

Triskaidekaphobia is dead!

Now that Triskaidekaphobia is long over, we thought we would take a few moments to pause and reflect upon what happened on that fateful evening of Friday the 13th. They said it couldn't be done, but we shook our hands at fate and made a couple of bucks in the process. Rest assured: the money is going to a good cause: we will be using it to take a trip to the national CUP conference in Vancouver in January. You can also sleep safe knowing that, now that it's over you will never, ever have to read the word triskaidekaphobia again. We promise.
