The Telephone Company

—OF—
P. E. ISLAND.

PARTIES using the Telephone would find talking much more satisfactory if they would observe the following rules:—

1st. Speak with the mouth about four inches from the transmitter.
2nd. Speak in a moderate tone of voice, not too loud, and distinctly.
3rd. Place the telephone so as to cover the ear, just as if you wished to shut out all other sounds. Do not press too hard on the ear.
It is possible to talk and be heard when standing back two or three feet from the transmitter, if you shout loud enough, but it is not a pleasant mode of conversation, is entirely unnecessary, and is a useless waste of wind and lungs, besides being very annoying to all within range of your voice.

ROB ANGE, Manager.

Hon. D. A. Macdonald.

(California Commercial Record).

Although he had nothing personal at stake in the result of the election, it is to be doubted if any other man in the party felt more gratified at the success of the Democracy than Mr. Macdonald. He has always been a warm admirer of President Cleveland, and on his first nomination he worked very faithfully for his election. Exerting marked influence, as he does, for he possesses thousands of warm friends, the majority of this city gave for the ticket as much owing to him as to any other. Four years ago he again took very active part in the campaign, and with his earnest endeavors during the late canvass our readers are familiar. And not alone did he personally and energetically to the front and stimulated the discouraged to battle. He was elected, needless to say, and his strength with the people pulled less popular men through. This year he never allowed any voter to forget the national ticket in the heat of the local fight. He made it prominent in his arguments. When we consider his work all through these years, and the large expense he has been in conjunction with his disinterested motives, he most certainly, not to mention the fact that he has been so long and so successfully in the front and stimulated the discouraged to battle. He was elected, needless to say, and his strength with the people pulled less popular men through. This year he never allowed any voter to forget the national ticket in the heat of the local fight. He made it prominent in his arguments. When we consider his work all through these years, and the large expense he has been in conjunction with his disinterested motives, he most certainly, not to mention the fact that he has been so long and so successfully in the front and stimulated the discouraged to battle.

Mr. Macdonald is an old Californian, and all his life has been a constant Democrat. He has held important offices here, and had he consented he could at different periods have been nominated for the Mayoralty, no doubt. His record in politics is a most creditable one. It is a strange record, too, inasmuch as we find him consenting to stand and lending strength to the ticket when there was the least hope of election. When, owing to reasons that at different times cast gloom over a party, the Democratic party had little hope for success, then D. A. Macdonald came boldly and energetically to the front and stimulated the discouraged to battle. He was elected, needless to say, and his strength with the people pulled less popular men through. This year he never allowed any voter to forget the national ticket in the heat of the local fight. He made it prominent in his arguments. When we consider his work all through these years, and the large expense he has been in conjunction with his disinterested motives, he most certainly, not to mention the fact that he has been so long and so successfully in the front and stimulated the discouraged to battle.

[Mr. Macdonald is a native of this Province, and has many friends here.]

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Letter from the Mail Carrier.

SIR.—I observe in THE EXAMINER to date that the Post Office Department is again calling for tenders for the Railway Station and street letter boxes, and that the late contractor did not give satisfaction in these services. I beg leave to say to the director or any other clerk in said post office to find any one fault in my duty in either mail or railway. My reason for leaving the mails is the reduction of 72 cents per day to 45 cents per day, which could not feed my horse, or pay the cost of my express, sleigh, harness, etc. What had I to live on? Still I offered to run the mails according to agreement.

DIED.

At Calais, on the 9th Oct., 1892, after a short illness, Mary Rachel, aged 15 years and 5 months, daughter of the late Peter F. McPhee.

"One family we dwell in Him,
One church above, beneath,
Though now divided by the stream,
The narrow stream of death."

It is said that of all the pills in the market Everybody's Pills are the best. That is a high testimonial, but it is borne out by hundreds using this popular family medicine.

The Late Sir John Macdonald.

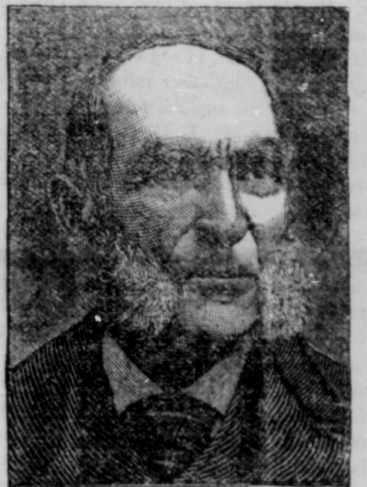

(London Times, Thursday, Nov. 17.)

The Late Sir John Macdonald, as became a strong party leader, left many bitter opponents in Canada; but few of them, we are sure, grudge the honor that was yesterday done to his memory. Thanks to the initiative of the Imperial Federation League and the support of many admirers of the deceased statesman's career, a bust of him has been placed in the crypt of St. Paul's Cathedral among "the Lares and Penates of our commonwealth." The bust is from the hand of a Canadian sculptor, Mr. George Wade, who has frequently exhibited good work at the Royal Academy and it was yesterday unveiled by Lord Rosebery. There was a distinguished company, gathered from both of the great political parties and from the chief colonists; Lord Ripon, Mr. Stanhope, Sir John Abbott may be taken as representative names. Lord Rosebery, in his brief speech, said nothing of Sir John Macdonald as a party man, but spoke of his devotion to the Imperial Idea and the Imperial flag. The symbol of "the greatest secular agency for good now known to mankind" is fitly applied to what we commemorate a man who did so much for England in the vast regions across the sea which own her sway. Sir John Macdonald was among the most devoted of her sons; "A British subject was I born," says the inscription on his bust, quoting a saying of his own, "and a British subject will I die." The meaning of the ceremony is to emphasize the race and the Empire; to show once more that in the sacred centre of our common country there is a welcome for the name and the effort of the great colonizer.

The late Canadian Premier showed his loyalty to England by his long service to Canada. How Canada has profited and is profiting by it, and by the service of his successors, was well shown on Tuesday by Mr. Foster, the Finance Minister of the Dominion, in his address to the city branch of the Imperial Federation League. Everybody vaguely knows that Canada is prosperous, that its name stands well in the money market, that it grows enormous quantities of corn, that its trade is large, and that its railway system and its system of water communication are of wonderful extent; but this knowledge is not often made precise by statistics. Mr. Foster on Tuesday supplied some of them. He admitted the indebtedness of Canada, but justified it—as the indebtedness of the British Government might be justified—by the immense necessities of the country, and by the excellent position of its credit in the markets of the world. If Canada had not borrowed, she must have remained a poor and backward State; she never would have been able to boast, as she now does, that she is within a short distance of completing "the most magnificent line of water communication in the world," and that she has doubled her railway mileage in ten years. The important fact is that this great system is paying its way; that it is the necessary machinery of a vast and growing country, for the whole produce of which there is a demand either in America or in Europe. One of the most interesting points in recent Canadian history is that the McKinley tariff, while it changed the direction of Canadian trade, did not diminish its volume. On the contrary, the exports of Canada, which were $98,600,000 in 1891, rose in 1892 to $114,000,000. The increase is mainly to be accounted for by the growth of trade with Great Britain: Mr. Foster, who, like so many colonists, is not a free trader, is dissatisfied with this, and asks for differential treatment of the colonies by Great Britain; an Imperial Customs Union, in fact. We doubt greatly whether he will get it, but the "treaties of 1865" which he denounces might well be examined.

The week of self-denial, a scheme instituted by the Salvation Army to raise money for charitable purposes, has proved highly successful this year, as will be seen by the list below, which shows the amounts collected in the various districts of the Lower Provinces:

MR. B. T. ELWELL, FORMERLY OF PATER, ABBOTSFORD COUNTY, ME., BUT FOR THE LAST THREE YEARS LIVING AT ROCKLAND, ME., No. 6 BUNKER ST., WRITES:

GENTS.—I am now 79 years of age. Have been troubled for twenty years with inflammation at neck of bladder and enlargement of Prostate Gland. For six years, have been afflicted with irregular action of the bowels, alternating between diarrhoea and extreme constipation. For two years the Constipation has been so great that for BETTER SKODA'S LITTLE TABLETS, I had taken many other remedies, including nuxomycin, but they all failed to give me any relief. I had been taking your Discovery but a few days before I felt a decided change. I have now taken one-half bottle (one-half bottle), and have a fine appetite; not the least distress or souring after eating, bowels regular in action every day, and food tastes as good to me as when a boy; my bladder trouble has entirely disappeared.

I have experienced a great change that I feel it my duty to testify to the wonderful effects of your remedies.

Very truly yours, B. T. ELWELL.
