Boyd Returned To Penitentiary

OTTAWA (CP)—The National Parole Board announced Wednesday that Edwin Almon Boyd of Toronto is being returned to Kingston penitentiary as a hostile parolee and will continue serving a life sentence.

The former leader of the notorious Boyd gang of bank robbers had been released on parole Oct. 1 and an Ontario official said Tuesday he showed a complete lack of co-operation. The Ottawa Minister said there was a complete change of attitude from when he was in custody to when he was on parole and it was quite apparent that he was resentful of the direction and assistance given to him.

He was "now hostile" in Toronto, police said Boyd broke parole by "repeatedly assisting with a 16-year-old girl." They did not elaborate.
