Maine Liquor Dealers Think Providence Interposed in Their Behalf

The liquor dealers of South Brewer, Me., think that Rev. Mr. Ramage, pastor of the Congregational Church in their village, has received a warning to let them alone. A year ago Mr. Ramage and the mill hands were great friends. Crowds attended his meetings, and contributed liberally towards his support. Last winter when times were dull, many men stayed around the bar rooms too long for their good, and drunkenness was common. It was then that Mr. Ramage started his crusade against the rum sellers. Two or three men were arrested at his suggestion, and all three of the bar-rooms were raided, and the proprietors were fined. Mr. Ramage kept right on visiting the saloons and praying. Again and again the officers made raids, finding nothing. At last one of the liquor dealers, weary of the pastor's energy, said he hoped that lightning would strike so near to Mr. Ramage that he would get scared and quit.

This was expressed a month ago Nothing came of it until Sunday, June 21. It was a hot day, and Mr. Ramage, exchanging pulpit with the Holden minister, did not get home until late. Then, as the night was sultry and the attendance was small, the regular evening services were held in the chapel instead of the church. About 8 o'clock, when Mr. Ramage was talking to his people, a bolt of lightning struck the spire of the church, followed down to the roof and, breaking through the ceiling, tore up all the boards on the platform behind the pulpit where Mr. Ramage usually stood. Had he been in his accustomed place he would have been struck beyond a doubt.

Since then the people have looked upon the liquor dealer as a prophet and speak to him with respect when they ask for hard stuff.—New York Sun.

TOILETS AT THE WEDDING.

The Queen Soberly Attired—Other and Som what Gayer Costumes.

LONDON, July 26.—At the royal wedding the Queen walked into the Chapel Royal, at Buckingham Palace, leaning heavily on the arm of Prince Christian of Denmark, and was conducted to a chair at the left of and facing the altar. Her majesty was dressed in black silk and wore the ribbon of the Order of the Garter and other decorations. A white lace veil, surmounted with a diamond tiara, covered her head.

The Princess of Wales wore a gown of rich white silk, with silver embroidery around the neck. Her hair was dressed in exquisite taste, and liberally set off with diamonds.

The Duchess of Sparta wore a gown of white and silver brocade, and a magnificent diamond tiara tipped with white pearls.

The gown worn by the Duchess of York was of white brocade silk, the bodice trimmed with point d Alencon lace. She also wore a tiara of diamonds and pearls.

Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain wore white satin, the bodice being almost veiled with white chiffon.

Miss Yznaga wore a dress of striped china grass silk, the bodice having a white Marie Antoinette fichu.

A TUCKAHOE BRIDAL PAIR.

Mature of Years, But Set of Purpose, Not Disheartened by Opposition.

Down from Tuckahoe came yesterday a mature but ardent couple bent on matrimony. The bride to be is a farmer's daughter, the groom a plasterer. His trade has left him poor, and he wore his working clothes. The bride had a bonnet with an extensive flower garden on it. Her dress was short enough to display somewhat more than her substantial shoes. She is the widow Ellen Kenney, 40 years old. The happy plasterer is James Ryan, a widower, with a son who objects to the marriage. He is not a hard-hearted youth, but he thinks his father should have forgotten love's young dream in the sixty winters which he has weathered.

The couple are weak in purse, though strong of purpose, and when they counted up car fare they found they had only enough to take them to Williamsbridge.

"We'll walk," said the bride.

"By gosh, we will; you're a bride after my own heart," said the groom with enthusiasm.

They walked from Williamsbridge to Morrisania and drifted into the Police Court.

"Are you tired, dear?" Ryan inquired as he dropped into a seat with a sigh of satisfaction.

"Tired! What is a five-mile stroll on one's wedding day? Just a pleasure trip, an' nothin' shorter," said the bride.

This gave big Policeman Gohl a hint, and he hurried up to Clerk McCabe with the information that a bridal party had arrived. The clerk took a look at the pair and carried the news to Magistrate Deuel in the back room. The magistrate upset the plans of all concerned.

"Marry them? Not a bit of it," he said. "Let them hunt up a minister willing to make one of sixty and forty. I can't do that kind of addition."

Clerk McCabe had to go out and explain that he had on hand only a very bashful magistrate, who did not dare face the bride in so trying an ordeal.

"My sakes! I don't see why he should have any feeling about it. I wouldn't let him kiss me if he tried to," said the bride.

"And I guess I wouldn't if you would; not much," said the groom.

Seventeen men and all the court squad volunteered direction to the many churches in the annexed district. The couple selected one in Washington avenue. The crowd followed them, and frightened them by their numbers and anxiety to be in at the finish. The couple lengthened their steps. They distanced the crowd without sprinting, and, turning a corner, were lost to view. It's pretty certain that they got married, because the last heard from the groom was:—

"Well, I don't care; we'll look up a minister, an' he'll just have to wait for his pay till I get in a couple of weeks work an' we get to rights."—New York Sun.

KOOTENAY.

A ROMAN CATHOLIC PRIEST AT OTTAWA MAKES AN IMPORTANT INVESTIGATION.

Archbishop's Palace, Ottawa,
8th November, 1895.

Mr. S. S. Ryckman, M. P., Hamilton.

My Dear Sir,—In order to comply with your request, I visited no less than twenty six persons of different ages and conditions residing in our city, who had used your medicine called "Kootenay Cure." Upon my enquiry, some informed me that after suffering atrociously for many years from rheumatism under one form or another, they had obtained considerable relief from the above-named medicine, and were using it yet with the firm hope and almost certainty that in the near future all the painful effects would disappear. Others told me that they had been cured completely, felt no more pains, could digest perfectly, sleep soundly, had regained their lost weight, so much so that they could be said to have resuscitated and to have been transformed into new men. I met with five cases of skin diseases, where the medicine had produced wonderful results, especially in one case of at least nine years' standing. In several cases of Rheumatism and Paralysis eminent physicians, after careful study, had pronounced the case incurable. As rheumatism is such a common ailment, and as doctors have always much difficulty in overcoming it, I think it is quite proper to make known such a remarkable medicine to poor suffering humanity. I am pleased to have the occasion of recommending it to the public of the capital. Wishing you further success in your undertaking, believe me, sir,

Yours respectfully,
(Signed) EUGENE GROULX.

"Satisfactory Results."

So says Dr. Curlett, an old and honored practitioner, in Belleville, Ontario, who writes: "For Wasting Diseases and Scrofula I have used Scott's Emulsion with the most satisfactory results."

"That Charlie Spindles is a horrid fellow, isn't he?"

"Yes, but he once saved me from a mad bull."

"How was that?"

"I saw Charlie coming and went through another field."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

ITS FAMOUS SPREADING.

A New Remedy in General Use in Manitoba and the Northwest

WINNIPEG, July 27.—The effects of the regular wave of sickness which sweeps over this portion of the Dominion in the spring are noticeable in the increasing amounts of the druggists' sales. There has been quite a run on the kidney remedy now so well known under the name of Dodd's Kidney Pills. The recovery from Bright's disease of Mr. Arthur Coley, of Somerset, through the use, an account of which appeared in the papers, gave a considerable impetus to the sale, and the remedy has become indispensible in many Manitoba households, its fame having penetrated into the remotest parts of the province and North West Territories.

At Whist. She—Isn't the rule, "when in doubt play trumps?" He The usual rule is "when in doubt, ask what are trumps."—Puck.

Scrofula often shows itself in early life and is characterized by swellings, abscesses, hip diseases, etc. Consumption is scrofula of the lungs. In this class of diseases Scott's Emulsion is unquestionably the most reliable medicine.

HOW PEOPLE SHOULD WALK.

An Expert Shoemaker Gives Some Pointers Upon the Subject.

A shoemaker says: "As soon as a man comes into my shop and takes off his shoes I can tell whether or not he is a good walker, and it is astonishing to find how few men know the proper way to step out. If the shoe is worn down at the heel—not on one side, but straight back—and the leather of the sole shows signs of weakness at the ball of the foot, a little greater on the inside just below the base of the great toe, I know that the wearer is a good walker.

"If, however, the heel is turned on one side, or is worn near the toe, I know that I have to deal with a poor pedestrian. The reason of the difference in position of the worn spot lies in the fact that the poor walker walks from his knees, and the good one from his hip.

"Watch the passer-by in the street and you will at once see the difference. Nine men out of ten men bend the knee very straight out with both hips on the same line, and the toe will be the first to strike the ground. The tenth man will head his knee very little—just enough to clear the ground—and will swing the leg from the hip, very much as the arm is swung from the shoulder, and not from the elbow.

"By so doing he calls upon the muscles which are strongest to bear the strain, and increases the length of his stride four or six inches. The heel touches the ground first, and not the toe. A slight spring is given from the ball of the foot on making another stride.

"Men who walk in this fashion cover the ground 30 per cent. faster with the same exertion than those who walk from the knee."—Pittsburg Dispatch.

EXHIBITING A HAREM.

A Bankrupt Pasha Becomes a Democratic Barnum.

A genuine oriental harem is now being exhibited throughout Europe. The manager of the Berlin Panopticum has persuaded a pasha living in the old city of Kayroman to exhibit his harem to the unfaithful. This is the first time a Mohammedan has ever dared to disregard the very strict laws of his creed in such a way. The story of how it all came about is quite curious. The pasha, the proprietor of the harem, became bankrupt and worried much about his inability to keep up in due style his very numerous family. The manager who happened to be in Egypt to engage attractions for the side shows of the coming Exposition in Berlin heard of the pasha's difficulties, and prevailed upon him to accept a magnificent sum for a six months' contract to exhibit himself and family in Europe. The pasha, who had to choose between a certain fortune among the unbelievers or absolute ruin staring him in the face at home, was persuaded to accept the manager's offer, and thus his household is now to be seen for 50 pfennigs (12c) a head at Berlin.

Sure enough, the pasha showed excellent taste in the selection of his wives, all of whom are very good-looking, and are considered great beauties from an oriental standpoint. There are a number of very handsome children from 6 to 16 years of age, and some twenty female slaves attend to all the duties of the household in full view of the onlookers. The most interesting part of the show is not the persons themselves, but the life they lead in the harem, about which much has been written, but very little known. Several of the pasha's wives have extraordinary accomplishments in the way of singing, playing musical instruments and dancing. They are very clever handworkers, and while away much of their time time with embroidery and other similar occupations. There are, all told, forty-seven persons in this household.

Art of Conversation for Dentists.

The dental profession in Vienna has formed a novel society, which proposes to instruct its members in the art of pleasing conversation, garnished by light anecdote. The theory of this is that the patients undergoing long and difficult dental operations need to be amused and entertained.

The preamble to the call of the society recited the fact that the modern race of dentists were giving altogether too much time and attention to the scientific side of the profession, and not doing enough to attract and interest their clients. Careful, persistent and thorough work, it went on to say, is one thing, and it is highly necessary that no operating dentist should forget that the patient in the chair has none of this kind of stimulus, nothing whatever to interest him, and is generally suffering besides. The real dentist should be able to do his work deftly and quickly, and at the same time, by clever talk, keep his patient's mind off of the operation.

Hitherto the dentists, from the moment they began their course of study, have set their attention severely upon practical science and have given no time at all to the lighter side of life. The greater number of them are hard students always, and they let the frivolous side of the world go in their pursuit of knowledge.

This has given the American dentists who have settled abroad in the continental towns opportunity to work up large and flourishing practices, merely because they have taken pains to be interesting to their patients and have amused them. What the Viennese society proposes to do is to start classes in the art of conversation, and to get the staid scientific men in the way of chatting while their hands are employed in doing the most delicate work.—New York Journal.

Cheerfulness.

Be cheerful. It is trite advice to tell women to take each day as it comes, to avoid remorse over what is done and forebodings over what is to come; but it is no less valuable advice. Nervous prostration is seldom the result of present trouble or work, but of work and trouble anticipated. Mental exhaustion comes to those who look ahead and climb mountains before they arrive at them. Resolutely build a wall about to-day and live within the enclosure. The past may have been hard, sad or wrong. It is over. The future may be like the past, but the woman who worries about it may not live to meet it. If she does she will bear it. The only thing with which she should concern herself is to-day, its sunshine, its air, its friends, its frolics, its wholesome work, and, perhaps, its necessary sorrow.

Bank

President Isaac Lewis of Sabina, Ohio, is highly respected all through that section. He has lived in Clinton Co. 75 years, and has been president of the Sabina Bank 20 years. He gladly testifies to the merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and what he says is worthy attention. All brain workers find Hood's Sarsaparilla peculiarly adapted to their needs. It makes pure, rich, red blood, and from this comes nerve, mental, bodily and digestive strength.

"I am glad to say that Hood's Sarsaparilla is a very good medicine, especially as a blood purifier. It has done me good many times. For several years I suffered greatly with pains of in one eye and about my temples, especially at night when I had been having a hard day of physical and mental labor. I took many remedies, but found help only in Hood's Sarsaparilla which cured me of rheumatism, neuralgia and headache. Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved itself a true friend. I also take Hood's Pills to keep my bowels regular, and like the pills very much." ISAAC LEWIS, Sabina, Ohio.
