Air Carriers Looking Ahead For Good Business In 1963

MONTREAL (CP) — The world's air carriers are looking ahead hopefully to a good business year in 1963 after analyzing 1962 results.

The International Civil Aviation Organization reported today that air traffic in 1962 reached the highest peak in history, and that the rate of growth of traffic has returned to satisfactory levels after a bad year in 1961.

ICAO, an inter-governmental agency affiliated with the United Nations, reported that in its 98 member nations the number of passengers carried was 123,000,000, an increase of 11 per cent over the 1961 figure. Passenger-miles amounted to 81,300,000,000, an increase of 12 per cent over 1961.

Rates of increase in 1961 over 1960 were only five per cent and seven per cent respectively in passenger and passenger-miles.

The increase in cargo ton-miles was 19 per cent over 1961, the largest increase in more than 10 years. Total ton-miles flown was 2,020,000,000 in 1962 compared with 1,700,000,000 in 1961.

IATA OPTIMISTIC

Sir William Hildred, president of the International Air Transport Association, predicted that in 1963 passenger traffic will increase by 13 per cent and cargo by 20 per cent. IATA is an association of passenger airlines.

Sir William said in his year-end statement that unless present trends are reversed by unforeseen circumstances, air traffic will grow during the coming year at the average rate for the last decade.

ICAO statistics show that although hours flown by scheduled airlines have steadily decreased each year since introduction of the fast jets, passengers and distances have gone up.

The average number of passengers carried has risen from 32 a plane in 1959 to 40 in 1962. Average speed has increased from 155 miles an hour 16 years ago to 258 miles an hour this year.

Farm Expert Is Fired In Red Shakeup

MOSCOW (AP) — Nikolai G. Ignatov, a farming expert who has had an up-and-down career in Soviet government and Communist party affairs, is down again. And the party leadership in the virgin lands of Kazakhstan has been shaken up.

The Soviet news agency Tass has announced the removal of Ignatov, 61, from the deputy premiership to which he was appointed only last April.

Ignatov has served in the interval as one of 11 deputy premiers under Premier Khrushchev and as chairman of a committee to step up a drive for increased food production.

Tass gave no reason for his loss of the deputy premiership.

EXECUTIVES DISMISSED

Its announcement coincided with the dismissal of two Communist party executives accused of "serious shortcomings and mistakes" in Kazakhstan, virgin lands republic that has failed to live up to Khrushchev's expectations in the production of grain.

Izvestia announced the firing of the Kazakhstan party's first secretary, Dinmukhamed Kunayev, and the second secretary, N. N. Radionov. The Soviet government newspaper said Ismail Y. Yuspov, a subordinate secretary who has made a reputation in southern Kazakhstan as a cotton-growing specialist, was named to replace Kunayev. Mikhail Solomentsev got radionov's job.

The shakeup came at a party meeting under the chairmanship of Frol Kozlov, a central committee presidium member who is often referred to as the heir of Khrushchev.

STUDY QUEBECERS

QUEBEC (CP)—A group of 54 Toronto students are in town for a six-day visit, an annual event organized by Visites Interprovinciales to give students from outside Quebec an opportunity to know French Canada. The students, who arrived Thursday, are staying in French-Canadian homes.

TO START RUN

HAVANA (AP) — The Soviet Airline Aeroflot announced Friday it is ready to start nonstop flights once a week between Russia and Cuba—marking the first regular schedule of flights by a Russian airline to the western hemisphere.

Opening lead—ten of clubs.

The uppercut is a colorful term used to describe a play made by a defender whereby he is able to promote a trump trick for his partner which does not naturally exist. It is a play that can be highly useful to the defense when the occasion arises.

South got to four spades on the bidding shown and West made the normal lead of the ten of clubs. East took the queen with the ace and returned the jack of diamonds.

Declarer covered with the king and West won with the ace and cashed the queen. It was the third trick for the defense.

West now had a problem of sorts. He knew that the hand could be beaten if East had the queen or king of spades, provided he could get East to ruff another diamond lead with either of those cards.

West was afraid that if he played a low diamond at this point East might ruff low, thinking that declarer had the nine of diamonds. West was afraid also that if he led the nine instead, East might discard, since the nine was the highest diamond left, and this could then prove fatal if East had either the king or queen of spades.

It was all a question of having faith in partner and hoping East would do the right thing regardless of which diamond West led.

West made the proper technical play of leading the nine of diamonds, hoping that East would appreciate the situation. East did not let him down. He realized that declarer had no more diamonds, having dropped the ten on the preceding trick, and therefore ruffed his partner's high diamond with the queen.

The uppercut was decidedly effective. When declarer overruffed, West automatically acquired a trump trick and South went down one. East's play was clearly correct. He had nothing to lose by ruffing if declarer had the A-K-J of spades, and a good deal to gain if West had as much as the J-x.
