The following is a report of the Farm Forum meeting as related by one of its members: Although the weather on Dec. 14 was disagreeable the Broadview Farm Forum met at Mr. Hughie MacNeill's home, Little Sands. Topics for discussion in Guide were—1. Facts of farming; city people are not informed on 2. How can your Farm Forum help bring city people an understanding of your problems. 3. If you were on the executive of a farm organization, what would you recommend in the way of public relations?

Sympathy was expressed for city people paying so much for farm products which the farmer sells so cheaply. Various suggestions followed: 1. Farmers imitate business firms by having a typical farmer in his old and worn clothing on a float moving slowly in the city streets and performing his chores. 2. Buy paper advertising. 3. By radio, and 4. Movies as a good medium to bring the farmers' problems to city people. Next Monday night there is no special topic. It is review night.

The following assertions will come before the Forum for discussion. The Government's policy in bringing farm immigrants to this country is wrong. The stipulation that immigrants agree to serve one year on the farm as labour or as a domestic is an affront to the farmers, who are now producing surplus food below cost of production. What we want in immigrants is not peasantry. We want a better culture. We want artisans—skilled labor. Let the Government induce carpenters, bricklayers and plasterers to come here so that we may buy homes cheaper. Let them offer inducements to graduate nurses, so that those sick and injured may have better and cheaper care. Let them invite professors of colleges and school teachers so that our children may have a better and more cosmopolitan education. Also wanted are beauty parlor workers to cheapen our beauty care. Dentists and doctors, that we may have our dental and medical costs reduced. Also welcome would be spinners, weavers, and garment makers, moulders of pottery, engineers and railway workers so that the cost of freight and transportation would be lessened. Industrial workers so that the innumerable articles in the homes and on the farms be cheapened. Experts in curing and packaging meat, fish and vegetables would also benefit farmers and city folk. Also needed are druggists who will dispense drugs more reasonably. International lawyers would also be a help to give advice on how to get out of the country if the going got too tough.

These and other matters will be discussed at the Forum which is to be held at Mr. James T. Dixon's home.

Master Billy MacPhee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon MacPhee, is recovering in the Montague Hospital from an appendix operation recently. It is hoped he will be fully recovered so that he may be able to enjoy Christmas at his home in Hopfield.

(Leith and Ray Robertson and Waldon Ross acted the part of the shepherds) who hear the angel chorus, and hasten to find the babe of whom the angel spoke. Arlene Robertson, Sandra MacGregor, Ethun Garrett, Jean MacGregor, Roma Ching, Pearl Stewart, Helen MacLean, Sylvia Bruce, Lyla Robertson and Clarabelle Ching also participated in the play.

A sudden fire which broke out in the fourth floor maternity ward of the Victoria hospital at London, Ont., saw expectant and new fathers assisting, along with nurses, left, and internes, in the evacuation of some 56 patients and 31 babies. Discovery of the fire, believed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion, was attributed to an expectant mother who had been left by her attendants in an ante-room to the operation room. She smelled smoke and vigorously pressed her call bell. Staff at first believed her call was in relation to her own needs, but arrived to discover smoke and fire bursting from the linen room adjoining. A nurse by phone sounded the emergency alarm to emergency stations in the hospital and to fire and police headquarters. The blaze, which firemen, at right, fought for 40 minutes, smoked up and otherwise damaged the operating rooms, nursery, patients' rooms and corridors, but was held in check by fireproof construction in the new wing in which it occurred.

The broadcast, questions discussed were: (1) What are some of the facts of farming that you think town and city people are not well enough informed on? (2) How can you in your Farm Forum help to improve understanding on the problems you have listed in the above question? (3) If you were on the executive of a provincial or national farm organization, what would you recommend by way of public relations for the organization? Some very interesting replies and suggestions came up during the discussion. Members were invited to the home of Mr. Colin MacDonald for their next meeting.

Midnight Mass At Montague Church

—A large congregation attended the Christmas eve midnight Mass at St. Mary's Church, Montague, celebrated by the pastor, Rev. J. W. McCardie. Preceding the Mass, the choir, under the direction of Mr. Jack Geisler, rendered several appropriate hymns with Miss Maureen Blake, Charlottetown, as organist. Hymns included "Come All Ye Faithful", "Angels We Have Heard On High" and "Silent Night". A trio, "Sleep Holy Babe" was sung by Mr. Geisler, Colin Landry and George Boudreault.

During the service the choir sang the two part Mass, "Lady Of Fatima", and at the offertory sang the lovely "Adestes Fideles". Two solos were heard during the communion, "Ave Maria" by Mr. Geisler, and "O Holy Night" by Miss Blake. The choir rendered the Panis Angelicus. The recessional hymn was "Angels We Have Heard On High". Father McCardie spoke inspiringly on the divine nativity and prayer that this celebration of Christmas would bring peace and good will to men's hearts throughout the world.

"Love Thy Neighbour" In Practice

The good neighbor policy is a great success in Doylestown, Pa., where the townfolk have banded together to assure Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Ott and their family of nine children a new home by Christmas, if possible. The Ott's home was recently burned to the ground and friends gave them temporary shelter. Now the town's menfolk take turns rushing the new dwelling to completion.
