Of Special Interest to our Farmers

Bacteria in Milk.

Bacteria in milk, which either favorably or unfavorably affects it and its products, is the lowest form of vegetable life. The milk can be a good deal like the farmer's field with respect to vegetable growth. Every farmer knows that unless he takes very good care of his fields they will be filled with weeds that not only possess no value of their own but are seriously injurious to those forms of vegetable life that are useful. Similarly bacteria vegetation exploits itself in the milk can. Unless you take care of the milk can those forms corresponding to the weed—that is the hurtful kind—will multiply immensely and destroy the usefulness of the milk and of the helpful kind of vegetation in it, whereas those that are helpful to the milk and its products must be carefully cultivated and the hurtful kind kept out.—Exchange.

Purifying Milk.

Our personal practice for some years in preparing milk for bottling showed conclusively that the passing of a current of cold pure air, washed in the way suggested, from every particle of dust or impurity, did have a good result, which was proved by the fact that milk is air washed, as we might say kept sweet, in the equally well prepared for four days longer than the un-aerated milk. This practical evidence of the advantage of proper aeration and cooling, by pure, cold air, goes to show that if well done, in a scientific manner, the aeration of milk is useful for this purpose at least; and if so, it may well be believed that it will be found useful for the butter-maker.—Country Gentleman.

The cheesemaker can make a pound of cheese from one-half pound less milk if the milk is promptly aerated and cooled by the farmer. At least $500 a year can be thus saved to a factory making up one million of pounds of milk and such cheese is better flavored, longer keeping, and higher priced.

1. Only the milk from cows in good health and apparent contentment should be used.
2. Until after the eighth milking it should not be offered to a cheese factory.
3. An abundant supply of cheap, succulent, easily digestible, wholesome nutritious food should be provided.
4. Pure cold water should be allowed, in quantities only limited by the cow's capacity and desire to drink.
5. A box, or trough, containing salt, to which the cows have access every day, is necessary for the keeping of cows profitably.
6. Cows should be prohibited from drinking stagnant, impure water. The responsibility for giving effect to that beneficial prohibition rests entirely with each individual farmer.
7. Cows should be treated with invariable kindness, and should not be driven fast.
8. All the vessels used in the handling of milk should be cleaned thoroughly immediately after their use. A washing in tepid or cold water, to which has been added a little soda, and a subsequent scalding with boiling water, will prepare them for airing, that they may remain perfectly sweet.
9. Cows should be milked with dry hands, and only after the udders have been washed, or brushed clean.
10. Tin pails only should be used.
11. All milk should be strained immediately after it is drawn.
12. Milking should be done, and the milk should be kept in a place where the surrounding air is pure, otherwise the presence of the tainting odours will injure the milk.

13. All milk should be aired immediately after it is strained. The treatment is equally beneficial to the evening and morning messes of the milk.

Neglect to air it will increase the quantity of milk required to make a pound of fine cheese.

It has been found to be impracticable to make strictly first class cheddar cheese from milk that has not been aerated.

14. In warm weather all milk should be cooled to the temperature of the atmosphere after it has been aired, but, not before.

15. Milk is better by being kept in small quantities over night, rather than in a large quantity in one vessel.

16. Milk stands should be constructed to shade the cans or vessels containing milk, as well as to shelter them from the rain. Swine should not be fed near the milking stand.

17. Only pure, clear, honest milk should be offered, and it should be paid for according to its quality and quantity.—Canadian Cheese and Butter Maker.

HIS NARROW ESCAPE

Mr. John N. Babcock's Experience With Doll's Kidney Pills

SHARPT LAKE, Ont., May 29.—No resident of this place is better known to the thousands of tourists and sportsmen who visit us annually than, is Mr. John N. Babcock.

Mr. Babcock has had many thrilling experiences, but the narrowest escape he ever had, he tells of in these words:—

"After twenty years of pain, caused by Gravel and other Kidney Complaints, I am pleased to be able to state that I have been completely cured by Doll's Kidney Pills. During these years I have spent hundreds of dollars for doctors and remedies, but only Doll's Kidney Pills helped me."
