

THE DAILY EXAMINER, SEPTEMBER 13, 1889.

The Mask Thrown Off.

For some time past a certain portion of the Grit press has been advocating a scheme of commercial union, which scheme really means nothing more or less than the severance of Canada from the Mother Country and her annexation to the neighboring Republic.

But it is mainly to what the Globe has to say about the severance of Canada from the Mother Country that we wish to draw attention to-day. And we cannot do so more effectually than by reproducing the words of our contemporary.

For twenty-four years past, ever since the end of the civil war, Canada has been in the position of a little boy whose arms and legs are held, and whose mouth is closed by his big brother whenever another big boy wishes to rob the little chap of his marbles.

What a gross misrepresentation of the facts! But, continues the Globe,— "Cousin Jonathan, in fact, likes Johnny Canuck very well, and would agree with him finely if 'the young 'un' were not always boasting of his connection with and expecting defence from John Bull.

Commenting upon the foregoing unpatriotic and altogether uncalculated remarks of the Globe, the Empire says:—

"Without pausing to consider what degree of truth there may be in this graphic sketch, we may point out that the Grit organ's advice is that the inoffensive and bullied child is to be handed over to its assailant in the hope that the Globe's brutal friend will then desist from wronging it in order to spite its parent.

What have the patriotic members of the Liberal party to say to this rank disloyalty on the part of their leading newspaper? Will they tamely submit to it? We trow not.

French Politics.

LATE advices from France lead us to suppose that confidence in the Republic's being able to hold its own against the onslaughts of Boulangerism is not so strong just now as it was a few weeks ago.

scruples whatever about gagging and paralyzing the opposition by any and all the means in his power. As the crowning capstone to his system of muzzling the priests, editing the list of opposition nominees, and utilizing the entire Governmental machinery both before and after the ballots had been cast, he announced that Boulanger and Rochefort could not be candidates, and that no votes cast for them would be counted and all their placards would be pulled down by the police.

Provincial Synod.

The synod of the ecclesiastical province of the Church of England in Canada, opened at Montreal, on Wednesday morning, the 11th inst., with a choral service in the cathedral. At half-past ten the great west door was opened, and there entered a procession of vergers, choristers, lay clerks and clergy of the cathedral preceding a chaplain bearing aloft the pastoral staff, and followed by the Bishops of the province and visiting bishops, attended by their chaplains.

A business session was held in the afternoon in St. George's schoolroom. The officers of the synod are as follows: Rev. John Pearson, of Toronto, secretary of the house of bishops; Rev. John Langtry, hon. clerical secretary of the lower house; Very Rev. R. W. Norman, D. C. L., dean of Quebec, hon. clerical secretary of the lower house; L. H. Davidson, D. C. L., Q. C., Montreal, hon. secretary of the lower house; A. F. Gault, Montreal, treasurer; Charles Garth and T. P. Butler, Q. C., D. C. L., Montreal, auditors.

Two largely-signed memorials were received from the Diocesan Synods of Ontario and Montreal, asking for action to be taken to have the Jesuit estate legislation repealed.

Telegraphic Odds and Ends.

A BUDGET OF GENERAL NEWS FROM ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 11.—The inhabitants of the village of Vardens, in Armenia, after a desperate struggle have repulsed an attack by the brigand Jaso, a brother of Moussa Bey.

ZANZIBAR, Sept. 11.—Capt. Wissman has offered a reward of £5,000 for the head of Chief Bushiri, in consequence of Bushiri's threat to destroy the missions of the interior.

MONTREAL, Sept. 11.—Archbishop Fabre has ordered that next Sunday prayers shall be offered up in this diocese for the Sovereign Pontiff, and plenary indulgence has been granted to all the faithful who unite their voices in this prayer.

COFFEYVILLE, Miss., Sept. 11.—Advices from Charleston, Fallshatchee Co., report seven negroes killed there within the last 48 hours. Geo. Allen, who burned Jamieson's store, LeFlore Co., was carried to Charleston yesterday from Grenada and hanged. The total number of negroes killed since the trouble began is estimated at 100.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 11.—The boiler in the California sash, door and blind factory, at Oakland, exploded yesterday evening, killing four men outright and injuring several others—probably fatally; two others are supposed to be buried in the ruins.

TORONTO, Sept. 11.—Mrs. Mead was engaged in lighting a fire with coal oil when her dress caught fire, and in spite of all efforts to save her she was burned to death.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., Sept. 11.—The big cave-in at Pokenhollow is worse than at first reported. The disaster is the greatest that has occurred in the coal region for years. Luckily there were no dwellings on the tract.

LONDON, Sept. 11.—A scheme is announced for the construction of a ship canal between Edinburgh and Glasgow; capital £7,000,000.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Sept. 11.—Thos Dale, a farmer living near Ceuton, died suddenly yesterday, from the effects of drinking ice water when over-heated.

OTTAWA, Sept. 11.—The Journal, this evening, publishes a statement of Ottawa's marvellous prosperity, showing it to now rank as the sixth commercial port in Canada. The exports from here during the last fiscal year were $3,552,517.

OTTAWA, Sept. 11.—John Benson, son of an Ottawa County farmer, was killed yesterday while at work harvesting. He was trying to clear the machinery of a reaper, which had become clogged, when the horses started, dragging the machine over him and crushing him to death.

The next census of the Dominion will probably be taken in 1891, when it is more than likely Canada will be shown to possess at least five and a half millions of people.

TO BETSY.

Oh! Betsy, in our hours of ease Thou comest, with uncouth words, to tease Thy language, like thy airs—put on— Is sad for us to ponder on. Cheer up, old girl: tobacco smoke Should be regarded as a joke, When weightier matters—such as boys— Drown thy soft whispering in their noise, Tramp down the grass, and tread upon Thy corns, when passing through the throng. Be wise, my Betsy, take a hint, Hasten not to put thy woes in print Lest some sharp critic there might be To see thy need of apostrophe.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The Salvation Army.

SIR,—It is said that while on his farewell tour through the Maritime Provinces, Commissioner Coombs, in an underhand and cowardly manner, circulated among his friends copies of a document said to have been signed by me. At present there is no chance for me to reply, Commissioner Coombs' nor any other Salvationist's name not be attached to the letter; but if the Salvation Army will become responsible for it by its publication in the Wry Cry, stating their reasons for so doing, then I will deal with the subject, which will embrace a wider scope than they at present suppose, and among other things call forth the proofs that the Army practically teaches the doctrine that "the end justifies the means."

ERNEST H. GOUGH.

S'ide, Sept. 12, 1889.

Watering the Streets.

SIR,—Some time since I expressed the opinion, giving reason therefor, that the drinking fountain on Queen Square should be placed at or near the site of the pump opposite Mr. Brace's shop. I will now venture a further suggestion to the City fathers and Water Commissioners. The streets could be readily watered in the most effective manner by attaching a hose to each of the hydrants all over the city and using it for watering purposes every day when necessary. In the city of Glasgow (and elsewhere) a hose is permanently attached to each hydrant and kept coiled up below an iron grating or cover beside the hydrant. The cover is locked down and the key kept by a policeman, who, at the proper time every day unlocks it, takes out the hose, and waters the street in the vicinity, afterwards returning the hose to its place. Thus the whole city is watered every day by the policeman. Now our policemen in Charlottetown are certainly not harder worked than their brethren in Glasgow and would be glad, no doubt, to aid in promoting the comfort and health of our citizens. It would not be necessary, perhaps, to water every street in our city, but the dust should certainly be kept down on our principal thoroughfares. A number of short hoses might be used, and if the hydrants are too far apart their number might be increased or the hose could be attached to private houses.

CITIZEN.

Sept. 13, 1889.

Notes From Georgetown.

Your editorial on postal facilities finds a hearty echo here, and it is hoped you will press for reform until buildings are up in all the villages named. The county towns of Prince and Queen's have handsome post offices. Why is the County capital of King's slighted? There is this special reason for a new building here, and that immediately: The mails of the whole province pass through this port in winter, and the risk run by leaving all money and business letters for the Island in a wooden building over night, as is frequently done, should be considered.

Another reform the eastern end of this Island requires, and must have, is a postal clerk on the railway. Why? in the world are these disagreeable discriminations made? Away up to Tignish this clerk is at work, and through Queen's, but this County doesn't seem to deserve such dispatch in forwarding mails. If it's behind, this is one way to help it on. Isn't it absurd to write a letter to Cardigan or Montague, 6 miles away, and have to wait until it travels to Charlottetown and back to these villages before it can be delivered, and then a reply must go back over the same course? Isn't it too late in the day to allow this to continue?

A very nice court house is built here. Its surroundings present a sorry spectacle. A man was paid to sow seed and plant a few trees. He did so, and the grass grew and the trees started into new life. The necessity for a fence to protect the grass and trees was pointed out at the time through your columns—a necessity any person with half an eye could have seen. How is it now? The trees are broken by cows running away from children on their way to pasture. Sheep laid on the grass and nibbled it away as it grew. The cost of grass and trees is stupid waste, for want of five minutes thought and push enough to put a fence up. Promises for the removal of encumbrances adjoining the Court house have been made. This is a gentle reminder.

Mr. Editor, the foregoing may smack of growling. It is growling, perhaps, but at what's wrong; and the object is to get fair play for King's County and have things, when they are done, well and decently done.

The Town Assessors have had quite an extent of plank sidewalk placed down and deserve praise for their enterprise.

The Doctrinal Errors of the Salvation Army Exposed.

THERE having been several false reports in circulation as to the cause of my leaving the Salvation Army, and having been requested to give to the public the true cause of my separation from them, I have done so in a little book entitled, "The Doctrines of the Salvation Army and the Bible compared, or why I left the Salvation Army."

This little book goes to show that the Salvation Army, like Israel of old, in "going about to establish their own righteousness, and not submitting themselves to the righteousness of God" (Rom. 10, 3), have in reality missed salvation in spite of all their zeal and professed holiness.

In this little book we have given the opinions of such men as Luther, Melancthon, Calvin, Tyndale, Bunyan, Wesley, Chalmers, McCheyne, Bonar and some others, who all coincide in denouncing the teachings of the Salvation Army on the doctrine of justification, and agree in upholding the doctrine of justification by imputed righteousness, the doctrine that Mrs. Booth terms "a cheat of the devil," and which the General also denounces in the strongest terms.

This little book shows that, on the doctrine of Sanctification, the reasoning of General Booth and his votaries is of the most fallacious and ridiculous kind, and void even of common sense itself. They even admit that it is not possible for man to keep God's perfect law and yet maintain that he can live without sin. Such nonsense! when God's Word tells us plainly that "Sin is the transgression of the law" (1st John, 3:4).

In addition to the two chapters on "Justification" and "Sanctification," there is a short chapter on each of the following subjects, viz., "The Lord's Supper," "Baptism," "Silver Collections" and "Swearing in Soldiers," each of which goes to show that the Salvation Army, instead of taking God's Word as their guide, have followed the whims and fancies of their arrogant and self-conceited leader, who in reality sets himself up to be higher authority than God's Word, and who takes upon himself to dictate to the world what commands of the Lord Jesus are binding and what ones obsolete.

The doctrinal errors of the Salvation Army are more baneful and soul-destroying than its financial errors can possibly be, hence we have enlarged on the subject of "Justification," and have tried to show the public the fearful effects of mixing up works with salvation, even in the smallest degree.

We feel assured that an impartial and intelligent public, by reading this book will be convinced that we have been charged with motives for leaving the Salvation Army, that we never for a moment entertained. In this respect we share the same fate as other ex-Salvationists.

With the firm conviction that truth will prevail, and with a fervent desire to communicate to others the joy that we have been made partakers of, and wishing to tear down a system of religion that is only deceiving and deluding mortals, and building them up in an unholyness of the darkest and most hateful kind in the sight of God, we present this little book to the public, praying that to them it may be a lasting benediction.

This little book can be purchased for a trifling sum at the bookstore of Theo. L. Chappelle, Esq., Queen Street, and several other of the leading bookstores in the Dominion.
