTIVE CORK SOLES, Manufactured by HARCOURT BRADLEY & Co., 38, Ann Street, N. Y., and at London and New-York, England.

THE HYDROGAMEN is a valuable discovery for protecting the feet from damp & cold, and the preventive of every Lung disease, without any detouring whatever. The Hydrogamen is in the form of a sole, and worn inside the boot or shoe, is of a perfectly character is a powerful antidote to disease.
For Gentlemen it will be found agreeable, warm and soft, and will supply the deficiency of the feet, as the feet cannot become wet, if the Hydrogamen is inserted.
Ladies may wear the lightest soled boots or shoes in the most pleasant weather with impunity; while consumption, so prevalent among the young of our country, may be thwarted by general adoption. They are also useful to the invalid, as they prevent the feet to perspire in a very unhealthy manner; and, besides, are not dangerous wear to pedestrians in any weather, like the heavy boots. While the latter case the feet to appear extremely large, the Hydrogamen, being merely a thin slice of cork prepared, peculiarly adapted to the purpose, does not increase the boot, or cause the foot to appear unyouthful.
To Children they are extremely valuable, as they are soft, and will supply the deficiency of the feet. Their expense is so slight as to scarce need mention; besides those who patronize them will find their feet cooler, and their health improved.
As the Hydrogamen is becoming more known, its sale is increasing to an almost incredible extent. Last year in London, Manchester, Birmingham, Liverpool, Glasgow, Leeds, Dublin, Paris, Antwerp, Hamburg, and Berlin, our sales reached the almost incredible amount of 25,000 pairs of cork soles. This year the number will far surpass that.

Ask the Faculty their opinion of their value as a preventive for COLIC, BILIOUSNESS, BRONCHITIS, ASTHMA, and CONSUMPTION.
Men's size, per pair, 2s. 6d.
Women's and Misses' do. 1s. 6d.

NOTICE.—From the Retail Prices we make a very liberal margin for our Customers, and we are confident that any stockholder can make a fine profit on their sale, while they are an article, that may be kept in any store, among all the goods of the season.
