For Tomorrow THE general trend of astrological activities presages a difficult and perhaps dangerous week end. From all angles there are found setbacks, delays, disruptions, miscarriage of plans and nullified objectives. Trips, changes or other activities are under the menace of unfavorable, if not unfortunate, astral influences. Sudden catastrophe, accident or obstacles could mar planned programs.

For the Birthday Those whose birthday it may be prepared for a year in which the best laid plans may miscarry. This is due to bad judgment, impulsive activities, or possibly because of some sudden erratic or violent visitation. Many factors tend to upset plans and schedules. Refrain from rude actions and unruly speech. Postpone all important plans and programs if possible, since the unpredictable may interfere.

Day After Tomorrow THE horoscope holds little encouragement or comfort, although elders, pursuing their routine vocations or avocations, may escape the friction or peculiar involvements of those engaged in practical, responsible duties. There is a sinister or weird situation for all to face with composure, discretion, discipline.

If It Is Your Birthday Those whose birthday it may have a year of the peculiar, strange and trying, with curious developments in all phases of daily living. Although there is available a staunch stabilizing force to fortify against unusual, perhaps sinister, involvements, generally the auguries advise extraordinary precaution against the queer, disruptive and tricky, Schemer and treachery could compromise or distort even the best intentions. Postpone action where possible.

The following letter has been received by Mrs. A. B. Cosh, in acknowledgement of a box of beautiful garments sent from the Charlottetown branch of the Queen Mary Needlework Guild, from the lady-in-waiting to Her Majesty Queen Mary.

Marlborough House, London S. W. I. 20th Sept. 1952.

Dear Mrs. Cosh: Queen Mary has just come back to London and has now seen the lovely contents of the Charlottetown Branch of the Queen Mary Needlework Guild birthday gift box.

Her Majesty is delighted with all the most useful garments; they will indeed bring much pleasure and comfort to those who receive them.

Queen Mary will be glad if you will convey to all the officers and members of the Charlottetown Branch, Her Majesty's warmest thanks for all the trouble they have taken to send her such a delightful gift. Queen Mary is very much touched that once again so many kind people should have contributed to her Guild in such a generous manner.

Yours very sincerely, Constance Milnes Gaskell, Lady-in-Waiting.

TREATMENT OF BALDNESS BY CORTISONE

Several years ago an Illinois physician published the results of a treatment for alopecia areata—bald spots—and also for general loss of hair from scalp—baldness. His results, together with before and after illustrations, were so satisfactory that he temporarily gave up his practice and spent several years in further study. Unfortunately, his further investigations were disappointing and he returned to his practice.

There is no question but that if some remedy for restoring lost hair or starting new growth were discovered, there would be a great demand for it. Some physicians of standing in the profession have reported some success with vitamin B complex.

Since the discovery of cortisone and ACTH, these two preparations, so helpful in arthritis, have been used with more or less success in the treatment of old or chronic ailments, so it comes with no surprise to learn that research workers have tried cortisone in alopecia areata.

In Journal of Investigative Dermatology, Baltimore, Drs. C. J. Dillaha and S. Rothman state that the following observations have suggested that hormone (gland) factors may play an accessory or helpful role in alopecia areata; regrowth of hair during pregnancy, and recurrence of alopecia with reestablishment of the menses; the onset of alopecia coinciding with thyrotoxicosis (poisonous form of goiter); and the fact that it is more severe if it begins before puberty (12 to 14 in girls and 14 to 16 in boys).

"The reasoning that led Dr. Hensch and associates to use corticotropin (ACTH) and cortisone in rheumatoid arthritis prompted Drs. Dillaha and Rothman to try cortisone in patients with alopecia areata." They found that three of four patients with long-standing alopecia areata responded to treatment with cortisone acetate taken by mouth. In the one patient who did not respond to this treatment, the disease had appeared before puberty. In the other three patients, new hair began to grow after four weeks of treatment.

It is not unusual for hair to grow within two years after it has been lost but the fact that the disease in all three cases was present for five or more years without any tendency to any growth of hair is regarded as proof that the cortisone treatment was responsible for the regrowth of hair. The fact that cortisone stirs up and heals other chronic ailments should make it worth a trial in baldness.

Calling Mr. Smith

A reveller rang the door bell at 3 a. m. A sleepy-eyed man came to the door. "What do you want?" he mumbled.

"Are you Mr. Jones?" asked the reveller.

"No," returned the tenant, sleepily. "My name is Stanislawski."

"Are you sure you're not Mr. Jones?"

Modern Etiquette

Q. I have a very good friend who is constantly making glaring errors of grammar in her speech. Wouldn't it be all right for me to attempt to correct her?

A. I don't know how close your friend is, but in most cases this would put a quick ending to a "beautiful friendship." In any case it is very rude to correct another's speech, unless specifically requested to do so.

Q. If one receives a written invitation that does not specify how long one is to visit as a house guest, should the letter of acceptance state it?

A. Yes; specify how long you intend to stay.

Q. When should a dinner guest who has finished eating place his napkin on the table?

A. Not until the hostess has placed hers on the table.

Fine Young Couple Want To Adopt Second Child

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 19, my husband is 25. We have been married three years and have a little boy 17 months old. We had our second child two weeks ago, and he lived only eleven hours. I can't have another baby. We would like to adopt a baby sometime soon while our little son is still young. We think children should grow up together and we both love children.

My mother-in-law doesn't want us to adopt a baby. She thinks we will always show a preference for our own. While my husband and I know that it will be more natural for us to care for our own, we still think we can love an adopted child. We have our own farm and can provide a good home. My doctor has offered his help in finding a baby for us.

ANSWER: Yours is one of the most heart-warming letters I have had in quite a while. If all young people were as conscientious and thoughtful as you and your husband, divorce courts would go out of business in no time.

YOU SHOULD SUCCEED

You have a fine idea in your wish to provide your son with a sister or brother, and there is absolutely no reason why it shouldn't be successful all around. Your mother-in-law is dead wrong to say it wouldn't work, since it has proven gratifyingly possible for many a couple in circumstances similar to yours. I would advise you to wait until your doctor says you are physically fit to take on the added

Q. How can I polish ebony toilet articles?

A. A brilliant polish can be given to ebony by rubbing a little white Vaseline jelly into it with a soft cloth. It is necessary to keep rubbing until the wood has absorbed all the jelly.

Q. How can I improve the taste of baking powder biscuits?

A. When preparing baking powder biscuits, you will find their flavor improved by the addition of a teaspoonful of sugar.

Q. How can I remove vegetable stains from the fingers?

A. By holding the fingers for a few minutes in very strong tea. Then wash with soap and water.
