

Margate Murder Mystery
MILLMAN ARRAIGNED
Pleaded Not Guilty.
THE DAY FIXED FOR TRIAL.
FURTHER PARTICULARS.

YESTERDAY various rumors were afloat regarding the action of the Grand Jury in the Margate murder case. It was said that the indictment had been thrown out, and then again it was reported that it had been found. Those of the jury who were asked, refused to say anything of the matter, stating that the Chief Justice in his charge had specially warned them to have no conversation with anyone regarding the business which came before them. In the afternoon it seemed to be understood that a bill had been found, and the court commenced rapidly to fill up. About four o'clock the Grand Jury entered the court room, headed by their foreman, F. M. Bourke, Esq. The three Judges were on the Bench, and some legal point was being discussed by Mr. Davies, who at once resumed his seat, and W. A. Weeks, Esq., the Clerk of the Crown, read over the roll of the jurors, who answered to their names. He then asked them if they had agreed to any

BILL OF INDICTMENT.
The foreman handed a paper to the Clerk of the Crown, who, turning to the Judges, amid deep silence said: "My Lords: The Queen against William Millman. Indictment for murder. A true bill. For self and fellows. P. M. Bourke, Foreman." Mr. Hodgson, Millman's counsel, crossed the court room, to where the Attorney-General sat, and the two gentlemen entered into, what seemed to be, an earnest conversation for some time. The Attorney General then summoned the Sheriff and whispered some instructions to him; and this, together with Mr. Hodgson coming into Court a few minutes later with his robes on, led every one to believe that Millman had been sent for to be arraigned. It is astounding how information of this kind literally flies. Every moment brought additional numbers to the courtroom, and soon that portion allotted to the public was crowded. It is said that Millman had never been in Charlottetown until he was brought under arrest, and that besides his counsel there were probably not three persons in the city who have ever seen him. This fact, in addition to the intense interest created by the trial, accounts for the numbers who

THROUGH THE COURT ROOM
yesterday. After the departure of the Sheriff, the law argument was resumed. Upon enquiry I learned that it was some "stage" of a case in which Judge Alley was suing the Boston Steamboat Company, for the loss of his luggage by the steamer Merrimack which was sunk off the coast of Nova Scotia last summer. As soon as I heard this, I settled myself down to take notes of what I felt sure would be an interesting case. But it was not at all so. There were three lawyers engaged, Mr. M. McLeod, Mr. Davies and Mr. Peters, and they managed very successfully not only to make it uninteresting, but absolutely unintelligible to one

NOT LEARNED IN THE LAW.
I soon gave up the hope of understanding what was going on. Whatever one lawyer said was so, another declared was not so; and then Mr. Peters read law from a book, a "decisive case," he called it, which entirely settled the question in his favor; and then Mr. Davies read another "decisive" case which he declared to be of still greater authority and settled the question in his favor. And the Judges wrote it all down very carefully, and looked very solemn as Judges ought to look. All this time there was not a word about Judge Alley or the steamer, or the luggage; but a great deal about matters called by odd-sounding names, which reminded me of the well-known lines (they must have been written by a lawyer):
Melodious as Apollo's lute,
Is the soft language of a suit,
The "writ, how sweet the" declaration,
The "double plea," the "replication,"
Persuasive as the accents sweet,
Which captive held the Grecian fleet."

At length a rush is heard of people coming quickly up the stairs. The constable has as much as he can do to keep them quiet as they rush in. Within the barrier law students and clerks are seen coming in; evidently the prisoner has come. In another minute the portly form of Sheriff Curtis comes from the passage behind the Judges' seat, followed by Millman and ex-City Marshal Flynn, who seems to be the head constable-in-charge. Every eye was

DIRECTED TO THE PRISONER.
It was getting dark as he entered, and the gas had not been lighted, so that I could not get a very good view of him from where I sat. Mr. Hodgson beckoned him to him and spoke to him for a short time, and as far as possible I had as good a view of him as the dim light permitted. His height is about five feet ten inches, dark hair and deep grey eyes. His face is round, complexion ruddy, and there seemed no signs of whiskers or beard, nor even of an incipient moustache. His figure is slight and erect, and he looks about nineteen years of age. His manner seemed

FREE FROM EMBARRASSMENT.
At something his lawyer said he smiled quietly, but his face quickly settled into a quiet weary expression. As he spoke to Mr. Hodgson, I noticed that his teeth were small and white. Having taken his seat in the dock, and the contending counsel in the Boston Steamboat case having for a time lapsed into silence, the Attorney General rose and addressing the court, moved that William Millman, now at the bar, be arraigned. Mr. Weeks, the Clerk of the Crown, directed the prisoner to stand up, and read the indictment to him. This is a short and exceedingly pithy document, with very few unnecessary remarks in it, very unlike the usual documents which lawyers send forth. It charged that he on the 28th day of June, 1887, at Township Number twenty, in the County of Queen's County, in the Province of Prince Edward Island, aforesaid, did feloniously, willfully, and of his malice aforethought, kill and murder one Mary Pickering Tuplin, against the form of the statutes in such case made and provided, and against the peace of Our Lady the Queen, the Crown and dignity.

After reading the document, he was asked, "Are You Guilty or Not Guilty." To this, in a clear voice, he answered, "Not Guilty." When will you be ready for trial. Mr. Hodgson then rose and addressed the Court. He stated that the defence of the prisoner rested upon him. That while he did not desire to delay the proceedings in any way, it was not possible that he could be ready for a week. He reminded their Lordships that he could not issue any subpoenas until the bill of indictment had been found, which had been only a few minutes before, and he asked that Monday week (23rd January) be the DAY FIXED FOR THE TRIAL.

The Attorney General in reply said that, although the time asked for seemed long, yet the Court had no desire to hurry the prisoner, and that he left the matter entirely to the Court. The Chief Justice, after conferring with Mr. Justice Peters and Mr. Justice Hensley, fixed Monday, 23rd January as the day for the trial. Millman then left the Courtroom and went to the Sheriff's office, where he had a short interview with Mr. Hodgson. In the meantime a great crowd had collected around the door, numbering quite 200 persons, to see Millman drive off in the sleigh. They seemed to have gathered from curiosity only. Not a word was said to him; but as I stood among them I heard such expressions as, "HE IS NOT SUCH A BAD LOOKING FELLOW, IS HE?" "He has a nice face, hasn't he now." And the prisoner entered the sleigh, and was rapidly driven off.

Mr. F. Peters has been retained by the Tuplin family to assist the Attorney General. The retainer was first offered to Mr. L. H. Davies, but his engagements were such that he could not accept it. It is understood that Mr. Justice Hensley will preside at the trial.

Local and Other Items.

JOB PRINTING, neatly, cheaply and promptly done at THE EXAMINER Office.

TOBACCOING.—The Toboggan Slide will be opened this evening.

G. M. HARRIS sells apples and onions to-morrow at 11 o'clock.

SKATING.—New music and good ice at the Excelsior Rink to-night.

BLANKETS, a large assortment, good value, at Stanley Bros., Brown's Block. Jan 13 21

EDUCATIONAL.—Arithmetic class, this evening, at 8 o'clock in the Y. M. C. A. basement parlour.

ORIENT DIVISION.—No. 161 S. of T. will hold its regular meeting this (Friday) evening at 8 o'clock. John Ross, R. S.

CIVIC.—We are authorised to state that Mr. Ewen Macdonald will be a candidate for ward 4 at the coming election.

DECLINED.—Mr. Theo. L. Chappelle has declined nomination as Councillor for Ward 4 as he expects to be absent from the Island for a few weeks.

ASSAULT CASE.—At the Sittings of the Magistrate's Court this forenoon, Robert Wood was fined $2 and costs for assaulting Nathaniel Ward, a Salvation Army soldier. The fine paid.

L. & S. INSTITUTE.—Owing to several causes, the meeting of the Literary and Scientific Institute was not held last evening. Mr. A. E. Morrison will read his paper on "The Progress of Electricity" next Thursday evening.

BOOK KEEPING CLASS.—The members of the book keeping class, in connection with the educational classes of the Y. M. C. A. will on application, get the required papers, books, pencils, etc., at G. H. Hazard's. No text books will be required.

ST. JAMES' CHOIR.—We learn that Mr. Earle has been appointed instructor of St. James' Choir, and that Mr. John E. Bell has taken the position of organist in the place of Mr. Chas. Strong, who is about leaving the Province. Mr. Earle's long service at St. Paul's, and the many concerts for which we are indebted to him, are sufficient guarantee that St. James' Choir will be raised to a first-class position under his instruction. Mr. Bell has had several years tuition and practice at the organ, and possesses excellent musical talent.

ADVICE TO MOTHERS.—Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup should always be used when children are cutting teeth. It relieves the little sufferer at once; it produces natural quiet sleep by relieving the child from pain; and the little cherub awakes as "bright as a button." It is very pleasant to taste. It soothes the child, softens the gums, allays all pain, regulates the bowels, and is the best known remedy for diarrhoea, whether arising from teething or other causes. Twenty-five cents a bottle. Be sure and ask for Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup, and take no other kind. mar17 eod & wky

WARD FOUR.
"We must enter an emphatic protest against the mean and unjust practice—all too prevalent—of referring to some of those who are supposed to be candidates, as 'candidates of the rum party,' and of denouncing citizens who may not see eye to eye with the promoters of the Scott Act, as 'supporters of the rum candidate.' We have heard some of our most temperate and law abiding citizens so spoken of. Such insulting epithets are calculated to make our civic contests distasteful. Every man should be free to select his candidate, free to speak, and free to vote, without running the risk of having his character destroyed."—Examiner 7th.

Sir,—These be true words, Mr. Editor, and in pleasing contrast to the venomous communication anent the Ward Four meeting in last night's issue. The citizens are becoming awake to the fact that there is a possibility of riding a hobby to death, while the general interests of the city are sadly neglected. Let sound judgment—not unbridled fanaticism—prevail at the ensuing election. Yours, JUSTICE.

Supreme Court.
FRIDAY, Jan. 13.

The case of Geo. Alley vs. Harrison Loring was concluded this morning, and judgment reserved.

Collins vs. Flynn.—This was a replevin suit brought to test the right of the Local Government to appoint magistrates. All the facts were admitted, and a verdict taken for the defendant pro forma.

Queen vs. Thomas Enman.—Indictment for highway robbery, alleged to have been committed four years ago. The evidence was not sufficient to identify the prisoner with the offence, and he was acquitted. Attorney General for the Crown, Hodgson, Q. C., and Davies, Q. C., for the prisoner.

THE MAILS.—Thirty-six bags of mail matter arrived at Cape Tormentine at 12.40 to-day. Seventy bags crossed from Cape Tormentine, and ninety-five were left behind.

NORTHERN LIGHT.—Nothing new to report to-day.

42 YEARS.

Steadfastly, for forty-two years, the WEEKLY WITNESS has held to principles which have stood the test of time, ridicule, and of opposition, fair and unfair, and the WITNESS to-day speaks to sixty where in 1846 it spoke to one. Its growth has been both rapid and steady. Its publishers, desirous of still further increasing its circulation, have this year gone to large expense to secure a reproduction of THE LATEST MASTERPIECE of Davidson Knowles (who was selected by Queen Victoria to paint the scene at Princess Beatrice's wedding), entitled,

Suffer the Little Children to Come Unto Me

It depicts the memorable scene with startling realism, reproducing in oils all the richness of ORIENTAL COLORING. The picture, executed by the greatest art firm in England, would bring $150 if sold, but is reserved EXCLUSIVELY FOR SUBSCRIBERS TO THE WITNESS. The price of the WEEKLY WITNESS and picture is $1.25; the paper alone, $1.00. In 1860 the DAILY WITNESS was launched, and, like the WEEKLY, to advocate the same principles regardless of cost. The picture, "Suffer the Little Children to Come Unto Me," and the DAILY WITNESS, $3.25 a year; the paper alone, $3.00. The NORTHERN MESSENGER still continues to be the favorite in the home circle and Sabbath school, and commencing with January first with new type, finer paper and other improvements, will be more attractive than ever. Prizes of books are given to friends who canvass for it. Annual subscription, 30c., with reductions to clubs. Sample copies of the different publications mailed on application. Agents wanted in every town and village. JOHN DOUGALL & SON, Publishers, Montreal. Jan 7

It is not often really honest goods are offered at the prices we quote below. But the fact is we have a good many Dolmans, Ulsters, Jackets, Jerseys, Sacks and Redingotes remaining, although our sales in this department have been very large, and we are now offering all that remains at extraordinary low prices to turn them into cash, before stock-taking. Ulsters worth up to $4, for $2; $8 for $5; Jackets worth $4.25 for $3; worth $7 for $5, and our whole stock at equally low prices.

These prices are certainly remarkable, but there is no questioning them--we guarantee them genuine. Call and secure first choice.
