THE VILLAGE CONVICT.

[From Scribner's Monthly for August.]
CONCLUDED.

'They are not down on you,' said Susan.
'Nobody is down on you. It's all your own imagination. And if you had gone anywhere that you was a stranger, you know that the first thing you would have done would have been to call a meetin' and tell all the people that you had burned down a man's barn, and been in the State's prison, and that you wanted them all to know it at the start; and you wouldn't have told them why you did it, and how young you was then, and how Eliphalet treated your mother, and how you was going to pay him for all he lost. Here, everybody knows that side of it. In fact,' she added with a twinkle in her eye, 'I have sometimes had an idea that the main thing they don't like is to see you savin' every cent to pay to Eliphalet.'

'And yet it was on your say that I took up that plan,' said Eph. 'I never thought of it till you asked me when I was goin' to begin to pay him up.'

'And you ought to,' said Susan. 'He has a right to the money—and then you don't want to be under obligations to that man all your life. Now, what you want to do is to cheer up and go around among folks. Why, now, you're the only fish-buyer there is that the men don't watch when he's weighing their fish. You'll own up to that, for one thing, won't you?'

'Well, they are good fellows that bring fish to me,' he said.

'They weren't good fellows when they traded at the great wharf,' said Susan.
'They had a quarrel down there once a week, regularly.'

'Well, suppose they do trust me in that,' said Eph. 'I can never rub out that I've been in State's prison.'

'You don't want to rub it out. You can't rub anything out that's ever been; but you can do better than rub it out.'

'What do you mean?'

'Take things just the way they are,' said Susan, 'and show what can be done.
Perhaps you'll stake a new channel out, for others to follow in that haven't half so much chance as you have. And that's what you will do too, she added.

'Susan!' he said, 'if there's anything I can ever do, in this world or the next, for you or your folks, that's all I ask for, the chance to do it. Your folks and you shall never want for anything while I'm alive.'

'There's one thing sure,' he added, rising. 'I'll live by myself and be independent of everybody, and make my way all alone in the world; and if I can make 'em all finally own up and admit that I'm honest with 'em, I'm satisfied. That's all I'll ever ask of anybody. But there's one thing that worries me sometimes,—that is, whether I ought to come here so often? I'm afraid, sometimes, that it'll hinder your father from gettin' work, or something—for you folks to be friends with me.'

'I think such things take care of themselves,' said Susan, quietly. 'If a chip won't float, let it sink.'

'Good night,' said Eph, and he walked off, and went home to his echoing house.
After that his visits to Joshua's became less frequent.

It was a bright day in March—one of those which always redound the reputation of that desperado of a month. Eph was leaning on his fence, looking now down the bay and now to where the sun was sinking in the marshes. He knew that all the other men had had no heart to intrude himself—that free democratic parliament where he had often gone with his father in childhood; where the boys, rejoicing in a general assembly of their own, had played ball outside, while the men debated gravely within. He recalled the time when he himself had so proudly given his first vote for President, and how his father had introduced him then to his friends from distant parts of the town. He remembered how he had heard his father speak there, and how respectfully everybody had listened to him. That was in the long ago, when they had lived at the great farm. And then came the thought of the mortgage, and of Eliphalet's foreclosure, and—

'Hallo, Eph!'

It was one of the men from whom he took fish,—a plain-spoken, sincere little man.

'Why wa'n't you down to town-meet'?'
'I was busy,' said Eph.
'How'd ye like the news?'

'What news?'

There was never any good news for him now.

'Hain't heard who's elected town-clerk?'

'No.'

Had they elected Eliphalet, and so expressed their settled distrust for him, and sympathy for the man whom he had injured?

'Who's elected?' he asked, harshly.
'You be!' said the man; 'went in fly-in', all hands clappin' and stompin' their feet!'

An hour later the doctor drove up, stopped, and walked toward the kitchen door.
As he passed the window, he looked in.
Eph was lying on his face, upon the settle, as he had first seen him there, his arms beneath his head.

'I will not disturb him now,' said the doctor.

One breezy afternoon, in the following summer, Captain Seth laid aside his easy every-day clothes, and transformed himself into a stiff broadcloth image, with a small silk hat and creaking boots. So attired, he set out in a high open buggy, with his wife, also in black, but with gold spectacles, to the funeral of an aunt. As they pursued their jog-trot journey along the Salt Hay Road, and came to Ephraim Morse's cottage, they saw Susan sitting in a shady little porch, at the front door, shelling peas, and looking down the bay.

'How is everything, Susan,' called out

Captain Seth: 'bout time for Eph to be gittin' in?'

'Yes,' she answered, nodding and smiling, and pointing with a pea-pod: 'that's our boat, just coming up to the wharf with her peak down.'

Meeting of the Presbytery.

The Presbytery of Prince Edward Island met in St. David's Church, Georgetown, on the 3rd instant. There were present: Rev.
Alexander Munro, Henry Crawford, J. M.
McLeod, Neil McKay, John McKinnon, Wm. R. Frame, Wm. Grant, S. C. Gunn, Charles Fraser, A. F. Carr, Wm. P. Archibald, E. S. Bayne, A. S. Stewart, John McDonald and Wm. A. Mason. Elders' commissions were read and sustained from the Kirk sessions of Valleyfield, Sumner-side, Georgetown, East St. Peter's, Alberton, Cavendish, Murray Harbor, Belfast, New London North, Clifton, and Woodville, appointing Messrs. Angus Bruce, Alex. Mc-Kay, J. A. Rutherford, Lestock Anderson, Wm. Wells, James Moffatt, Wm. McLeod, Wm. Ross, John Doughart, John McLeod, and Donald Beaton, respectively, to represent them in Presbytery and Synod during the current year. Their names were added to the roll, and Messrs. Donald Beaton, Wm. Ross, and John McLeod, being present, took their seats as members of the Presbytery. Rev. Wm. Grant was chosen Moderator of Presbytery, and Rev. J. M.
McLeod Clerk, for the current year. A cordial vote of thanks was tendered Rev.
Mr. McKay, the retiring Moderator, for the very efficient manner in which he had discharged the duties of his office during the past year.

Two very cordial and harmonious calls to Mr. John McLeod, probationer, were sustained, one from Clifton and Granville, and the other from Strathalbyn. These calls were placed in Mr. McLeod's hands.
He stated that the claims of the two congregations were so equally balanced that he felt it difficult to decide, but after a few hours consideration intimated his acceptance of the call to Strathalbyn. The Presbytery agreed to meet in Charlottetown, on the 29th instant, at 2 o'clock, for the purpose of hearing Mr. McLeod's ordination trials, and on the following day in Strathalbyn, for his ordination. Mr.
Grant was appointed to preside at the ordination, Mr. Gunn to preach the sermon, Mr. McKay to address the Ministers, and Mr. Grant to address the congregation in Gelic, and Mr. McLeod in English. The Edict was appointed to be served on the congregation by the Rev. Mr. Grant, on Sabbath, 14th instant.

A member of Presbytery was appointed to preach in Clifton and Granville on Sabbath 1st, intimate to the congregation Mr. McLeod's declination of their call, and express to their disappointment.

Rev. John McDonald laid on the table of the Presbytery his resignation of the Pastoral charge of Dundas. Mr. Gunn was appointed to preach in Dundas on the 1st inst., and to intimate to the congregation that their pastor's resignation is before Presbytery, and cite them to appear at the next meeting of this Court, for their interests.

Rev. Mr. Crawford's resignation of Tyne Valley and Egmont Bay sections of his congregation was allowed to lie on the table until the next meeting.

Rev. K. McLennan was appointed to cooperate with a delegate to be appointed by the College Board in collecting unpaid subscriptions to the College Endowment Fund.

Rev. Mr. McKinnon, having obtained leave of absence for six months, Rev. Dr.
Bain was appointed to supply his congregation for two months from this date.

The next Quarterly Meeting of the Presbytery was appointed to be held in Summerside on the first Wednesday of November. It was further agreed to hold a Sabbath School Convention on the afternoon and evening of that day. Rev. Mr. Mc-Kay was appointed the Convener of the Committee to make arrangements for the Convention.

Congregations which have not already done so, are enjoined to forward to Mr.
Gunn, Treasurer, their annual contributions to meet travelling expenses of Delegates to the General Assembly.

Rev. Mr. Paradis was appointed to preach in Tignish, Montrose, and Mill River, for the month of August, and Mr. Malcolm Campbell in Clifton and Granville for the same month.

Rev. J. G. Cameron was appointed Treasurer of the Presbytery Fund.

The Presbytery adjourned, to meet in the basement of Zion Church on the 9th inst. at 2 o'clock.
J. McLEOD, Clerk.

The liberal bequests of the late John McKay, of Montreal, were recently referred to by the newspapers as being in contrast with the usual ways of rich men in this country. The details are as follows:— The Home and Foreign Missions, Presbyterian Church, $20,000; Presbyterian Colleges in Montreal and Manitoba, $13,000; Presbyterian Churches in the city, $4,800; French Evangelization Society, $5,000; Free Church of Scotland, $7,500; American Presbyterian Board of Missions, $1-000; Labrador Mission, $300; Christian Associations, $1,500; Irish Protestants and Scotch Benevolent Societies, $2,500; Protestant House of Refuge, $1,000; de Infants' Home, Protestant and Orphan Societies, each $2,000; to the Deaf and Dumb Institution, which he formed in his lifetime at a cost of $5,000, he leaves $2,000; General Hospital, $2,000; Temperance Society, $2,000. The private bequests include his two brothers, $30,000 each, and a number of nephews and nieces who got from $7,000 to $14,000 each, except Miss Henrietta Gordon, a niece, who kept house for deceased and gets $130,000 and a private mansion worth $50,000 more. Legacies of $100 each are left to old servants, the will specifying Minnie and Catherine, who served so long in the house.
