Damietta Refuses Surrender.

CAIRO TROUBLES.

ARABI IN A FEVER.

Special to the Examiner.

LONDON, Sept. 16.

In political circles in Constantinople the general expression of opinion is that England is worthy of the confidence of the country, and that her policy regarding the war deserves the highest praise.

Fort Ghemilich has surrendered to the British, but the garrison at Damietta still continues rebellious, notwithstanding the death of its leader, Abdallah Pacha.

It is believed that the officers there have been in communication with the Sultan, and are confident that troops from Turkey will soon arrive and take the part of the National party.

Intercepted letters tend to strengthen this idea, and it is said that the English Government have now in their possession documents showing collusion between Arabi, the Commandant of Damietta and the Sultan.

Notwithstanding the threat of Sir Garnet Wlesley regarding the rioting in Cairo, the town is still in an excited state and the leading spirits of the rebellions proceedings are spreading abroad some most absurd reports, tending to rouse the people and causing much anxiety.

The latest report spread abroad by the fanatics is that Russia is forwarding an army of more than fifty thousand men to fight the cause of the national party on Egyptian soil, and to drive the English from their positions in Egypt.

Lord Dufferin has been instructed to inform Said Pacha that the English Ministry see no necessity to continue negotiations on the military convention.

The Porte denies that Sheikh Obaidallah has tendered his resignation to the Sultan.

The Hussar regiment has occupied Damianhour.

Arabi, the Egyptian rebel, and Mahmoud Fahmy, Arabi's chief military adviser, are confined together in prison at Alexandria.

Arabi is sick, suffering from a severe fever.

Gladstone has advised the King of Greece to refrain from pushing the frontier claims to extremity.

The difficulty between the Turks and the Greeks at Karilik Dervend has the following origin: The pass of Karilik Dervend is the only one between Thessaly and Macedonia, which was given to Greece in the regulation of the frontiers—reason the more, according to the Turkish view, for not giving it up.

The southern entrance to the pass has, therefore, been kept by the Turks in spite of the Convention. Two months ago General Grivas, an able soldier for mountain operations, was sent by the Greek Government to occupy unostentatiously a point in the pass some distance north of the Turkish position, called Sosba.

This he did successfully, cutting off the communication of the Turkish post with Macedonia. Sosba is within the line assigned as the Greek frontier, and its possession by the Greeks, therefore, of indisputable right, and the attempt of the Turks to drive out Grivas as equally undisputably an unprovoked attack.

According to the accounts from Greece, the Turkish attacks have been thus far repelled.

End of a Great Strike.

PITTSBURG, Pa., Sept. 20.—District meetings of the Amalgamated Association were held on Tuesday in this city and Wheeling, and at Youngstown, Ohio, at which it was decided to withdraw all demands made June 1st, and present the old scale to manufacturers for their signatures. This virtually ends the strike.

The strike lasted 116 days, and it is estimated that the loss to men in wages is between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000.

Executive committees of the Iron Manufacturers Association and representatives of the Amalgamated Association met this afternoon, and upon the presentation of the old scale by the latter, it was signed by the manufacturers. The fires in the mills will be lighted immediately and all will be in operation within a few days.
