

The Daily Examiner

OCTOBER 1, 1885.

Editorial Notes.

The committee of the Society of Friends are circulating among the Quakers of Great Britain documents, urging that the repeal of the laws exacting state regulation of vice be made a distinct issue in the coming elections, and that support be given to those candidates only who will pledge themselves in favor of appeal. The newspaper organs of the Methodist Church in England also advocate the proposal.

The Newcastle temperance convention resulted in the formation of a distinct temperance party in England, which will support only those parliamentary candidates who will pledge themselves in favor of local option. Most of the conference orators upbraided the late Liberal Government for its neglect of temperance legislation, and criticised Mr. Gladstone for the meagre and indifferent reference which his manifesto contains concerning the liquor traffic. Rev. Mr. Garrett, President of the Methodist Temperance Union, has issued a fervent political appeal to the people of England, concluding with these words: "Let party landmarks go. Vote straight for a sober country."

Mr. Barry Straton, of New Brunswick through the Montreal Herald's columns, urges the claim to the Government bounty, in Northwest lands, of those New Brunswick volunteers who responded to the Government's call for active service. The men left their homes, travelled hundreds of miles, and went into camp at Sussex. Their services not being required in the Northwest they were returned to Fredericton, where they were disbanded. These young New Brunswickers threw up their situations at the call of duty, and some of them have not been able to regain their old positions, thus being actual losers from their eagerness to serve their country. Mr. Straton puts his case strongly, and it is to be hoped the Government may strain a point to reward in a suitable manner those who responded so promptly to the call.

Says the Montreal Witness: At the first we were inclined to urge that Riel should not be made a martyr of by execution, and this would probably have become the prevailing sentiment of the country but for the dishonorable and successful effort of the Liberals of this Province to embarrass the Government by the introduction of race feeling into the question, and so put what might have been a generous leniency in the light of a weak yielding to sectional demand. When this was done we declared that the Government should be supported in embarrassing extremities, and we should stand by it in whatever course it took. The position of the Ontario Liberals has been worse than that of those of this Province. They have carefully avoided expressing a decided opinion on the question, holding themselves in readiness to blame whatever may be done.

The lumber trade of the Northwestern States is in a depressed condition. Not only are the manufacturers, in common with those interested in other branches of business, called upon to face a reduction in the price of their product, estimated by President Van Schaick, at the Association meeting at Chicago, at 15 per cent., but the falling off in sales compared with 1884, was at least 10 per cent. Coupled with these unfavorable conditions the production had gone on increasing, and was fully 25 per cent. in advance of the demand. Complaint was also made of excessive insurance rates charged, and the arbitrary changes of their tariff rates by the railways. The business, in fact, Mr. Van Schaick said, was so demoralized that 6 per cent. could not be made on the investment. In view of these facts, it was resolved to curtail production 20 per cent. compared with last year, to cut the millers' wages, and to appoint a committee to remonstrate with the insurance people on the evil of their ways.

The success which has attended the Canadian exhibit in the Antwerp exposition, and the prominence thus given to the Dominion, are very marked in an article which appeared in the Independence Belge, a leading Brussels newspaper. Besides devoting nearly three columns to a description of the exhibit, this paper publishes a large cut of the Canadian department in an illustrated supplement, which appeared on the 13th ult. The letter press refers in hopeful terms to the commercial benefits which must result to both countries from the better knowledge which each has this year acquired of the other, and comments in a manner most gratifying to Canada on the climate, productions and generally the advantages for emigration which Canada presents, not hesitating to remark, however, that in the manufactures, and especially in the matter of furniture, the Belgians were surprised to find that we are not at all behind ourselves in the comforts and luxuries of civilization. The article refers at length to the advantages which the Canadian Pacific railway will offer as a direct and short route to China and Japan, and is written throughout in a spirit of admiring friendliness for our Dominion.

The British Board of Trade returns for August, as reported by the Economist, are rather more favorable than were the returns for July, but at the same time the decrease, compared with last year, is general and decided. The imports amounted to £18,957,000, or £654,000 less than in August, 1884. This shrinkage, which is not very important, is mainly due to the decreased arrivals of food products, and of raw textile fabrics. The exports from the United Kingdom during August are valued at £18,495,600, which is about 6 1/2 per cent. less than in the same period of last year. The month's decrease is chiefly to be found under the textile and metal trades. The imports for the eight months ending August 31 amounted to £253,209,443, a decrease of 3.6 per cent. when compared with 1884. It is a noteworthy fact that the imports of cattle from the United States have considerably decreased, while those from Canada have again risen, an increase being noted in the receipts of cattle from Canada, £165,000 being shown for the eight months. The diminution in wheat imports is solely due to smaller arrivals from the American Atlantic ports. The imports of wheat from Australia also show a slight decrease as compared with the eight months in 1884. The exports so far this year amount to £180,324,749, a decrease of 9.1 per cent. The imports of gold into the United Kingdom was £8,559,502 for the year so far, a decrease of £192,572, although the export showed a larger decrease as compared with 1884.

The "Kerry Gow."

The Market Hall was last evening filled with an appreciative audience, and the "Kerry Gow" was reproduced in a manner which did credit to Mr. Murphy's excellent company. Notwithstanding it was the third time the play was produced under adverse circumstances, the interest in it seemed to increase, and the audience last evening did not fail to show their appreciation of the company's efforts to perform the drama as it should be performed. The horse-shoeing scene was very good, and the witty sayings of the smithy kept the house in continual uproar. To-night the "Kerry Gow" will be again put on the board when we hope to again see a crowded house.

We see that the Summerside Journal, basing its information on a mistake of the St. John Telegraph, charges the company with fraud. Joseph Murphy, now playing in Detroit, and J. S. Murphy, now playing in Charlottetown, are brothers. They have played with equal success in all the principal cities in America, and it would require a sharp dramatic critic to distinguish a difference between the acting of either in the "Kerry Gow" or "Shaun Rhué." If the Journal would look at the business circular of this company, it would see that they clearly state that J. S. Murphy is brother of the Joseph Murphy, and that from his past record he (J. S. M.) has no need of sailing under false colors.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

A Denial.

SIR,—I have been accused of writing a letter signed "Professor Thaw," which appeared in your issue of Monday last. I most positively state that I did not write or dictate one word contained in it, nor do I know or have any idea who the writer of said letter is. I do not intend any longer to be made a scapegoat of by scribblers who are anxious for any opportunity to occur, whereby they can fling their insulting slurs at me. As those slurs come from the one channel, I treat them with that contempt they deserve.

SAMUEL N. EARLE.

The monument lately erected by Mr. E. G. Hunter over the grave of Mrs. Patrick McCarey, in the new Catholic Cemetery, is one of the most chaste and beautiful in the ground. It is in six pieces—the ground base being of Wallace freestone, upon this is a marble base, next is the pedestal. Resting on the pedestal is a cap with four gables, above each of which is a cross. Above this cap is an octagon base upon which stands the cross which completes the structure. The cross which is very beautiful in design, is turned and goss finished. The base, pedestal and cap are each inlaid and embellished with elegant tracery. The height of the whole monument is about 8 feet. In design and in workmanship as well as in the material employed we pronounce it first-class.—Herald.
