of the barn had been re- paired for $785.00. Al- together the Executive spent $2,714 and 96 cents on repairs on the Barn. In September of '76 the Council were quite upset that the Executive had spent more than their quota without the Council's permission. Each member of the Executive are al-

Councilors.

The Council also passed no summer pubs as the Union would be taking a risky financial venture. Accord- ing to Council, Radio CIMN will be unofficially closed for the summer, but radio personnel will be permitted to operate the Station under the discretion of the manager.

Controversy arose over the issue of the recent CUP

Conference held in Ottawa. Council had passed a motion at the last meeting that a member of the CADRE would attend the conference. The Executive of the Student Union had decided not to send a member. Their rea- sons were that the Student Union had not yet received a rebate from the last con- ference which was held in January in Vancouver. As Council were informed that this year's communi- cations Officer, Elisabeth Burke would resign as of the end of March.

Last summer the Student Union Executive hired four students to paint the trim- ming of the Barn. It cost the Student Union $2,200 $1,939 for labor and $146 for materials. The roof lowed to spend $150.00 which comes to a total of $750.

After much discussion the Council passed the motion that the painting and repairs of the Barn be left to the decision of the S.U. Executive, since there are no Council meetings over the summer and it is difficult to contact the

ARE COL. GRAY STUDENTS really doing a better job than the UPEI Student Union? It would seem that they are.

The Government's threat to raise the Legal drink- ing age from 18-19 years has caused a reaction at Col.-Gray. There, the students are upset at the scape goating of 18 year olds. They have picked four students to talk to the Government about alternate methods to control underage drinking. This is a school that has about 100 18 year old students. These students will be directly affected by this new legislation and have a say in Govern- ment as they are allowed to vote.

Meanwhile; at UPEI, aschool with at least 400 18 year olds, nobody is doing a thing. The Student Council, the body which represents the stu- dents in talks with the Government, have not even discussed the consequences of a law like this.

During the first semester there was much worrying about the 70 students who could'nt go to the Pig & Whistles due to their age. What will it be like next year if the Government succeeds with their plan? The loss in revenue alone should worry the Student Union let alone the social implications in- volved. What can be done?

The Student Council should talk to Government Of- ficials about the law. They should show what the students at UPEI think of such a law. Maybe they should even question the reasons a law like this was even brought up. They should definately persuade the Government to have an open meeting of the legislature with invitations to all 18 year olds to discuss this legislation.

It is sad to think that the students of Col. Gray are ahead of Univer- sity students. Hopefully, we'll see improvement in the future.

The Council on University Life, representing a broad cross-section of people on campus, has met several times this semester, and has dealt with a variety of inter- ests pertinent to the Uni- versity Community. To refr- esh your memory, this coun- cil was formed in the spring of 1975, and carried on meet- ings on a regular basis dur- ing the academic year 1975- 76. The Council's objuect- ive is to deal with matters pertaining to University Life, other than academic, and is to compliment Senate endeavours to enhance and deal with community concer- ns on campus. The group consists of people from Stu- dent Services, faculty, ad- ministration, presidential appointees, business office, student body representing the day students and resid- ence students, and student union.

The Council had some di- fficulty getting started this year, but since Christmas has met every second week, alternate to senate meetings. They have dealt with such topics as Residence Life, Student Clubs and Organizations, Faculty Advisor Program, Parking and Traffic Regul- ations, Cable Vision for the Residence, and Orienta- tion. Because of its repre- sentative nature, it is able to deal with a wide variety of topics, and in the proce- ss, co-ordinate and enhance many of the services on campus. It will recess at the end of this academic year, but will be back in operation early in September. If you have any areas of concern, that you think this body could handle, you are invited to forward them to the chairman Jim Griffith, Student Services.
