

DOWN THE BACK STRETCH

Tomorrow will be Summerside's gala day. For over sixty years races have been held over the track there and all through the years it has been a rallying point for the lover of the harness horse. The most famous of old time contests was the Hernandez-Black Pilot race back in the 1880's, that drew the largest crowd ever seen in the history of the western capital. Special boats were running from the mainland and special trains from all parts of the Island. Today with almost everyone possessing his transportation a journey to Summerside is an easy affair and given good weather Harold Gaudet, the proprietor, and his race manager Clifford MacDonald, can expect an attendance of at least 3,000. The entry list is a splendid one with the best horses in the Province ready to take the word.

Truro had a bang-up race meet last Saturday night with Seven Up Direct winning the eighth race by a mile. Single Streak, Buster C., Jacob Withrow and Dudley Budlong finishing in that order, and Petering his record from 2:12 4/5 to 2:11. Seven Up Direct is owned and was driven by Lloyd Walker, Halifax, and is a son of Patrick Direct 2:07 1/4, holder of the track pacing record at Montague. The first heat with the same horses, was won by Single Streak, owned by Lahey & McNeill, with Seven Up Direct 2, time 2:16. Another winner was Joey Harvester, owned by Lahey & McNeill and driven by Johnny Conroy. He headed Roy Sheburn 2:07 1/4, owned by Don MacAulay, Pugwash, in 2:20 2/5. O. K. Volo, owned by Les Bickerton and driven by B. Gould, won the fourth race with Doctor L. B. 2:13 1/4, formerly owned by Jimmie Power, second, and Petering at Court third. Starlight Eclipse finished first but was set back for interference. Time: 2:16 2/5. Johnny Conroy won the third dash with Quaker's Boy, the trotter Bud Kalmuck, owned and driven by Clayton MacLeod, second, and Billy Reynolds third. Time: 2:15 2/5, which shows that Quaker's Boy and Bud Kalmuck are in good form. In a later race Doctor L. B. turned the tables on O. K. Volo that finished fifth. Aubrey Budlong second. Johnny Conroy was leading driver for the night with three firsts and one second.

The second night racing program at Charlottetown last Saturday was a hummer, every race well contested and very close finishes. The fifth and ninth dashes were so good that photos were called for, even for third and fourth horses. In the fifth dash Mary Merk 2:08 3/5 hit the turn in last place but paced around the field to win by a head from Josedale Clipper. In the ninth dash Mary could not get to the Clipper, which won by a length in the same time—2:13. All the other horses were bunched closely and it was certainly an exciting sight to see them coming through the stretch to the

LITTLE SPORT

There shouldn't be many sporting fans throughout the Province who will miss seeing their favourite summer sport in action over the week-end, judging from the large program of events scheduled for Saturday and Sunday as part of the Dominion Day celebrations. The events will include horse racing, track and field, baseball, golf and tennis, and of course the hundreds of individuals who will be indulging in their favourite pastimes of angling, swimming, etc.

For the ardent racing fan, programs in both the Eastern and Western sections of the Province will be going full swing on Saturday afternoon, and will just be a matter of choice and convenience as to which one to attend. The eastern program will be at the Riverside Track at Vernon, and the Summerside Raceway will hold the spotlight in the west. Both meets will offer four classified events packed full of first class entries from Island and Maritime racing stables.

Highlighting activities at Memorial Field on Saturday afternoon, will be the holding of the third annual Maritime Invitation track and field games, when leading team entries from amateur athletic clubs in the three seaside Provinces will battle it out for individual and team athletic honors. The game scheduled for today between Knights and Victorias, has been postponed in order that Memorial Field may be prepared for Saturday's track and field meet.

In golfing circles, the first stage of the MacKinnon Cup Match will be played over the Belvedere course of the Charlottetown Golf Club on Saturday afternoon. There will be no scheduled competition in tennis, but the Charlottetown Tennis Club will have at least four of its six courts at Victoria Park going full swing over the week-end. Much activity in friendly, unscheduled play is also expected to take place over the Holy Redeemer and Knights of Columbus courts.

Continuing from yesterday's column, here is another baseball problem for the books, as outlined by Bill Evans, general manager of Detroit Baseball Club, in his publication "Knotty Problems of Baseball". "There were runners on second and third. The squeeze play was on, but the batsman missed the ball. The runner coming in from third, seeing he would be an easy out if he continued on to the plate, turned and retraced his steps to third. He was caught in a run-up but eventually got back to third in safety."

"Arriving there, he found the runner from second base also occupying third base. Hence there were two runners on the same base—third. The third baseman, getting the ball and determined to make sure, touched both runners. The umpire called out, by name, the man who had advanced from second. The original occupant of the bag, believing he was out, stepped off the bag and was again touched by the third baseman with

Two Horse Race Events Scheduled For Tomorrow

Two big harness horse racing programs, one at the Summerside Raceway and the other at the Riverside track, Vernon, will be held tomorrow afternoon as high light features to the Dominion Day sporting program. The meets are scheduled to get underway at two o'clock.

Both programs will present a class list of top-notch trotters and pacers from Island and mainland racing stables, and with four classified events of three heats each being featured at both tracks, racing fans from all over the Province should be treated to a full and exciting afternoon of keen racing entertainment.

Some 38 entries will face the starter at the Western Capital raceway while some 28 trotters and pacers will take the word over the Riverside oval during the day's events.

Boston Red Sox Win 22-14 Victory Over Philadelphia Athletics

(By Steve Robertson, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Boston Red Sox and Philadelphia Athletics went on a weird run-scoring spree at Philadelphia yesterday. When it was all over the Sox had won 22-14 and the two-team run total set an American league record.

At the end of the second inning 21 runs had been scored and the Sox led 14-7. From then on it was an unending parade of base hits and walks. Nine pitchers gave up 39 hits and 21 bases on balls.

It was the seventh straight victory for the Sox since Steve O'Neill took over from Joe McCarthy as manager.

At Detroit, Chicago White Sox settled down after a shaky first inning to beat the Tigers 7-3. At New York Washington Senators blasted three Yankee pitchers for 18 hits and a 12-7 win.

In the National League, New York Giants came from behind for an 11-5 conquest of the Dodgers at Brooklyn. At Chicago, the Cubs whipped St. Louis Cardinals 6-1.

One Homer

Oddly enough, only one home run was produced in the two hours and 50 minutes of the Boston-Philadelphia game. That was by Ted Williams, who now has smacked 24 four-baggers, putting him well on the road to Babe Ruth's record season total of 60.

It was Williams who broke the old run-making record by doubling in the ninth off Joe Coleman, fifth Philadelphia pitcher. That feat drove in two runs.

The old standard of 35 runs in a nine-inning game was set in 1901 by the same Red Sox and Athletics. The Sox won that one 23-12.

the ball. What was the status of the two runners who found themselves on the same bag?

"When two runners were on the same bag and there was no force, as was the case in this play, the bag belonged to the original occupant who was caught in a run-up—but got back to third safely. When both runners standing on the bag were touched with the ball, the umpire rendered the correct ruling when he called out the runner who had advanced from second. The original occupant, still entitled to the bag, pounced a 'boner' when he stepped off the base, believing he had been forced off the bag and thinking he had been retired. When the fielder then touched him with the ball, he was also out, completing a rather unusual double play."

HUNTERS' CORNER

The subject of leased ponds and fishing streams is a live one at the present time. Just recently an irate fisherman remarked to me: "There'll soon be no public fishing left... there should be a law passed to prevent land owners from leasing fishing rights on their mill ponds and streams. I really believe there are some who would go to this extreme to insure fishing for themselves if they had the power."

No land owner need fear such a drastic step. English law decrees that a man's house is his castle and what a man does with his own property is his own business. I'll admit that leasing of fishing and hunting rights is becoming a common practice particularly during the past two years. Naturally there is a reason for this. In some instances the fishermen themselves are to blame. In several instances where mill ponds have been leased the owners were practically forced to take such steps to insure privacy.

Last year the United Services Club leased Johnston's Pond (formerly Thompson's) at Suffolk. Two years ago I talked to the owner. He told me it had gotten to the point where he had to do something. During week days car owners would park their cars in the mill yard, lock them securely and then launch off for their favourite fishing hole. Customers would come for their lumber that had been sawed or to leave a load of logs to be made into boards, and would find a car in the way that it was impossible to move.

To quote his words in part: "We didn't feel safe in leaving home on a holiday or on Sunday. Sometimes a dozen cars would be parked on the mill property and people would be eating their lunch and smoking around the lumber and sawdust pile. On one occasion while we were away to church someone started up the saw and threw it off alignment. If someone wasn't right on deck to collect the boat fee there was always someone who would conveniently forget to pay up."

In short that's the story behind the Johnston's Pond leasing. Another thing that annoyed the mill owner to no end was the fact that he frequently had to appoint himself as a one man sanitary detail to clean up the mess, particularly if he spotted a car with a number of feminine anglers in it. This is not an isolated case. A mill owner in the Grandview district told me a couple of years ago that he hated to even think about leasing his mill pond as he liked to see people enjoy themselves. He lives some distance from his mill and informed me that on more than one occasion a party of fishermen had taken lumber from a pile left to be sawed, nailed them together with slabs, and made a fishing raft. Naturally it wasn't safe to use this lumber for fear a hidden nail or spike would damage the saw. He further commented: "If one took the trouble to listen it wasn't hard to hear the firewood slabs being thrown into the back of a car."

I realize that there is a great hunger among the angling fraternity for a place to go where they can be reasonably assured of getting a car.
