LEGISLATIVE SUMMARY.

SATURDAY, April 10.

On motion of the Hon. Mr. Haviland that the Bill to amend the Unfortunate Debtors Act be read a third time, Mr. Cameron moved in amendment that it be read that day three months.

Hon. Mr. Haviland protested against the course pursued by the hon. member from Strathalbyn (Mr Cameron), and said that it was not usual to raise objections to any bill in its last stages. The principles of the bill were already fairly contested when the petition to amend the law in question was before the House, and also when the bill was in Committee on the second reading.

Mr. Cameron said he opposed the raising of the jurisdiction of the Court from the first, and he claimed the right to record his vote against the measure.

Mr. Brecken expressed his disapproval of the course taken by the hon member (Mr Cameron) whom he accused of bad taste and unfairness, in taking objections at that last stage of the proceedings.

Mr. P. Sinclair.—The motion made by his hon colleague (Mr. Cameron) was constitutional and the rebuke of the hon. member Mr. Brecken was uncalled for.

Hon. Mr. Haviland said that the exercise of constitutional rights was not always expedient. The opposition, if disposed to act on similar principles with the hon. member (Mr. Cameron) might throw a good many obstacles in the way of Government measures, and impede the business of the session.

Mr. Cameron said he had no desire to provoke unnecessary discussion, and when the motion was made to pass the Bill, he merely made a counter motion to it, upon which a division might be taken without any renewal of debate on the merits of the Bill.

Hon. Attorney General disapproved of the course pursued, and said that though he was not in favor on the principle of raising the jurisdiction of the Court from £100 to £300 yet being unavoidably absent at the second reading, he would not at that late stage offer any opposition to the Bill.

Hon Mr McAuley.—It was preposterous to attempt to nullify the decision of the House by such an unusual procedure.

Hon. Mr. Howlan observed that the sum of £300 was adopted as a compromise between the lower sum of £100, and the higher £500 as first contended for. The question was fairly tested in Committee, and any discussion at that stage tended only to retard the business of the House.

Hon Mr Henderson said that when the third reading of the Bill was moved, it was in confidence of fairness on the part of the House, and not anticipating that any advantage would be taken on the question at its last stages.

Hon Mr. Davies said the object was not to take any unfair advantage of the measure, but to place on the Journals a division on the question.

Mr. Prowse said that the Act of last Session, to which the Bill in question was an amendment, to a certain extent encouraged swindling; plausible parties could get credit, and then defy the parties from whom they received goods.

Mr. Cameron said the Bill in question would, according to the argument of the hon. member (Mr Prowse), be an inducement to swindling on a larger scale, to the exclusion of the poorer classes.

Mr. McMillan hoped that advantages such as that now attempted on the Bill, would not be taken by Unfortunate Debtors against their Creditors.

Hon Mr Coles said the question was fairly debated in Committee, and he was of the same opinion with the Hon Attorney General as to the impropriety of taking exception to the Bill at its last stages.

Mr Arsenault alluded to a young man doing a small business in his District, who had recently applied for a white-wash, under the protection of the Unfortunate Debtor's Court, and were it not for that Court, the same young man might face his difficulties in a more honorable way.

Mr Ramsay said that he had learned that the person alluded to by Mr Arsenault, had continued to get goods at his establishment since he (Mr Ramsay) left home to attend his place in that House.

The question was then put, and the House divided on Mr Cameron's motion, which was negatived on the following division, viz:—

Yeas—Messrs. Cameron, McNeill, Kelly, Callbeck, Davies, Laird, Dr. Jenkins, Peter Sinclair, G. Sinclair—9.

Nays—Hons Messrs. Haviland, McAuley, Col. Secretary, Henderson; Messrs. MacCormack, Kickham, Reilly, Arsenault, Ramsay, Green, McMillan, Prowse, Howat, Owen, Brecken, Bell—16.

Mr. P. Sinclair presented the Report of the Committee on new Roads. Ordered that the House go into Committee of the whole on said Report on Monday next.

Hon. Atty. General presented a Bill relating to the terms of the Supreme Court of his Island.

Ordered to be read a second time on Monday next.

House in Committee of the whole on the Revenue Bill.

Mr. G Sinclair in the Chair.

After some time spent in Committee, progress was reported. No alteration, was made excepting the raising the duty one per cent. on all goods heretofore subject to 10 per cent. Considerable discussion took place relative to the proposition of a duty on fish barrels imported into this Colony, with the view of protecting home manufactures. No change, however, was agreed to. The propriety of reducing the duty on Tin and Sheet Iron, as prayed for in the petition of certain mechanics, also received attention during the discussion, but was not agreed to, on the ground that but little competition by importers was given to those engaged in Tinware manufacturing. Kerosene Oil imported in future to be subject to inspection as in other Colonies.

House adjourned.

MONDAY, April 12.

House in Committee on the Revenue Bill Mr. G. Sinclair in the Chair.

After some further discussion touching the propriety of protecting home made Barrels, by imposing a duty on the imported article, the Bill was reported agreed to. The only important alteration being the addition of one per cent. on goods hitherto liable to a duty of 10 per cent.

Hon. Att'y General presented a memorial addressed to His Honor the Administrator of the Government in Council, from the lawyers of Charlottetown, praying for the adoption of such measures as may lead to the passing of a law for the appointment of an additional Judge of the Supreme Court of this Island. Also, a petition from divers inhabitants of Prince County, praying for the appointment of a third Judge.

On motion of the Hon. Att'y. General, it was then

Resolved, that to-morrow the House go into Committee, to take into consideration the question relating to a third Judgeship. Ordered, that the memorial and petition referred to, be presented to the House in Committee on that subject.

House in Committee on the Bill relating to the terms of and proceedings in the Supreme Court.

Mr. P. Sinclair in the Chair.

Hon. Attorney General explained the nature of the Bill,—setting forth that it contemplated making provision for the continuance of any term of the Supreme Court, for the purpose of completing the hearing of any suit entered upon after the expiration of the days limited for the term. The postponement and rehearing of such cases, as the law now stood, were, he said, attended with great expense and delay to jurors, witnesses and suitors. After some discussion touching the mode of appointing jurors, the Bill was reported agreed to.

House in Committee on the Bill to secure Telegraphic Communication.

Mr. Reilly in the Chair.

Hon Att'y General reviewed the negotiations entered into last autumn, for the renewal of Telegraphic Communication with the continent. The Bill provides that a subsidy of £600 a year, Island currency, be paid to the New York, Newfoundland and London Telegraph Company, for the purpose of keeping up and maintaining Telegraphic Communication, as set forth in said Bill. The monopoly granted the Telegraph Company under the provisions of the Bill, will cease at any time that said Company may fail to fulfil their obligations, by virtue of the Bill.

Hon. Attorney General expressed the hope that the Telegraph Lines would shortly be extended to Georgetown and Souris, and that Telegraph Offices would be opened in all the principal towns and villages of the Island. The extension of Telegraph Communication to Cascumpec was owing principally to the assiduity of the hon. member for that place (Hon. Mr. Howlan,) whose laudable exertions relative to that enterprise merited the thanks not only of his constituents, but also the general commercial public.

Mr. Howat hoped that provision would be made to secure for the Winter Mail Couriers the privilege of telegraphing, free of charge, the Mail movements across the Straits and to Charlottetown.

Hon. Attorney General was not aware that Telegraphic Messages concerning the Mails were charged to the Mail Couriers at Cape Traverse.

Mr. Howat said it would be well to prevent the possibility of such charges being made against the Mail Contractors alluded to.

Hon. Mr. Howlan said he would like to see Telegraph lines extended to Georgetown as well as Cascumpec, and when the people of the former place would provide poles, &c., as did the inhabitants of the latter, he had no doubt that the Telegraph Company would open an office at Georgetown as they have agreed to do at Cascumpec. He then spoke of the great advantages arising from Telegraphic Communication. Merchants, Shippers, and, in fact, business men of every kind felt the importance of the Telegraph Wire, and he hoped the day was not far distant when telegraphic messages would flash over the wires east and west all over the Colony.

Hon. Mr. Laird said that the people of Crapaud village were very desirous of having an office opened in that place, and as the expense consequent upon such an office would be but very trifling, he hoped an office would be secured at Crapaud.

Mr. McNeill—The fishing interests at Rustico was rapidly increasing; a Telegraph Office at that place would place fishermen at once in possession of the price of Mackerel abroad — information to them of no small importance.

Mr. P. Sinclair and Mr. Cameron severally spoke of the necessity of an office at Crapaud. The Telegraph lines already passed through that village, and all that was required was an office, the expense of which would be but very trifling.

Mr Prowse—It was well known that at Georgetown the navigation closed last and opened first of any other port on the Island. Her Majesty's War Steamers frequently entered that Harbor, and also large fleets of American vessels. These were facts which should convince hon members of the importance of establishing Telegraph Communication with Georgetown. If the matter was properly represented to the Telegraph Company, he believed they would open an office at Georgetown that would be found to pay.

Mr McMillan was in favor of extending Telegraphic Communication to Georgetown. Large vessels entered that Harbor late in the fall, and much of the business of the Colony was concentrated at Georgetown when the other harbors were closed with ice. He also alluded to the propriety of causing a survey of the propable cost of a Railroad from Summerside to Georgetown, as prayed for in a petition, numerously signed and laid before the Government. The day was not far distant when the construction of that Railroad would not be veiwed as an impracticable question. If, said he, we are to be confederated, as was the opinion of some, would it not be wise to enter upon the preliminaries necessary to the construction of a Railroad, and thereby be prepare for a work which it would be the imperative duty of the Dominion Government to complete.

Hon Mr Henderson regretted that both representatives of Georgetown happened to be absent during the discussion before the Committee. But the interests of Georgetown were sufficiently important to speak for themselves, and as his Honor the Attorney General represented a District of which Georgetown was the capital in the County, he hoped that the importance of that place would not be forgotten. The electric fluid of the telegraph might start into new life and vigor the vitality of Georgetown.

Hon Mr Davies also spoke of the necessity of extending Telegraphic Communication to Georgetown, the Harbor of which was of the first importance to the shipping interests of the Colony.

Hon. Mr. Callbeck said that late in the shipping season Georgetown was resorted by a large number of trading vessels, and a telegraph office would be of vast benefit to many. He hoped that the day was far distant when the telegraph lines would convey the unhappy news that the people of this Island had consented to join Canada.

Mr. Brecken—The Telegraph Company would not consent to open offices where the business was not of sufficient importance to pay the expenses of the office. There was, he said, a good deal of force in the views advanced by the hon member for Summerside (Mr McMillan). It would indeed become the duty of the Government to prepare for the construction of the railroad alluded to, and also undertake other Public Works of importance when the conviction would force itself on the public mind that we must yield to the logic of events by being confederated. If these Public Works were thus commenced by our local Government, it would devolve on the Dominion Government to carry out their completion, in the event of the Island forming a part of that Dominion.

His Honor the Speaker said the gratitude of the people of Georgetown was due to the hon member (Mr McMillan) for his support of their claims touching Telegraphic Communication. The late and early shipping of the port of Georgetown commended itself to the best attention of all who desired to forward the commercial interests of the Colony.

The Bill under consideration was then reported agreed to.

House adjourned.

TUESDAY, April 13.

Hon. Mr. Laird presented the Report of the Stock Farm Committee, which was received and read.

Hon. Mr. Davies referred to the fact that some 700 Cavalry Horses were shortly to be sold at St. John, N. B., some of which were high bred mares; at sales of that kind he thought better horses could be obtained than those imported from England, and at a cheaper rate. He wished to know if the Stock Farm Committee had any intention of purchasing at the sale referred to.

Hon Mr Laird said the Committee had no funds at their disposal with which to buy extra stock, and if they had, he questioned the judiciousness of doing so. The sale referred to afforded a good opportunity for private enterprise, to which the Government should leave the matter.

Hon. Mr. Howlan did not consider it advisable for the Government to buy horses at sales like that alluded to. Horses sold in that way might look well, and yet be broken down. He was, however, of opinion, that horses bred on the American Continent were more suited to our climate than those imported from Europe.

House in Committee on new Roads.

Mr. McNeill in the Chair.

Petitions praying for the opening of New Roads were agreed to, and recommended to be opened as provided for by statute, as follows, viz:

From Little Hill, Lot 37, along Charles Kelly's land, to the Pisquid Road, and from thence to the road from Lot 66 to the Cardigan Road. From Georgetown Common, to Burnt Point. From Wightman's Mills to Peter's Road. On line between John T. Murphy's and Patrick McKenna's, Lot 22. From Fraser's farms to McMullin's Mills, Lot 21. From the Main Road to the site of a new Wharf near Mount Stewart Bridge. From Anderson's Road to John's Road, Lot 31. From Lots 14 and 16 to Kent's Cross, in accordance with Survey and Plan. From Appin Settlement to Melville Road. From Orwell Cove Road to the Shore of Port Rae Lot 57. From Hill River to the Dock and Western Road. From Montague Bridge to Murray River, terminating at Burnt Point Bridge. From Robert Symonds to the County Line Road.

The Petition of inhabitants of Lots 41 and 42, touching a Road from Big Cape to O'Hanley's. Also the Petition of Inhabitants of Lot 17, asking for a New Road from J. Darby's to Miscouche, were severally referred to the New Board of Works.

Petitions from Inhabitants of Lot 63, of Souris, of North Side Enmore River, of Lots 7 and 4, and of Lots 5 and 6, all praying for money grants. Referred to the members for the districts.

Mr. Prowse remarked on the petition touching the road from Wightman's Mills to Peters's Road, and said that as that Road would be partly through Government Land, the cost of opening it in the direction pointed out, would not be much. A commission should be appointed to report on cost of said Road, and best site for it.

Hon. Mr. Henderson spoke of the great service that road would be to the people.

Hon Col. Secretary said the land at Burnt Point was cut up in small building Lots by the owner, and sold to different persons, who now came to the Government asking for a road to their property.

Hon. Mr. McAulay desired hon. members to bear in mind the fact that the people in the locality referred to were to be taxed at the rate of £1 17s 6½ per hundred acres. He could not see the justice of taxing people for lands to which they had no access.

Hon. Mr. Davies knew the locality referred to, and was in favor of the road as asked for.

Mr. P Sinclair—The people should look to the owner of the land, who cut it up into small plots that he might get a higher price. It was his duty to provide a road to the lands sold by him.

Hon Mr McAulay—Surely any person holding property had a right to dispose of it in such portions and on what terms he thought proper without the interference of the Government.

Mr Prowse — The cost of the road was estimated at £30, and the people have agreed to make up one half that sum.

Hon Mr Haviland—If the theory advanced by his Honor the Colonial Secretary, and supported by the hon member Mr P. Sinclair, was carried out, most petitions for new roads would be disregarded. As the necessity of such roads arose from the fact that proprietors had not laid off roads where required.

House in Committee of Ways and Means.

Mr McMillan said he was glad to see the grant submitted to pay the keeper of Summerside Post Office, but thought it was small and not more than one-half what it should be for that service. He hoped, however, it would be doubled next Session.

Mr Prowse regretted that an additional salary was not provided for the Postmaster at Murray Harbor South. He spoke of the late hour in the night at which the mails arrived at that office twice a week, and the extra trouble thereby given to that officer who, had for many years, under different Governments, held his office to the satisfaction of all parties.

Hon Mr Henderson also pressed the claims of the officer alluded to, and said that in all fairness, his small allowance should be increased.

Hon Mr Laird referred to other Postmasters in the country, whose claims to an additional salary were equally strong with those of the officer alleged to by the members from Murray Harbor. If, therefore, any change were made, all should be made the recipients of like favors.

Mr Brecken remarked on the claims the Fire Department had on the Government of the Colony. The Colonial Building, and all other Government property in the City, was as liable to accident by fire as any of the private dwellings of citizens, and was equally dependent on the exertions of the Fire Department. The Steam Fire Engine cost the City a large sum of money, a great portion of which was made up by private subscription. He regretted that the grant was not at least £150, and hoped his Honor the Attorney General would yet make it at least that sum.

Dr Jenkins supported the claims the Fire Department had on the Government, and urged the propriety of a more liberal grant in aid of that Department. He then spoke of the manner in which the City had been deprived of its Common, and said that the Government farm was the property of the City.

Mr. Brecken said that if the Government property in the City was taxed at the same rate as that of private citizens, it would yield an annual income to the City Department of at least £500. Surely when £100 was granted for the stuffing of birds for a museum the grant to the Fire Department should be increased, even should the birds be left to fly for another year.

Hon Attorney General.—The grant to the Fire Department was doubled last Session, and not long ago £1000 was given towards the new Market House. He expressed his desire and readiness to advance the interests of the City in every possible manner, and did circumstances permit, would be happy to see the grant to the Fire Department increased.

House in Committee on the Report of the Committee on Public Accounts. Mr. Howat in the chair.

The report shows the Revenue received during the financial year ending 31st January 1869, to £83,391 9s 9d; the expenditure, £92,424 13s 1d; balance against the Colony £9033 3s 4d which, added to the balance of last year, shows the whole debt of the Colony, to be £138 502 18s.

The Revenue for the past year shows an increase over the previous year of £5365 11s.

The lands purchased by the Government up to this were 409,022 acres at a cost of £129,655. The receipts for Public Lands during the past year were £11,083 14s 9d. The Report recommended that for the future the accounts of the Land Office be separated and kept entirely apart from the ordinary Revenue and expenditure in order to show more accurately the financial position of the Colony. Hon members on both sides of the House concurred in the desirability of changing the mode hitherto pursued regarding the Land Office Accounts.

The value of the unsold lands in the hands of the Government should be shown in the Public Accounts and placed to the credit of Colony.

The suggestions contained in the report were adopted, and the Chairman reported the Report agreed to.

House in Committee on the question of appointing a Third Judge.

Mr Howat in the Chair.

Hon Attorney General submitted a Resolution to the effect that it was advisable to pass an Act authorising the appointment of an additional assistant Judge in the Supreme Court of this Island, and that the Salary of said Judge be £500 per annum.

A discussion followed during which similar arguments and views as were previously advanced on that question when in Committee on the Address in answer to His Honor's Speech at the opening of the Session, were again advanced by hon members.

The Resolution voting £100 towards the Whelan Memorial Fund elicited some debate.

Hon Attorney General wished it to be distinctly understood that this vote was not to be regarded as precedent for pension lists, but merely a small tribute of respect to the memory of one who had for many years occupied a seat in that House as one of the most talented of colonial statesmen. The sum thus granted was in aid of the fund raised by public contributions, towards the support of the widow and son of one who had devoted his life to the advancement of the best interests of the Colony.

Hon Mr Haviland (Leader of the Opposition) supported the vote under consideration, and reviewed the public career of the late Hon Edward Whelan, who was one of the brightest ornaments of the Liberal party in the Colony. He spoke of the fearless and patriotic manner in which, through the columns of the Examiner, he had opposed the doings of the Tenant League association when agitating the country. He did not stoop to tickle the fancy, nor pander to the prejudices of that organization. His advocacy of Confederation was the result of the honest conviction of his mind, and was not, therefore, deserving of censure. He, Hon Mr Haviland, entered public life about the same time with the late Mr Whelan, and though always occupying seats on opposite sides of that House, yet he felt much pleasure in paying a tribute of respect to departed worth by cordially seconding the Resolution of the Hon Attorney General.

Hon Colonial Secretary did not feel able to say all he could wish touching the labors of one who had always strenuously advocated the cause of the liberal party. He expressed his appreciation of the manly and generous sentiments advanced by the Hon Leader of the Opposition.

Hon Mr Duncan was of the opinion that the leading office-holders of the Liberal party, whom the late Mr Whelan had raised into place and power, should have contributed the sum asked for by the Resolution in question. He expressed his approval of the able manner in which that gentleman opposed the Tenant League movement, but he was wrong on Confederation.

Mr Kickham said that surely no hon member would condemn any public man for having committed one error in his whole public career.

Hon Mr Henderson alluded to the patriotism manifested by the late Mr Whelan, in his memorable speech in the year 1855, in support of the patriotic fund for the relief of the widows and orphans of those who fell in defence of liberty during the Crimean War. The deep sympathy, magnanimity, and generous feeling which characterised the noble sentiments expressed in that speech, had claims on one who might be considered as indirectly representing the Army in that House. He was therefore disposed to extend to the widow and son of that talented gentleman, the same support which he was ready to give to the orphans and widows of the noble Celts who fell on the battle fields of the Crimea.

Mr. Brecken reviewed the political career of the late Hon E. Whelan, whom he said was one of the first pioneers of liberal principles in the Colony. Viewing his valuable public services to the country, the mantle of oblivion should be thrown over his faults, and in token of an appreciation of the many noble efforts which he put forth in furtherance of the good of the country the resolution submitted should receive the hearty support of that House.

Mr. Howat felt that he would not be justified in giving his
