The marriage of Miss Alice Caroline Barlow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ira C. Barlow, Wellington Station, to Mr. Wendell Albert Ward, Richmond, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Ward, was solemnized in a double ring ceremony at the Wellington United Church Manse on Wednesday, 13 June, 1956, at 2.30 p.m.

Mrs. Keith McDonald and Mrs. Eugene Brooks, aunts of the bride, served a delicious turkey dinner to thirty-five guests.

The bride's mother wore a two piece suit dress in navy and white. Her accessories were white and her corsage was pink carnations.

The groom's mother wore a navy linen suit and her corsage, too, was pink carnations.

The bride's travelling costume was a blue suit with white accessories.

ELLEN'S DIARY

A Nice Turned Animal

Further acquisitions of livestock this breathing-spell between the cropping and the weeding brings in to these farms. It began with the arrival of another rabbit, a mature lady, to be company for the pair already established here as cherished pets of the place. She came in a gift, as were her comrades of the hutch, from Jamie and Gage.

To Rob's came buyings of cows to help with the summer dairying there; to Alderlea subjects of the same kind—odd calves and some yearlings, the latter potential beef for next winter's stables. And then to take us back to the "horse and buggy days" and a new horse was this week added to our "goods and chattels"—a nice turned animal" according to our farmers, to prove his worth to them at those chores which fall to such at through the summery seasons and at the various trips and haulings which later, winter is bound to bring.

Words Of The Wise

When labor quarrels with capital, or capital neglects the interests of labor, it is like the hand thinking it does not need the eye, the ear or the brain.

WEARY AND DEPRESSED

Ada's peeve at you, her tendency to retire and weep, and her attitude that social effort isn't worthwhile, are symptoms of emotional depression, which sneaks up on a burdened person who has been too long out of touch with meaningful friendship and true companionship. The housewife in this condition needs deep help, in the form of sympathetic understanding, and opportunities forcefully provided, for "taking a break" from isolated relentless routine.

Inasmuch as you need detailed leadership, in learning how to be a good husband in the special circumstances, I advise you to discuss your concern about Ada with a staff counsellor at the Family Service Agency in your area, M.H. Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write to her in care of this newspaper.

LET'S EAT

Butter Dishes Again Grace Modern Tables

By Ida Bailey Allen

The Chef and I were window shopping on Fifth Avenue in New York City.

"Look at that beautiful cut-glass butter dish with the silver cover, Mrs. James!" exclaimed the Chef. "I have not seen a butter dish for years. Everything displayed in this window is modern, so the butter dish must be in style again."

"It went out of style about 1920," I observed.

"In setting the table at that time, up-to-date homemakers always put above the forks, at each place, an individual bread and butter plate, with a silver butter reader across the top and, on the lower part, a roll or two half slices of bread and a pat of butter."

"Ah, yes, Madame," chuckled the Chef. "Then came a change. 'With the war, living became more casual and butter became scarce. About that time bar or ¼ pound sticks of butter were put on the market, protected in paraffined cartons. And soon after, butter already sliced, ready to serve, was put on sale with sixteen slices to a stick. That's only 16 calories to a slice, Chef."

"But in spite of its convenience, sliced butter is used more by restaurants than in the home."

"Now the butter dish containing a stick of butter as a matter of course, has again come back to grace the table and everyone helps himself in old-time fashion with the silver butter knife provided for the purpose."
