ADMIRAL NOEL KNIGHTED.

His Energetic Work at Crete Recognized.

The Queen has been pleased to confer upon Rear Admiral Gerald Noel a Knight Commandership of St. Michael and St. George, in recognition of his valuable services during the recent critical period in Crete. This honor might almost have been regarded as foreshadowed by the high eulogium passed upon Admiral Noel by Lord Salisbury at the lord mayor's banquet. "I should be sorry to pass by," the premier said on that occasion, "without saying a word to recognize the great vigor and judgment which Admiral Noel has displayed in the very difficult circumstances through which we passed. I believe that if we are to restore to England a pacified and well-administered Crete, it will be due more to his individual action than to any other living man. I have sometimes thought, Lord Salisbury added, "that if the cabinets of Europe were all dismissed and an admiral installed in the place of each of them, Europe would get on better than it does now."

The recipient of this K C M G, is one of the youngest flag officers in the naval service. He joined the navy only forty years ago, when he was thirteen years old; and had risen to be a post captain at the age of thirty-six. For his services in command of the naval guard to Sir Garnet Wolseley at Cape Coast Castle in 1873, he received the Ashanti medal and Kumasi clasp. In addition to skill in seamanship, and the ability for administrative work which Lord Salisbury eulogised, Admiral Noel has scientific attainments. He is the son of a Norfolk rector now deceased. In 1893 he was director of naval intelligence, and afterwards became a lord of the admiralty; and from 1894 to 1896 he was an A. D. C. to the Queen; in the latter year he was raised to the rank of rear-admiral, and at the commencement of this year became second in command of the Mediterranean fleet.

A Modern Romance.

LONDON, Nov. 28.—One of Gen Lord Kitchener's gallant officers, who fought in Omdurman, the Marquis of Tullibardine, has just received his first wedding present in the form of a distinguished service order, which is almost as much esteemed by soldiers as the Victoria Cross decoration is. This is the climax of an interesting romance which modern society tells for the first time. The young marquis and Miss Kitty Ramsay, a pretty young girl and a great favorite in the upper ten thousand, are engaged to be married. They were playmates in childhood and friends in late years, but no one suspected that there was any likelihood of a match between the pair. The engagement, which was arranged before the marquis went to the front, was kept secret until his return from England. Its announcement has caused great surprise in society, and the wedding, which will be one of the most interesting events of its kind this season, is expected shortly.

NO WASTE OF WORDS

Evidence Which is Right to the Point and Reliable

Judge Frank Ives of District Court of Crookston, Minn., says: For some time I have used Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets with seeming great benefit. With few exceptions, I have not been so free from indigestion in twenty-five years.

George W. Roosevelt, U. S. Consul to Brussels, Belgium: Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, safe, pleasant to take, convenient to carry give keen appetite, perfect digestion.

Mr. W. D. Tomlin, mechanical engineer, Duluth, Minn.: One box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets has done its work, and I am again gaining flesh and strength.

O. E. Ransom, Hustonville, Ky.: I was distressed and annoyed for two years with throwing up food, often two or three times a day; had no certainty of retaining a meal if I ate one. Four boxes of the tablets from my druggist have fully cured me. I find them pleasant to take, convenient to carry.

Rev. G. D. Brown, Mondovi, Wis.: The effects of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is simply marvellous; a quite hearty dinner of broiled beefsteak causes no distress since I began their use.

Over six thousand people in the state of Michigan alone in 1894 were cured of stomach troubles by Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Full sized packages may be found at all druggists at 50 cents, or sent by mail on receipt of price from F. A. Stewart Co., Marsh all, Mich.

Japanese Protest.

OTTAWA, Ont, Nov. 28.—The government of Japan entered a formal protest against the action of the British Columbia legislature passed last spring prohibiting the Japanese, as well as the Chinese, from working in connection with any enterprise authorized under the provincial statute. The Japanese ambassador in London represented that his government, regarding the act as contrary to the comity of nations and asking the Dominion government to disallow the obnoxious measure. The federal authorities have several months yet in which to take action.

The Mackerel Fishery.

A Gloucester despatch reports that the season of 1898 will go on record as almost an utter failure, being with one exception the poorest in the history of the mackerel catching fishery. The New England catch of salt mackerel to date is 14,823 barrels against 11,059 landed in 1897, 69,242 in 1896, 23,058 in 1895, 49,683 in 1894 and 51,458 barrels in 1893. Throughout the year there has practically been no body of fish, those taken being wild and scattered, and being picked up in little pools here and there.

Gunpowder In Hunting.

A curious feature about this evolution in methods of hunting was the hesitation with which gunpowder was taken up by the great nobles. Not only did it take quite a century to familiarize hunters with it, but the evidence that has come down to us shows that the humble classes were the first to use it for shooting game. Maximilian, ardent sportsman that he was, tells us himself that he could shoot farther and with greater accuracy with his crossbow than his keeper could with the fire tube.

To prove this he tells us the well known story of a certain chamois standing at a distance of 200 fathoms, which after being pronounced as too far off by his henchman, who was armed with one of the first sporting firearms mentioned in print, comes tumbling down, pierced at the first attempt, by the emperor's bolt. From other sources we learn of strict measures being adopted to prevent poachers and "wood loafers" using firearms, and this at a period when princes still used the cumbersome crossbow and spear. It was only in the last quarter of the sixteenth century that firearms had ousted other weapons for certain forms of the chase, the deer batue being among the latter.—Pall Mall Magazine.

Smoking In Korea.

In Korea all men and women smoke. They begin early. The pipe is a brass bowl, with a reed stem four feet long and a brass, amber or glass mouthpiece. Accidents often occur from persons falling with a long pipe in the mouth, the stem of which is driven down the throat through the cheek or into the palate. During the "reform period," after the Japan-China war, long pipes were forbidden to the common people, and they turned to cigarettes, which have become rooted in the popular affection. Native cigarettes, which are of poor quality, sell for 1 cent gold for 20. Little cigars of cigarette size sell for 14 cents gold per 100.

American cigarettes are used exclusively in the palace, and thousands of them are smoked there. This makes them popular with the upper classes, and the consumption of them is very great. The best of them cost 1 cent gold each. The import duty on cigars and cigarettes is 20 per cent ad valorem; but, in spite of this, the American manufacturers are gradually coming into control of the market.—Chicago Times-Herald.

A Good Spurgeon Story.

Here is a story about Spurgeon. He once passed a stonemason who, after each stroke of his hammer, cursed and swore. Mr. Spurgeon laid his hand on his shoulder and, looking kindly at him, said: "You are an adept at swearing. Can you also pray?"

With another oath he replied, "Not very likely."

Holding up 5 shillings, Mr. Spurgeon said if he would promise never to pray he would give him that. "That is easily earned," said the man, with a fresh oath, and put it in his pocket. When Spurgeon left, the man began to feel a little queer. When he went home, his wife asked him what ailed him, and he told her. "It is Judas' money!" said the man, and on a sudden impulse he threw it into the fire. The wife found it and took it out and discovered who had given it to him. The man took it back to Spurgeon, who conversed long with him, warning him, and at length was the means of saving him. He became an attached member of his flock.
