

The lips may laugh when the body itself is crying out in anguish. When a woman laughs it does not always mean that she is happy. It is a woman's province to please, and she will bravely endeavor to do this under the most harrowing circumstances. Thousands of women who are considered happy, and charming, and entertaining, secretly endure suffering that would drive the average man to a madhouse. In almost every instance these sufferings are due to disorders of the distinctly feminine organism. They rob a woman of her health, her beauty, her amiability, her usefulness as a housekeeper, her capability as a mother, and her charm and power in the social and religious world.

There is a safe, sure, speedy and permanent remedy for these troubles. It is Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It acts directly on the delicate and important feminine organs that bear the brunt of maternity. It endows them with health, strength, vigor and elasticity. It allays inflammation, heals ulceration, soothes pain and stops exhausting drains. It banishes the maladies of the expectant months, and makes baby's advent easy and almost painless. It insures the little new-comer's health and an ample supply of nourishment. It fits for wifehood and motherhood. Thousands of women who were almost hopeless invalids have testified to their recovery under this wonderful medicine. Medicine dealers sell it. Accept no substitute or inferior imitation.

"For seven years," writes Mrs. Louise Arthur, of Oswego, Ireland Co., N. C., "I suffered untold agony from female weakness. I then commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and improved very fast. It saved my life."

ALMONT WILKES,
2.31 1/2

The well known stallion, "Almont Wilkes" by "Bernardo," 2.37 1/2, dam "Olivia Wilkes," 2.39 1/4, dam of "Gracie Wilkes," 2.32, and "Almont Wilkes," 2.31 1/2, by Geo. Wilkes, Jr., will stand the season of 1895 at Nicholson's Training Stables, Grafton St., opp. Court House, Chgoon.

Almont Wilkes is a big, stylish, carriage horse, he stands over 16 hands high and weighs 1200 lbs. He is the sire of Montrose, 2.20 3/4, and West Wilkes, 2.39 1/4. Montrose was the horse that put up such a gallant fight in the free-for-all at Chgoon track last fall, and there is no doubt that only for the concerted action of the other drivers, he would have won with ease. He trotted 13 heats, winning 4 first places and 5 seconds.

West Wilkes started in the 2.40 class at Summerside last fall, a green horse right off the pasture, getting a mark of 2.39 1/4 in a field of seasoned campaigners, and his owner expects him to get a mark of 2.23 this year. This proves that Almont Wilkes sires speed of a high order, and being a remarkable good looker, has always been a prize-winner in the show ring even when up against the best in the land.

Interesting and Racy Letter From Mr. Geo. A. Dixon.

Mrs. George A. Dixon has kindly favored THE EXAMINER with a look over a letter she received from her husband yesterday. The letter is dated "Skagway, Alaska, March 22," and is very interesting. By permission of Mrs. Dixon we make the following extract:

"Here I am after a passage of seven days from Vancouver, and one of the hardest passages I ever want to experience. As I wrote you before leaving we were on board a steamer called the Ning Chow. She is from China, and previous to coming on this trip was what they call a tramp steamer, that is a freighter. She is large, and is manned by thirty Chinamen. The Ning Chow had no staterooms, and was fitted especially for this trade.

"There were bunks for two to sleep in, side by side three tier deep. Dawson had to get out of his to turn.

"There were 580 passengers composed of Frenchmen. We slept together, and these Frenchmen would jabber away nearly all night. Next was a dining room made between decks, with tables of rough boards and seats the same. An hour before the dinner bell would ring the passengers would be standing five rows deep waiting to hear that ring. No one was allowed to sit at the table before the bell rang, and in their hurry out to get there the great majority would be tumbling over each other.

"All seated, a large bucket of what they called soup would be put upon the centre of the table. There would be a large ladle in it, and everyone would make a grab. The result would be that the alleged soup would be spilled over the boards and dishes and finally some would reach the stomachs of those seated about the table. This was the first course. For the second course a large milk-pail of the same dimensions would be placed in the same position. It contained what was called stew, and this would soon meet the same fate as the soup. They would take meat out of the pan with their hands if the spoon was in use, and when the repast was over there was nothing left but soup stew, broken bread and jabbering passengers all mixed up together.

"We were second class and had to eat at the same tables. But as there was only twenty-five large tables they were set three times. We were always last, this meant everything cold, dirty plates, etc. We stood this for three days, taking one meal a day which was all we could put down, and after that we went to the purser and protested vigorously. We told him that our party had paid $4,000 in hard cash for freight and did not propose to eat with such people, with people who paid nothing but $27.50 for a passage. After that we got a table of our own with better food and finally were eating with the captain.

"After being out three days the ship ran short of water, and for 50 hours most of the passengers had to eat bread and cheese, our oxen had no water for the same space of time. However we arrived at Wrangell after a rough experience across Queen Charlotte Sound. I don't think there were twenty out of the 580 passengers who were not sick. Brent and I were all right. I stopped out on deck nearly all night helping poor sick sufferers.

Get More and You Get Less

Why is it every sarsaparilla which tries to sell itself, ranges itself against Ayer's as the standard? Why is it that all have to offer extra inducements—bigger bottles, fancy wrappers, cheaper price—anything, everything, but the one inducement of quality?

Ayer's Sarsaparilla has never been equaled by any cheap imitation of it, and quality tells, just as blood tells.

It is the Standard.

"I have sold Ayer's Sarsaparilla for more than twenty-five years, and have never heard anything but words of praise from my customers; not a single complaint has ever reached me. A preparation must possess great merit to maintain such a reputation. I believe your sarsaparilla to be the best blood purifier that has ever been introduced to the general public. I often hear other manufacturers say that this is 'as good as Ayer's,' but no one ever yet heard it said that Ayer's was 'as good' as any other kind. They always set Ayer's up as the standard of excellence."—S. F. Boyce, Duluth, Minn.

THE YUKON SITUATION.

(Montreal Star.)

The Senate has shown good judgment in adjourning the debate on Mr. Hamilton Smith's bill to charter a railway from Pyramid Harbor to the Yukon. The scheme has some advantages over the Sifton-MacKenzie and Mann scheme; for instance, there is some chance that Pyramid Harbor may be conceded to be a Canadian port, which under conceivable circumstances is Fort Wrangell ever likely to be. But from a Canadian point of view the Pyramid Harbor route is not the best that could be chosen. Apart, however, from the merits of the bill, it was only courteous for the Senate to give the Government an opportunity to define its new Yukon policy before committing the Upper House to any scheme whatever. It is not to be imagined for one moment that the Government will adopt a policy of chronic sulks on the Yukon question because MacKenzie and Mann do not own the country; nor is it conceivable that this ministry of all the talents completely exhausted itself of ideas when it evolved Mr. Sifton's contract. The Government may be able to come to a reasonable arrangement with Messrs. MacKenzie and Mann, or they may undertake to build a real all Canadian railway to a real all Canadian port themselves. In either case they could be sure of the cordial support of the Senate. All that a Yukon policy needs to command it to the Upper House is that it shall be honest, fair and patriotic. Perhaps the wisest plan for the Government to adopt would be to call for tenders for the construction of a railway from a Canadian port to the Yukon.

The frenzy of some of the Government organs over the defeat of the atrocious Yukon deal has no parallel except in the frenzy of the same organs over the action of the Senate when it forced the Government to pay a great deal less for the Drummond County Railway than the Government had arranged to pay. The high principle our esteemed contemporaries are contending for appears to be the indispensability of the rake-off.

—Commenting upon the Senate actions with reference to the Yukon Railway contract the Mail and Empire says: "A Government of business men would have made a business bargain, and a business bargain would have been welcomed by the country, and would have gone through.

—The Templar reports that the Dominion Alliance has decided to waste no powder on the plebiscite and will refuse to take a hand in the campaign if the Dominion Government yields to the liquor lobbyists and complicates the issue by placing upon the ballot questions which are only incidental to the discussion of Prohibition; and continues "Let the liquor people bring the question up elsewhere if they want them discussed, and Prohibitionists will meet every argument or else suffer defeat. Give us fair fighting."

The persons who have operated against Canada in this matter are the Ministers, and more particularly Mr. Clifford Sifton. If delay in the improving of the means of communication retards development and trade, the persons who are responsible for it are those who made the necessities of the country the pretext for a ridiculously exorbitant secret contract. They carry the blame for the incapacity which has produced the delay, and for the rapidity which characterizes every clause of their impudent exploiting scheme. What is to be done now? It is idle to shout against the Senate. Everybody believes the Senate did right. It would not be safe to go to the country. An appeal based upon the Crow's Nest, Yukon and Drummond deals would lead to a smashing defeat, for be it understood there is a public conscience in this country, and honour although floated, is by no means dead. There seems to be but one way out, and that is to follow the Drummond precedent, namely, to try again and to do better.

DIED.

At her residence, Crapaud, on Sunday, the 13th ult., after a protracted illness, borne with patience and resignation to the Divine Will, Margaret Coughalin, relict of the late John Coughalin, Esq. Deceased was a native of county Wexford, Ireland, and emigrated to this Island in the year 1830 and was in the eighty-fifth year of her age at the time of her death. Mrs. Coughalin, was a woman of kind and gentle disposition possessing many admirable traits of character which endeared her to her many friends and gained for her the respect and esteem of all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. Her remains were taken on Tuesday, the 15th, to St. Joseph's Church Kelly's Cross, where a Mass of Requiem was sung by the Pastor, Rev. D. B. Reid, the burial service being performed by Rev. P. D. McGuigan. During the ceremonies the choir, were ably assisted by Revd's Jas E. McDonald, Hope River, and J. J. McDonald, Kinkora. The large number of people of all denominations who, despite the almost impassable state of the roads, followed her remains to the grave, bore eloquent testimony to the respect and esteem in which deceased was held in the community in which she so long resided. She leaves one son and two daughters to mourn the loss of a kind and loving mother, who have the sympathy of the community in their bereavement. May her soul rest in peace.

OBITUARY.

The death of Barbara, beloved wife of Robert White way, Esq., has cast a gloom over Murray River and vicinity. Deceased was 69 years of age at the time of her death, and during life was respected and endeared for her kind, charitable, hospitable disposition, amiable reputation and christian virtues. The familiar name of the good and amiable Mrs. Robert White way will be long cherished and indelibly implanted in the memories of all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. She leaves a sorrowing husband, four sons and three daughters to lament her untimely demise. Trusting in an all-wise Redeemer, she died in the full plenitude of her powers, having but a few moments before conversed with her daughter and then like ripe fruit dropped into the arms of her husband where she expired without a struggle. Her remains were interred in the new cemetery at Murray River, and were followed by a large concourse of people including waggoners and pedestrians, thus showing the high esteem in which she was held by the general community. "Blessed are the undefiled in the way, who walk in the law of the Lord."

He Told Them.

At a general election in Victoria a candidate who was making a speech exclaimed, "What is it that has made England what she is—mighty, revered, feared and respected?" And every one was trying to think, when a voice with a rich, sonorous brogue in the back part of the hall answered, "Oirland."

An old Georgia dandy, on being asked if he believed the whale swallowed Jonah, replied: "Yes, sah. Jonah didn't have nowhars else ter go, 'kase house rent wuz due an de bailiffs wuz arter him!"

Quite Unnecessary.

"I think," said the young man, "that if you would give me a chance I could elevate the stage."

"Oh," replied the manager, "there's no excuse for that expense! The stage is high enough, and everything would be all right if we could only get the ladies to remove their hats."—Washington Star.

Same Old Excuse.

"And what do you suppose Cain said when he had killed Abel with the club?"
"Please, teacher, he said he didn't know it was loaded."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
