MR. AND MRS. W. WEATHERBIE AND ATTENDANTS

Wed At Holy Redeemer Will Live In This City

The church of the Most Holy Redeemer was the scene of a lovely wedding on August 20 at 9 o'clock when Elizabeth Helen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Roberts, became the bride of William Peter son of Mr. and Mrs. William Weatherbie. The doubl ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Moreau who also celebrated the Nuptial Mass. Rev. Harold Croken, Kinkora, was present in the sanctuary.

Mr. Alex McLean was organist and Mr. Frank MacIntyre sang hymns during the ceremony. Serving the mass were the bride's cousins, Rupert and Francis Phelan. The church was beautifully decorated with a variety of cut flowers and the guest pews were marked with bows of satin ribbon.

The bride who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Leonard Roberts, Kinkora, looked lovely in a gown of white tissue faille with lace trim, tight fitted bodice featuring a sabrina neckline, full hooped skirt with sleeves tapering to points over the hand. Her finger tip veil of tulle illusion was held in place by a lace and seed pearl pill box and she carried a bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Louis H. Doyle, cousin of the bride, was matron of honor. She chose a strapless gown of lace and net in yellow with bolero and matching poke bonnet headdress and carried a nosegay of mixed flowers. Miss Austina Roberts and Mrs. Lorne Roberts, sister and sister-in-law of the bride, were bridesmails, and wore identical gowns of lace and net in pastel shades of pink and blue. They wore matching poke bonnet headdresses and carried bouquets of mixed flowers.

The winsome little flower girl was Miss Vina Phelan, cousin of the bride. She wore a blue nylon dress with matching bonnet and carried a basket of summer flowers.

Mr. Ralph Weatherbie was best man for his brother. The ushers were Mr. Lorne Roberts and Mr. George Weatherbie.

The bride's mother chose for her daughter's wedding a printed terryline dress with blue accessories. Her corsage was red carnations. The groom's mother wore a nylon dress of powder blue with navy duster and pink accessories. Her corsage was pink carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Queen Hotel for 70 guests. The bride's table was centered with a three tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom. The toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. Father Moreau and was fittingly responded to by the groom, Mr. Ralph Weatherbie proposed the toast to the bridesmaids.

Following the reception the bride and groom left on a motor tour of the Maritime provinces, the bride travelling in navy blue and white dress and duster ensemble with matching accessories and corsage of red roses.

Prior to her marriage the bride was tendered a shower by her girl friends at the home of Mrs. Arnold Moore, Dorchester St., Mr. William Weatherbie, also entertained at a miscellaneous shower in her honour. At both showers the bride received many beautiful gifts which testify to her popularity.

Captain And Mrs. Acland Return From Trip Abroad

Captian H. Vivian Acland and Mrs. Acland of Kelowna, B.C., have returned from a most enjoyable and interesting trip abroad. Mrs. Acland was the former Miss Inez Mutch, a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Mutch, Captain Acland, a native of Dorchester, England, came to Canada in 1908.

Captain and Mrs. Acland arrived at the port of Liverpool. Their first stop was in London where they stayed at the Royal Hospital in Chelsea. Here they were the guests of Major General Nigel Duncan and Mrs. Duncan. The latter is a sister of Captain Acland. Major-General Nigel Duncan is the lieutenant-governor of the Royal Hospital which is a home for service pensioners. The hospital was founded on which he and his family lived by Charles the Second. Tradition has it that Nell Gywnne moved the King to build the hospital. It is more possible that the idea originated with Sir Stephen Fox, who had been paymaster general to the forces. Sir Christopher Wren was the architect.

The building was completed in 1692. Pensioners eligible for admission must be 55 years old and in receipt of either a service, disability or campaign service. These colorful figures as they move around London in their scarlet jackets replete with medals are in themselves tourist attractions and very much photographed in Trafalgar Square. There are around 600 at a time at the hospital. The Great Hall last year was the scene of a banquet at which men from all services were present. Her Majesty the Queen attended on this occasion. At the time London Illustrated carried beautiful pictures of this momentous affair. Major-General Duncan C.B., C. B.E., D.S.O., was an authority on the construction and operation of tanks during the last war.

The next visit was to Dorchester to the home of Lieutenant-General Arthur Floyer - Acland and Mrs. Floyer-Acland. The former a brother of Captain Acland.

The visitors then came on to Devon and visited Captain Acland's sister and brother-in-law, Captain and Mrs. Dyke-Acland In Plymouth, Mrs. Acland called at the library and through library records was able to look up the Wise family who had come from Devonshire to P.E.I. The late Mrs. R. E. Mutch had kept records of the Wise family from 1910 and completed the Canadian records in 1956. The original Wise home, Sydenham Manor, in the parish of Marystowe dates back to 1100. It is now a school for girls and is known as Glendower School for Girls. At the time of Cromwell part of this stately residence was destroyed. In 1937 when some renovation was being done on the house a tree was discovered growing in one of the great walls. It was said that this tree had been growing there since the Battle of Agincourt.

After Devonshire visit the travellers came again to Dorset where they visited with Captain Acland's first cousin and his wife, Sir Gilbert Acland-Troyte, and Lady Acland Troyte, Captain Acland's father, had been curator of the Dorset County Museum after his retirement from the service. The property was over a Roman villa. As a child Captain Acland used to find Roman coins and other Roman relics and give them to the museum in Dorchester. As a momento of her visit the museum gaveMrs. Acland sufficient coins to make a valuable bracelet.

After the visit with relatives Captain and Mrs. Acland continued their travels to many other parts of the British Isles. They returned to Canada on the Ivernia arriving in Montreal. They are at present guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Worth and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. MacNeill. They will return to Kelowna in about ten days time.

BLOUSE LINES

Shown here is what promises to become quite a favorite — the new length weater blouse. This reaches just to the waistline and the hem is turned under, given an unpressed look to the bottom. The fabric for this one is medium green worsted jersey. The skirt is of a deeper tone tweed with the new double-breasted skirt treatment. It's a wrap-around with patch pockets.

OBSERVES 98th BIRTHDAY

On Friday afternoon there was a gala and joyous gathering of many friends at the residence of Dr. and Mrs. W.J.P. MacMillan. They came to celebrate the 98th birthday of Mrs. MacMillan's mother, Mrs. Hugh S. MacDonald, one of her sisters, Mrs. Minnie Horton and her son Willard driving from Boston for the event. Many friends assembled to congratulate Mrs. MacDonald on her 98th birthday. Mrs. MacDonald's health is excellent, and her memory is wonderful. She can give day and date for so many events in the past three quarters of a century especially individual names all of which makes Mrs. MacDonald a most interesting conversationalist.

LET'S EAT

Appetizing Food Makes A Very Pretty Picture

By IDA BAILEY ALLEN

"It's not only the high cost and fine quality of food, the skillful seasoning or the way it is cooked that matters. To produce a successful meal, the food must look appetizing.

"Par example, madame, in arranging cold cuts and relishes for luncheon, I would choose a very large platter." observed the chef.

"I would cover two-thirds with well-chilled, thin sliced cold cuts such as liverwurst and ham bologna, with the cellulose casing removed.

FOLD SLICES

"Fold over the slices to make half-moons. Use liverwurst for the centre, garnish with parsley. Place the folds of ham bologna to fill in the section on each side. Separate with rolls of cervelat filled with stuffed olives.

"Circle the remaining third of the platter with sliced tomato and fill in with short stalks of celery stuffed with cream cheese. Garnish with crisp radishes. Serve with a choice of pickle-relish, horser a d i s h, mayonnaise and table mustard blended with ketchup and spooned in paper souffle cups. Arrange dark and light bread slices for color contrast on a bread tray and serve coffee and assorted fresh fruits.

"The results will be a beautiful study in color and arrangement."

Sunday dinner: Garden salad bowl, braised brisket of beef, sauce piquante, parslied potatoes, basiled beets, peach shortcake or watermelon, hot or iced coffee or tea, milk. All measurements are level recipes proportioned to serve 4 to 6.

Sauce piquante: Combine 3 tbsp. undiluted evaporated milk and ½ c. fine enriched bread crumbs. Add ½ c. prepared horse-radish, 1 tbsp. tomato ketchup and ¼ tsp. salt. Let stand 10 min. or longer.

Fold into ½ c. frosty-cold undiluted evaporated milk whipped stiff.

Serve at once with hot or cold braised or boiled beef, tongue or fish.

Orange zabaglione: Beat 5 egg yolks slightly in the top of a deep 1 qt. double-boiler. Add 1-3 c. sugar, 2 tsp. grated orange rind, 1 tbsp. lemon or lime juice and ¾ c. Florida orange juice. Cook and beat over boiling water until thick and fluffy like whipped cream. Remove from the hot water at once. Beat 2 egg whites until stiff; beat in the orange custard. Chill. Serve in sherbet or parfait glasses. Also nice over sliced fresh peaches.

Cooking parmigiana: To prepare authentic veal cutlet, eggana," which means in the style of Parma, Italy, it is traditional to use Mozzarella cheese. But this is not always available. In the test kitchen we use creamed cottage cheese instead — delicious!"

Tomorrow's dinner: Pickled shrimp — lettuce garnish, fish steaks Parmigiana, p a r s l i e d potatoes, l e m o n i z e d carrots, Bartlett pears or raspberry sherbet, hot or iced coffee or tea, milk.

Fish steaks Parmigiana from the chef: Brush individual fish steaks with salad oil and lemon juice. Dust with salt, pepper and monosodium glutamate. Broil as usual. When nearly done spread lightly with seasoned tomato sauce, grated sharp cheese, then with c r e a m e d cottage cheese. Continue to broil until lightly browned.

ELLEN'S DIARY

We Shall Greet Those Daffodils In Springtime

WE SHARE GREET

"These nice days remind me of the harevst weather we used to get in the West" Mr. C. from the house on the hill, commented yesterday in a Sunday call at Alderlea. "Not quite so hot in the day perhaps, nor cool in the evenings. At sundown there we would look for our jackets — yes and sometimes a sweater too, and wear them comfortably."

It was evident that the Island harvest - tide was returning him memories of those trips on The Excursion westward, that he in his boyhood much enjoyed.

"Would you like to go again?" James asked.

"Not to work. Only to see the changes the years have brought there. The horses of the harvest-fields. . . on the place where I worked, we used six teams hauling stooks to the thresher. . . are gone now. Everything mechanized-combines now and trucks. Quite a change" he offered.

But the harvest-weather would remain the same and wide reaches of burnished gold mark the range of the wheatlands. Harvest-weather, sunny, pleasant, and as n e w as the workaday week they entered, favored our farmers gathered this morning to Rob's again to the cares of the threshing; to be a little disappointed when afternoon-showers called a halt to the work" when only another field remained to be cleared."

"More rain, more rest!" we chuckled to a farmer who came to the yard in a shower.

"That's all very well, Ellen" he smiled. "But no matter the rest — the work's still there to be done!"

And it is Sunday piglets we have, if not to be exactly "fair of face" as are Sunday-born babes, to make an interesting and attractive family group cuddled in young content in the sty.

So showers we have. To brighten the new green of the aftermath, to freshen pastures. . to tuck warmly in an earthy bed, the daffodils we planted when a veil of damp was coming on to Alderlea from the already misted distant hills.

"What color?" a curious watching sparrow asked.

"Yellow" we replied patting down blanket and covers.

"Nice" he twinkled. "To my way of thinking there's no prettier sight than to see in the Spring sunshine or" he nodded "a shower . . . . . how was it the poet put it — he that wandered lonely as a cloud that floats on high o'er vales and hills?' William Wordsworth, that was. . Oh yes, I have it now" he smiled "a host of golden daffodils."

"No host of them here — no 'ten thousand — at a glance" we chuckled.

"Well a few. . . yes even one can make a gay spot of color in early Spring. . . but there! The rain's here. Guess we'll have to bid adieu" he laughed a happy little laugh "for the present. Shall we say until we meet again?

And the first day of another harvest - time week goes now amied rainfall. Far and ever away.

Until tomorrow — — — Diary — Goodnight. . . .

MORNING SMILE

At the breakfast table, a young businessman was telling his wife about the dinner he had attended the night before.

"After one of the speakers finished" he said, "the chairman offered a silk hat to any guest who could swear that during his married life he had never kissed any woman but his wife"

"Do you know, dear," he marvelled. "Not one single man stood up."

"Why didn't you?" his wife demanded.

"Oh darling," came the reply. "You know I look terrible in a silk hat."

My nerves were that bad the least little thing set me off. I was irritable, tense, easily depressed, and I slept badly. And as if that wasn't enough, I'd get indigestion.

Overweight Exercises Are Mostly Simple At First

By IDA JEAN KAIN

If your weight is far above normal, strenuous exercise is not recommended until you have lost part of the excess. When the system is already burdened with fat, vigorous exercise imposes further strain on the body. However, this does not mean all exercise is out. Corrective conditions to tone and strengthen the muscles of the abdominal wall are essential, particularly as fat is being removed.

Reason this way: As the fat which infiltrated between the mustle strands is absorbed and utilized for energy, the abdominal muscles must be strengthened. Otherwise the vital organs that have been partly bolstered by fat tend to sag and crowd each other, impairing health generally.

For heavyweights, corrective exercises must be simple and taken from a position which prevents strain. Almost anyone can take these tone-ups, but if there is any doubt as to whether or not you should exercise, ask your doctor about them.

Position: Lying flat on back, knees bent, soles of feet flat on floor.

UP-AND-IN

Movement: The exercise is simply to pull upandin, starting with the lower abdominal muscles and continuing the upward pull until the small of the back is pressed flat against the floor. Hold, slowly release. Repeat slowly six times.

Position: Same as in first exercise, lying on back, knees bent feet apart soles on floor.

Movement: By muscular effort, fully expand the abdominal wall as high as comfortable, without strain, and then vigorously contract those muscles, by pulling firmly up-and-in. Do not hold your breath, just breathe naturally. Repeat exercise ten times, twice daily.

Finish with an anti-gravity exercise . . . it's easier than it sounds. The equipment needed is a straight dining chair, without arms.

Position: Lying on back on floor with hips close to side of chair, legs resting across seat o chair, arms down at sides.

Movement: Lift hips up to straight line (do not arch back) and stretch arms back on floor overhead. Hold . . . lower. Repeat three to six times. Rest in this position, feet on chair.

HOUSEHOLD HINT

If you have an automatic washer, be sure that water pressure in your house is 15 pounds at the tap. This can be checked by your local water department. If the pressure is lower, allow time for longer washing cycle.
