RED RESISTANCE

the reservoir as Allied troops moved forward. While the major fighting Tuesday was along the central front, Allied patrols in the west encountered increasingly bitter resistance as they probed Chinese defence positions. In the Yoncheon area, six miles north of parallel 38 on the main north-south highway north of Seoul, the Reds rushed in reinforcements and prepared ridge defences. U. S. patrols in this sector withdrew under heavy fire. Communist fire also stopped attempts by South Korean patrols to cross the Imjin River on the extreme west flank of the Allied line northwest of Seoul. Intelligence officers said the Chinese were sending more troops into the western sector. MacArthur Wants More Troops As the fight stiffened along the battlerfront, informed headquarters sources said Gen. MacArthur called for more troops and greater latitude in conducting the war. Fine Exhibition Of Work By PEI Artists

The exhibition of paintings by thirty-seven Prince Edward Island artists was viewed with much pleasure, and no little amazement, when it opened a week's showing yesterday afternoon at the Harris Memorial Art Gallery in Charlottetown. Almost two hundred visitors were on hand, making it the largest crowd yet to witness the opening of an exhibition by the local Art Society. The majority of the work shown is by members of this Society, although work of guest artists is also on display. On first entering the gallery, one finds a striking harmony in the grouping of the more than sixty-five pictures included in the exhibition. The vividly-toned ones are grouped, then the greyer and bluer-toned subjects follow in a subtle harmony, thus achieving a very pleasing effect. A number of the artists who are showing are rapidly developing style and technique of their own, and many are making progress in the perfecting of their original interpretation of beauty on canvas. Although most of the pictures are in oils, a number of water colors, one of the more elusive and difficult of mediums, are shown. Effects in some of these quite equal the intensity of oils, entirely refuting the thought that water colors are always soft and without contrast. In addition to the mediums mentioned above, pictures in tempera and copper, a sample of Island made pottery add greatly to the wide variety of subjects on display. On of the more remarkable samples of work shown is a beautiful illuminated testimonial to the late Rev. George F. Kingston, Primate of all Canada, by Mrs. C. F. Bentley, a member of the local Art Society. Mrs. Bentley is well known both locally and on the mainland for her excellent work of this type, and the sample shown is typical of her artistry. During the opening yesterday afternoon tea was served to all visitors by the ladies of the Society, and groups gathered to discuss the amazing progress of the work shown, and the increased interest shown by young and old in the development of art in this Province. Taken as a whole, the exhibition is far above average for a display of work by amateur artists, and is a definite credit to the Province and to the organization which sponsors this annual event. The exhibition will be open every afternoon this week and on Saturday evening.

Has High Praise For Colonel Drew OTTAWA, April 10 - (CP) - M. Grafton O'Leary said tonight he's been watching Opposition leaders in Canada's parliament for 40 years and he's never seen a better one than George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader. The associate editor of the Ottawa Journal, speaking on behalf of the Progressive Conservative Party in a CBC free-time political broadcast, said a parliamentary opposition "is more vital today than ever before in our history." Its mere existence was "one of the real glories of our commonwealth." In his time, he's watched the role of opposition leader in the Commons filled by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Arthur Meighen, William Lyon Mackenzie King and R. B. Bennett (later Viscount Bennett). "I say now, and deliberately, that none of these Opposition leaders performed his task with a devotion and efficiency greater than the efficiency and devotion of Mr. Drew." The task of an Opposition leader today "is one of tremendous difficulty and perhaps the most thankless upon which a public man may embark." "There are no penalties attached to the criticism of an Opposition leader. Unlike a Prime Minister, he has no power to punish his critics and no rich patronage with which to reward his friends. . . . and consequently he does not attract to himself the sycophancy which always attaches itself to power. "His is a lonely eminence, a difficult leadership of men who sometimes weary of long marches in the wilderness."

Island Swine Breeders Set New Record

I. with 38.6 per cent of their hogs classifying as Grade A.

The breakdown: The United States—$41,421,000,000. Russia—96,000,000,000 rubles (about $24,000,000,000 at the Sov. let evaluation of the ruble). Britain—£1,490,000,000 ($4,383,500,000). France—740,000,000,000 francs ($2,110,000,000). The four-country total is $71,924,500,000.

Gunfire Breaks Uneasy Israeli - Syrian Truce

Present And Proposed Income Taxes OTTAWA, April 10 - (CP) - Following tables compare present and proposed income taxes for 1951 as result of 20 per cent defence surcharge. (The new tax surcharge of 20 per cent is effective for only one-half of 1951).

Table with columns: Single, Married, No Children, Married, Two Children. Rows show tax amounts for various income levels from $1,000 to $10,000.

These incidents came after weeks of tension over Israel's development work in the Huleh swamp area north of the Sea of Galilee. The government wants to drain the swamps and establish hundreds of farms there. Syria wants the swamps retained as a buffer between the two countries. She charges that the drainage operation violates the Syrian-Israeli armistice terms and the demilitarized zones should be left as they are.

Steamship Lady Nelson Damaged

PORT OF SPAIN, Trinidad, April 10 - (CP) - The Canadian National Steamship Lady Nelson limped into Port of Spain today, her bow ripped open near the waterline as the result of a collision with an oil barge last night. The accident occurred in the Gulf of Paria while the Nelson was on the return trip to Halifax. Aboard were 96 passengers taking on here for Canada. It was understood temporary repairs would be made here to enable the Nelson to proceed to Halifax for complete overhaul. An inquiry was ordered by local shipping authorities.

New Speculation On Flying Saucers

By Alton L. Blakeslee NEW YORK, April 10 - (AP) - A new book speculates that pilots of flying saucers are "super-bees" from Mars, two inches long and quite beautiful. The super-smart bees are Gerald Heard's contribution to flying-saucer discussion in "Is Another World Watching?" (Harper). He thinks maybe the Martian bees are worried that man will blow up the earth or sun with atomic energy, hurting Mars in the process. Heard, English-born, once was editor of the London Realist, a monthly on scientific humanism. He accepts a lot of reports about the saucers as true. He tries to digest these "facts" into a theory. For example, one report was that flying saucers travel 18,000 miles an hour, with sudden stops and turns. Heard says no pilot shaped like a human being could withstand the force and pressure of such movement. But insects might—and so maybe the Martians are bees. Why are they spying on us? The "only sensible answer" is that we're a peril to them, maybe a risk because of the atom bomb with which—maybe he like "a bad boy with matches."

Minister Of Agriculture Reviews Campaign Issues

The following address on Provincial political issues was delivered last night by the Hon. C. C. Baker, Minister of Agriculture:

"One issue stands out clearly in this election campaign. It has been the theme of every public utterance of the Conservative Opposition for many months, and has been reiterated by them throughout the recent session of the Legislature. The Liberal Government they say, is spending too much money. "Now, the spending of money by any Government implies the furnishing of public services. The Conservative Opposition do not charge us with waste, they simply say we are running the country into debt; spending too much money. "The policy of the Conservative Party, therefore, stands before you in this campaign. They promise you that they will spend less money. This is their platform, and on this platform they appeal to you for support. No matter how many other planks they may add to their platform before polling day, the chief promise of the Conservative Party is to spend less money. "Let us see what this policy means. Spending less money simply means furnishing less public services. You cannot buy something for nothing. If the Conservative Party thinks it can run the country more cheaply, where do they propose to begin their saving? Do they propose to reduce Old Age Pensions? Do they propose to reduce health expenditures? Do they propose to spend less on roads; or to abolish Mother's Allowances? Will they cut Education expenditures? Will they reduce assistance to our farmers, to our aged and infirm, our mental, our aged and infirm, our children, our aged and infirm? Where are they going to save money unless they reduce expenditures?"

Business And Professional Women's Club

At their regular monthly meeting held at "The Charlottetown" on April 9 the Business and Professional Women's Club of Charlottetown heard Mr. George Fraser, Director of the P. E. I. Tourist Information Bureau, speak of the importance of the tourist trade to Prince Edward Island. Mr. Fraser quoted figures to show that tourists bring an income of over four million dollars a year to the Province, with retail stores, restaurants, gasoline stations, as well as proprietors of cabins, sharing this money. He spoke of a tourist study that was made in Bermuda, and pointed out that Prince Edward Island has the attractions that visitors to Bermuda indicated they enjoyed; with more extensive advertising and better tourist accommodations we might attract even more tourists than at present. He commended the Club for their Brief on City Beautification and their participation in Charlottetown's Festival Week which will be a major tourist attraction.
