THE DAILY EXAMINER

DECEMBER 1, 1899.

A FEW REASONS.

The Patriot is again in a whining mood. "Why is Mr. McKinnon being opposed? What would the people gain by defeating him? What would the Tory party gain?" In the opinion of the government organ, the opposition to this gentleman shows bad tactics on the part of his opponents.

The Conservative party is extremely thankful to the organ and to Mr. McKinnon for their great thoughtfulness of its interests at this juncture. According to our lights, there are several good reasons for defeating both Messrs McKinnon and Irving:

1. It would drive from power a corrupt and weak party, who have piled up an enormous debt, and announced their intention of increasing it indefinitely by a further issue of debentures.
2. It will administer a scathing rebuke to the Minister of Marine and Fisheries who, to the neglect of duties for which he was well paid, went to Belfast and threatened the people that the railway would be "stopped" or "hindered" if they should dare to vote according to their consciences.
3. It will lead to an honest agreement regarding the bridge, by which the Island will only be required to pay its proportion for the ordinary road traffic.
4. It will lead to the construction of a cross line to Cardigan Bay, at Montague, without which the southern country cannot obtain really good railway facilities.
5. It will rebuke and punish those who passed a license law for Charlottetown in defiance of public opinion and ensure the repeal of that law.

MR. FOSTER'S POSITION.

Regardless of the complete and effective reply which Senator Ferguson made some weeks ago, in an interview with THE EXAMINER, to the allegation that Mr. Foster said at Toronto that the subject of the Southern railway had never been before Council and never was intended to be submitted to Parliament, The Patriot continues to repeat what it well knows is utterly false. Mr. Foster did not say, at Toronto, anything that could honestly be construed in that way. Not only did he not say what the Patriot alleges, but he could not have said it without stultifying himself. Why, then, the action of the Government, in 1896, in introducing in Parliament the resolution for the construction of the Island branches which Mr. Haggart explained, that he did with the authority of the Governor General, shows that the matter had been before Council and was presented to Parliament.

In further proof of the falsity of the Patriot's statement we quote from Mr. Foster's speech in the Commons on the 2nd of August last, when the vote for the Southern Railway was before the House:

Mr. Foster—The ex-Minister of Railways and Canals has brought to the attention of the House the resolutions which were introduced in 1896, by the Government of that day. I remember going very carefully into the matter with my Hon. friend and another member of the Government, as a committee. We did not go into it in connection with this one particular part of the Island, but we went into it with reference to different parts of the Island with an idea of proposing and carrying out such branch roads as, when fully completed, would connect every portion of the Island which it seemed to us had need of communication with the mainland and on of which we believe that a fair traffic could be got. We brought those resolutions down to the House, and if we had remained in power we would have carried them through, and not only Murray Harbor but other sections of the Island which demanded, then as they do now, these advantages would have had these lines of communication. On that basis I cannot do anything else but support this vote, which is only a part of our scheme; and I am only sorry the Minister has not carried out the plan outlined by the department under the management of my hon. friend and completed this system by a network of small lines which would have called in to the main line traffic from the outlying portions. So I am in favor of this vote, not only because I believe it is right but because it was part of our old policy when we were in power, a part only, and not the whole of it.

—A hitch! somewhere Three road machines imported this week for political effect are still lying at the wharf in this city. They represent some of the additional debt that is being piled up.

—An election contest is great thing as a reminder to our politicians of forgotten promises. A commission is just now engaged on the proposed road near Tea Hill—promised at the last general election! There are, just now, votes to be won or lost by the government.

PROHIBITION.

As a Factor in Prince Edward Island Politics at the Present Time.

SIR,—When, at the Liberal Conservative convention, convened at Dundas, I had the honor to introduce a prohibition resolution, on the lines that our present member should support the passage of a prohibition law in Parliament by his voice and vote, that our party should support no one as its candidate but a person pledged to vote for prohibition,—when, that resolution was passed without a dissenting voice, and my action was endorsed by such old Conservative leaders as J. C. Underhay, A. C. McDonald, J. G. Sterns and others. I take it for granted that they have considered it fitting that I should uphold the temperance position of the Conservative party by my voice and pen. Since I was the cause of a prohibition plank being placed in their platform, I consider that it would be an act of cowardice on my part to blench from the helm when the wind blows highest, and none will deny that the winds of political trickery are all but overwhelming the good ship temperance in Canada, with an extra squall on the Prince Edward Island side of her hull in the form of a license whirlwind.

In my mind, the temperance question stands ahead of every other question at present before the electorate; and, sir, let prohibitionists rally forward in invincible numbers in the Murray Harbor and Belfast districts of this province and show by unanited front and by their strong determination of purpose, that they know the reason why, and that they intend to do or die. Fellow patriots of temperance, let this be a Temperance Bannockburn, and may the 13th day of December, 1899, be long remembered as the day when temperance people first threw down the gauntlet of battle in this province. If none of the gentlemen now in the field will oppose license, get to work and bring one out in double quick time, for if the present License Law is to be defeated in the next session of Parliament, you must send men there to do it; and of the four gentlemen at present in the field, one at least in the person of the Hon. D. A. McKinnon cannot be depended on. I have been informed that Mr. Prowse can be, as also can Mr. Irving. As to Mr. A. A. McLean, I do not know. But I trust the temperance people of Belfast do know; and while my sympathies are Conservative, they are still stronger for temperance.

I would close this hurried letter by calling to your attention the promises made to us by the leaders of the Liberal Party prior to the last general election, and you know the result. Don't let it be said that the temperance sentiment of this province is nothing, but a political football to be kicked about by everybody and thrown aside when it has served their purpose. Let us remember when we carried the country for prohibition we thought we were soon to behold the Elysian city of our dreams. But, alas! we found, to our sorrow, that we had only been wandering in the valley of delusion led on, as child, by Laurier's hand; and when he had used our innocent looks as a passport into the city of power, gently let us slide, and now we find that like the patriarch Joseph of old, in the Court by Potiphar's house, we were petted that we might be destroyed. Gentlemen, vote down the temperance Judases of whatever political ilk, and thus do your duty to your fellow-men, and may your efforts have success.

A Great Book Free.

When Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., published the first edition of his great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, he announced that after 630,000 copies had been sold at the regular price, $1.50 per copy, the profit on which would repay him for the great amount of labor and money expended in producing it, he would distribute the next half million free. As this number of copies has already been sold, he is now giving away, absolutely free, 500,000 of this most complete, interesting and valuable common sense medical work ever published—the recipient only being required to mail to him, at above address, (31) one-cent stamps, to cover cost of mailing only, and the book will be sent postpaid. It is a veritable medical library, complete in one volume. Contains 1008 pages, profusely illustrated. The Free is precisely the same as that sold at $1.50 except only that the books are in strong manila paper covers instead of cloth. Send now before all are given away.

Send 31 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only, and receive free a copy of Dr. Pierce's Medical Adviser. Address World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Montreal Daily Star has its own correspondent with the Canadian contingent. It will have and has had more war news than any other paper in Canada, and you can get it for a whole year every day for one dollar. Robert L. Cotton agent, P. O. Box 84, Ch. town.
