Mountain development
Is foisted By Dinsdale

CALGARY (CP) — Resources Minister Dinsdale has announced here a preliminary plan for the Banff, Jasper, Yoho and Kootenay western mountain areas.
A text of his speech was issued to the press in advance of delivery.
Mr. Dinsdale said that as the demand for outdoor recreation has grown, the national parks have been caught in the traffic jam in the last 10 years.
He said that in the last 10 years, visitors in the whole parks system have increased 35 per cent, and 2 1/2 times as many Americans are coming to the parks.
It had become obvious—especially in the last five years—that "we cannot simply add accommodation and recreation facilities indiscriminately and indefinitely in Canada's national parks without destroying the scenic beauty which is the reason for the facilities in the first place."

One-third of the total area of the four parks has been earmarked as wilderness areas intended to be "preserved in perpetuity with a minimum of development." No roads would be allowed but good trails, primitive camping facilities, ski systems and trail maps would be provided.
The other major zone to be reached by road, foot, boat or on horseback—would be for use not of the merely few who enter the wilderness area, but for thousands who "literally crowd" the country to get a deathly—planned network of roadways and activity centres.
The latter "natural environment zone" would include "visitor service centres." The government would provide traditional park facilities such as camping and trailer sites. Private enterprise would be given the right to acquire and develop designated areas on long-term lease for construction of motels, lodges and service centres.
Townships in this zone would have to have "intimate" association with surrounding natural features and could not become "just another ordinary suburban community of houses of various standards and unplanned business areas which have become so typical of our North American cities."
For large townships, a town manager would be appointed to serve under the park superintendent and "deal with local matters in concert with the permanent inhabitants of the national parks."
Other local administration would become "quite impossible."

Mr. Dinsdale said another aspect of the zoning plan would take into account the "day-use" centres such as easily accessible lakes, swimming and boating areas, picnicking sites, scenic viewpoints and like.
"It is intended to provide such facilities as are necessary for public enjoyment of these choice areas," he said. "Here again a partnership arrangement between the administrator and private enterprise will be required."

Two RCN destroyers from Halifax, HMCS Sioux and Huron, have sailed to take up positions in the western Atlantic and the destroyer escort HMCS Saguenay and the frigates Jonquiere and Baccara will have proceeded to their stations on the Pacific coast.
On the return flight in March, similar measures are planned and the destroyer escort HMCS Skeena will receive HMCS Saguenay.
