

Ample space for carefree vacations

Camping is a family experience in Prince Edward Island, one that will linger in memory for a long, long time. Tents, trailers, campfires, and the sound of waves crashing against the shore are all part of the fun. The province has 326 campsites, each with its own special charm. From the rugged coast to the peaceful interior, there is a campsite for everyone. The campsites are well-planned, ideally located, and provide all the amenities you need for a carefree vacation. From picnic tables and fireplaces to showers and flush toilets, the facilities are top-notch. The campsites are also well-served by the provincial parks system, which provides a wide range of recreational activities. Whether you are a seasoned camper or a first-time visitor, the province has something for you. So pack your gear and head out to the coast for a carefree vacation.
