THE DAILY EXAMINER.

AUGUST 27, 1892.

Notes and Comments.

—It is stated that severe weather in the south of Ireland has caused great damage to the crops. The hay crop has been destroyed and the potato blight has appeared. The potato crop had promised to be the best in years.

—The Montreal Gazette points out that it was not Sir Charles Tupper, though for a time it was circulated with his alleged authority, who inserted in the English papers a statement to the effect that "even for the kinds of emigrants that Canada needed—capitalists, farmer, farm laborers and domestic servants—the demand was not so great as is generally imagined." As soon as his attention was called to it, Sir Charles caused the statement to be contradicted. The absurdity of saying that there was no demand for capitalists and farmers is so evident that the paragraph must have been simply a hoax. It was prrctically almost as false to say that there was no need in Canada for farm laborers and domestic servants. In correcting the statement Sir Charles rightly said that the Dominion would gladly receive many times the number of all classes annually arriving here.

—The London Times, in an editorial, gives warning that the closing of the Indian mints against the coinage of silver would be a dangerous expedient, as inducing a considerable difference between the value of the coined and that of the uncoined metal, thus stimulating unlicensed private coinage, and that the artificial value given to the rupee would deprive India of a monetary standard of any kind. In regard to the proposal to adopt bi-metalism, the Times reminds India that her trouble is no concern of England's except on the ground of sympathy. The Times agrees with the conviction of Sir David Barbour, of the India council, that a common standard of valne for England and India is absolutely essential. The adoption of a gold standard in India, the Times says, would be the best possible remedy, but it would raise difficulties. For example, what is to be done with the silver coinage now in private hands.

—The Department of State at Washington has news of an alarming character from Europe. United States Consul Johnson, at Hamburg, reports that he is advised officially by the Government health officer of that city of the presence of Asiatic cholera there, and he has accordingly refused to issue bills of health to departing vessels. Consul Williams, at Havre, reports an epidemic of Asiatic cholera at that place, with many deaths, and advises an inspection of the fast liner La Touraine. These facts have been promptly communicated to the health officers at Staten Island, and every precaution will be taken by them in the matter, especially in view of the fact that the epidemic has now reached two of the most important ports in Europe with which the United States has direct and rapid communication. Circulars have been issued to the customs officers directing the disinfection of baggage from cholera infected ports. Assistant Secretary Spaulding has had a conference with Dr. Austin, acting surgeon-general of the marine hospital service, in regard to further precautionary steps.

—The Toronto Empire says: It is a great pity that some means of registering the volume of interprovincial trade cannot be found. The absence of such information leads to all sorts of misrepresentation and error. Down in Prince Edward Island a flagrant instance of this has occurred, where some disingenuous politician has been arguing that the province's export of eggs is more valuable than its export of oats. He points, no doubt, to the Trade and Navigation returns, which chronicle the value of eggs sent abroad in 1891 at $213,545, while the oats only reach $101,686. But as THE EXAMINER, published at Charlottetown, states, much of the oats are sent to the other provinces either for local consumption or transhipment abroad, and thus the books of the province, so to speak, contain no record of the transaction. The eggs going abroad direct are carefully recorded. Under such circumstances every opportunity is afforded the uncandid politician to state the thing that is not. Why, wails the pessimist, have we not increased our aggregate trade more than from $153,000,000 in 1879 to $230,000,000 in 1892? As a matter of fact, although the increase on the face of things is handsome enough, we have done far better, but there is no official record of inter-provincial transactions. A careful authority has estimated the internal trade at $80,000,000. This is very good as an estimate, but something more solid to stand on would be far better. The difficulty of getting at private transactions between merchant and merchant is very real and hard to bridge, though at least some basis for calculation would be afforded if we had the returns of the transportation companies, railways, and boats, the various classes of freight carried, and so on In the absence of anything definite the depreciation of the pessimist is as good as the word of the optimist; and often travels further.

The Late James Hughes.

ALL that was mortal of the late James Hughes, whose death at Ottawa recently under exceptionally sad circumstances has already been referred to by THE EXAMINER, arrived here last evening in the express train. The body was accompanied from Ottawa by Mr. John Stringer, an intimate friend of the deceased, and Mr. John Hughes met the remains at Summerside. The fellow-employes of the deceased in the census department sent a beautiful floral cross. On arrival in this city the casket was taken in charge by undertaker Hennessey and conveyed to the residence of Mr. Hughes' mother, King Street. The funeral procession from the station to the house was a large one, and expressions of regret at the untimely death of such a promising young man were heard on all sides. This morning the body was interred in the Roman Catholic Cemetery, and the floral cross referred to above was placed on the grave. There was a large attendance at the funeral. High Mass of Requiem was sung in St. Dunstan's Cathedral by Rev. Alexander McAulay.

Mr. W. C. DesBrisay, of Ottawa, in a private letter to a friend in this city, thus refers to the late Mr. James Hughes:

"Of course you have heard all about the accident to James Hughes, and his death. I know little or nothing myself, as I am sorry to say I did not see him. I made enquiry every day and learned that he was progressing satisfactorily, but as I had no very pleasant recollections of the hospital, I was in no hurry to visit him. However, on Monday night, when I heard that he had been sitting up, I resolved to go and see him next day. On Tuesday morning I was greatly shocked, on opening the Citizen, to read a notice of his death.

"I saw but little of him here until he came some time ago to live in St. Patrick's parish, when I met him every Sunday at church. I am told that he was very expert at manipulating the electric tabulating machine used in the census branch, and I could see for myself yesterday and this morning that he had warm friends among his office-mates His most intimate friend, Mr. P. A. Egleson, was away when he died and returned only in time for the funeral, but Mr. W. A Harkin, the correspondent of the Associated Press, was most assiduous in his attentions both before and after the sad event. The poor fellow did not know that he was going to die until told of it—deceived by the absence of pain, he thought he was going to get better. He had every spiritual consolation and support, and I am assured that his death was most edifying. This morning his remains were taken from the Grey Nuns' Hospital at 8 30 to St. Bridget's Church, where a solemn mass of requiem was offered by Rev. Father Gascon. Owing to the late hour last evening at which the arrangements were concluded, no notice of the funeral could be advertised in time. Considering this, the attendance at the church was larger than I expected. Among other Islanders present besides myself were Donald McIsaac, T. P. Gorman, J. W. Hughes and Ambrose Hughes. Mr. Matthew F. Walsh (Private Secretary to Hon. John Costigan) was indefatigable in rendering every assistance in his power to carry out the funeral arrangements."

Personal.

Mr. C. D. Schofield, of St. John, N. B., is the guest of the Master of the Rolls.

Mr. J. Heber Haslam, of the C P. R., arrived in the city yesterday afternoon. He is registered at the Hotel Davies.

Rev. Henry Dickie, pastor of Summerside Presbyterian Church, will preach at both services in Zion Church to-morrow.

Miss M. Ashley, of Charlottetown, who has for the last few weeks been visiting Mr. John Forgarty, of Bridge street, left for home this morning.—Moncton Transcript.

The Moncton Transcript says: Mr. J. W. Whitehead and wife left this morning on a couple of weeks' trip to Prince Edward Island.

The thanks of THE EXAMINER are due Mr. Ernest Crabbe, of Edmonton, Manitoba, for a neatly printed pamphlet entitled: "A few facts about the Edmonton District, N. W. T."

Mr. R. B. Gardener, of Boston, manager of the North Atlantic Steamship Company, is visiting Charlottetown. He arrived last evening and is registered at the Hotel Davies.

Capt. Thomas Foley, formerly of this city, arrived here last night on a visit to his friends. He is looking hale and hearty, after ten years' absence. He is now interested in several mines in Cape Breton, which we hope will turn out well. His old friends will be glad to see him and wish him success in his new enterprise.

A young man who claims to be the son of Sir John Gladstone and nephew of Hon. W. E. Gladstone, received pecuniary aid from St. Andrew's society at Detriot a few days ago, alleging that he had lost his fortune while farming in Manitoba and wished to reach Chicago, where he expected a remittance from relatives.

William Doyle, an elderly Buffalonian, claims to have given O'Donovan Rossa $110 to blow up England some time ago, and, England still being intact, he has arrived in New York with a determination to get his money back. As it would probably violate Rossa's conscience to return the money, and he is a right good hand at blowing, perfidious Albion might as well prepare for the worst.

"Hernewood," P. E. I., is the residence of a retired officer of the British army, and author of no mean repute. Col. Hunter Duvar is a man whom it is a real pleasure to meet. He has an estate of over 700 acres, which it was his intention when years ago he settled there to convert it into one huge park, but he has since changed his mind, and a large portion of it is now under cultivation. Col. Duvar is the author of "Robeval" and several other standard words. He is a fine old English gentleman, devoted to his books and his estate. His son Ernest has large milling interests on his Island, and is one of its leading men.—Toronto Empire.

Echoes from the Royal Commission

REV. MR. BREWER—The Methodist Church discourages the use of fermented wine.

MR. GIGAULT—How do you reconcile that with the following verse from Holy Scripture: "Drink no longer water, but use a little wine for thy stomach's sake and thine often infirmities."

MR. BREWER—I am not here to enter into controversies, but I consider it against the divine law to drink wine as a beverage. The Bible will not allow men to use what is destructive of physical health and morals.

MARCUS—Gunpowder, poison, overwork, excessive eating, excessive fasting, insufficient clothing, the elements of fire, water, light, &c., may be destructive of physical health and morals. Will Mr. Brewer deny that the Bible permits the legitimate use or exercise of these? It is proper that the public should fully appreciate the abilities of a new Christian philosopher; and if Mr. Brewer can only prove that any of God's creations is essentially evil, his name will surely be immortalized.

Mr. Brewer says the Methodist Church discourages the use of fermented wine. I understand his church entertains the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper. Will Mr. Brewer state whether or not the wine used on those occasions is fermented; also, whether or not the wine used by our Saviour when instituting the Lord's Supper was fermented? At the same time, let Mr. Brewer not be led further into error by any attempt to explain.

MAYOR HAVILAND—I take a glass of wine now and then when I feel weak.

To Mr. Clarke—I am opposed to a license law; I prefer the Scott Act.

To Judge McDonald—I never bought wine in violation of the Scott Act. I happened to have wine in my cellar before the Act was enforced.

MARCUS—There was not among our citizens a more earnest worker on behalf of the Scott Act than our worthy Mayor Haviland. Mr. Haviland, it is true, still adheres to many of the institutions of his earlier days, and, like all our old time gentry, takes an occasional glass of wine. When the Scott Act came into force 11 years ago, Mr. Haviland found no cause for alarm. He replenished his cellar with an efficient supply of wine, and like St. Patrick when establishing the order of the "Monks of the Screw,"

"He said on the word of a saint
That the fountain should never run dry."

Mr. Haviland is now a man of very mature years, and I understand for some time past has not been in the best of health. He takes a glass of wine whenever he feels weak. The chain of inference is close and strong to an unusual degree.

MR. HERBERT BEER—I am opposed to a license law. I consider the Scott Act a good law.

To Mr. Clarke—With very few exceptions the most intelligent and most respectable portion of the community voted for the Scott Act. The remainder voted with the rum sellers against it. I consider the Scott Act a benefit to me, because the money instead of going into the pockets of the rumseller for liquor would go into my pocket for groceries.

MARCUS—At the time of the last Scott Act election in this city there were two churches that openly resisted the continuance of the Act in force. These were St. Dunstan's and St. Peter's Cathedrals. This fact was well known to Mr. Beer, and to it is the defeat of the Act mainly attributable. These congregations admittedly contain many respectable citizens. Mr. Beer knowing this, has wilfully and deliberately slandered these communions. Mr. Beer wishes the re-enactment of the Act because, among other reasons, it will divert the money from the pocket of the rumsellers into his own. How would it be if those whom he has thus slandered should, when purchasing their groceries resent this calumny by making Mr. Beer feel their indignation in his most sensitive part—his pocket?
