35th Legion Convention Concluded At Kensington

KENSINGTON — Disagreements over finances and the endorsement of the property protection committee's report were the outstanding developments at the Saturday business sessions of the 35th annual convention of the P.E.I. Command, the Royal Canadian Legion, held in Kensington on Friday and Saturday.

Defeated were two resolutions evidently based on the premise that the Provincial Command is accumulating an unnecessarily large surplus; one resolution would have called for the Provincial Command to pay 50 per cent of the Island Command Centennial Fund commitment from surplus rather than the individual branches meeting the commitments. The other for a reduction in per capita tax by 50 cents per member in each case. Provincial Command executive spokesmen indicated that Provincial Command could not afford the expenditure or reduction in revenue the resolutions called for, and that the present financial leeway in handling the Command's affairs.

The Command's financial statement indicated that the command had a surplus for the year ended July 31 of $213,396. The balance sheet showed carryover from last year of $7,452.61, bringing the command's surplus to $9,936.99. The Honorary Treasurer, Andrew MacEachern, indicated in his report a surplus of $1,388 anticipated for the coming year. The Preliminary Property Protection Committee report recommended the passing of provincial legislation setting up boards of trustees to administer the assets of Legion branches or commands which are suspended due to the death of the members, the income from these assets to be administered for charitable purposes.

Baptist Retreat Is Big Success

Friday night's registration became the highest on record and entire attendance highest at the eighth annual Baptist men's retreat at Dalvay. Dr. Harold Mitton of Fredericton gave the evening meditation on what it means to be a Christian.

On Saturday, Doug Armstrong of Kingston, N.S., the retreat conference chairman welcomed all those who have come from all the Maritime provinces.

Fred Lloyd of Moncton led in gospel singing. Rev. Maurice Boillat of Mission La Bonne Nouvelle, Moncton, led in the devotions speaking on "our Choice in Living" stating that some lived in the past-some lived in the future-but living is now.

Dr. Mitton, whose main theme was Our Christian Vocation took for his first address, called to be Saints—God's Chosen People, stressing in five points that saints are different (set apart), dedicated, radiant, and Godly. His second address entitled—Chosen to be Priests, claimed that all believers are priests being servants of God, intercessors for others, guardians of the Sacred, and channels for God.

The third and final address of the evening, Challenged by the Revolutionaries, revealed by the Christian Church today does not have the impact upon the world as did the early church because (1) Church now exists for itself, (2) It is rigid in tradition, (3) It has lost its missionary fervor and (4) has forgotten the reason for its existence.

Mr. Boillat, in his afternoon devotions vividly set forth the Conditions of Giving which are as follows: (1) A willing heart, (2) Ability, and (3) sacrificial. Rev. Boillat's final devotion was given on Sunday morning entitled, Cost in Obedience and To Obey better than Sacrifice.

Mr. Boillat led the communion service on Sunday morning. Rev. Ross Howard, Charlottetown, led the sun rise service on the lawn at Dalvay. Singing was a major part of the Conference with the hymns going well into the night. Ralph Simmons, a noted negro tenor from Boston rendered solo after solo to the delight of everyone.

Echos of Dalvay were repeated in song and word at the Sunday evening service of the Charlottetown Baptist Church. Rev. Malcolm Harlow spoke on A Band of Men. Mr. Simmons sang I Won't Cross Jordan Alone, the Lord's Prayer and the special request Were You There When They Crucified My Lord. Two solos were sung by John Bears, Brooklyn. They were, In Times Like These You Need a Saviour and When Jesus Comes.
